PRESIDENT LISTS JOBS PLANS

U.S. NOW BIGGEST BANK WITH 9½ BILLIONS LENT

Liens Range from Crops to Ships.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The New Deal has approximately 4½ million loans aggregating 9½ billion dollars outstanding, giving it liens on homes, farms, railroads, ocean vessels, banks, farm crops, and a wide variety of other assets, a survey showed today.

Two score government agencies and divisions have been pouring out easy money loans during the last two years, the survey revealed, with the result that the government is the nation's biggest bank, holding mortgages on almost every type of goods.

Total loans which the government now has outstanding aggregate more than the assets of the half dozen largest banks in the country. The assets of the nation's biggest private bank amount to only one-third of the total government loans.

Higher Taxes Foreseen.

Besides giving the government virtual control over the lives of literally millions of citizens and hundreds of business undertakings, this vast outpouring of loans has raised the specter of higher taxes in the future. Most of the money which was loaned was borrowed in turn by the government. Taxpayers must make good this government borrowing regardless of how many defaulters crop up among private borrowers from the New Deal.

Open refusals to pay have already greeted some of the government lending agencies, although by far the largest part of the easy money loans have not yet matured. The Home Owners' Loan corporation, one of the biggest lenders, has already had to foreclose on borrowers who bluntly refused to meet their obligations to the government. HOLC foreclosures, for this and other reasons, total about 141 to date.

How much the government may lose on its vast lending operations under the New Deal and how much the taxpayers may eventually have to make good will not be known for two generations. Some of the New Deal loans will run for as long as 60 years.

Three Lead in Lending.

The big three in the New Deal lending spree have been the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Farm Credit administration, and the Home Owners' Loan corporation. In addition there have been many other minor units dishing out federal cash.

The RFC, while it has been the biggest lender, has also the best record in repayments to date. Out of 5 billion 400 million dollars it has lent the RFC has collected already 2 billion 700 million dollars, or approximately 50 cents on the dollar.

Banks have been the best of the RFC credit risks. They have repaid all but 538 million dollars of the 1 billion 843 million dollars which they got from the RFC in direct loans.

The RFC, however, still has liens on 2,515 banks, owns preferred stock in 8,300 banks, and also has liens on 64 railroads, 65 insurance companies, 1,000 industrial or commercial establishments, 333 mortgage loan companies, 229 building and loan associations, 84 public works projects, 69 drainage and irrigation districts, and various other enterprises. RFC loans have shipped wheat to Russia and cotton to China.

Pushes Government Control.

Government control of business to a limited degree has already been brought about by RFC loans. The RFC has foreclosed on and controls one railroad and public utility system. In addition it has openly used its preferred stock rights to dictate the affairs of at least two banks and one casualty company.

These RFC foreclosures on bad loans have pointed to the possibility that should any large scale defaulting take place the New Deal loans would land the country in state socialism. The government would be left in control of homes, farms, factories, railroads, banks, and virtually every important device in modern industrial life.

The Farm Credit administration, which ranks second to the RFC, has 2 billion 600 million dollars advanced to approximately 2,258,525 farmers or farm institutions. The FCA holds mortgages on more than 610,000 farms. It has poured out to farmers 629,500 "emergency" crop production loans and 747,626 loans and supplemental advances because of the drouth. Its total loans amount to approximately half of the entire farm income in 1934.

Has 847,000 Mortgages.

The HOLC, making only one type of loan, has taken over mortgages on 847,000 homes at a cost of 2 billion 555 million dollars. Its chairman, John

URGES PASSAGE OF 5 BILLS FOR ADDED CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight sketched for the country his plans for launching the 4 billion 880 million dollar work relief program. At the same time he called upon congress to pass five New Deal measures increasing government control over industry, banking, transportation, and utilities.

Seated before a microphone in his quiet White House study, the chief executive addressed the country in one of the most optimistic speeches he has made. He spoke of "our already unmistakable march toward recovery" and said that "Americans as a whole are feeling a lot better—a lot more cheerful than for many, many years."

Promises 3½ Million Jobs.

To complete what he believes is the nation's return to normal, the President pledged himself, first, to put to work 3½ million employable persons now on relief in "the most comprehensive work plan in the history of the nation," and, second, to press for the enactment of legislation which will carry on his New Deal.

He called upon congress especially to pass the old age and unemployment insurance bill, the NRA extension bill, the public utility holding company bill, the transportation control bill, and the banking bill. All of these measures involve the extension of government control over industry such as has marked the New Deal from its inception.

Although a battle of words has been raging on and off the radio concerning his administration, the President in his first broadcast in seven months paid only the slightest attention to his critics such as Senator Huey P. Long, the Louisiana dictator, and Father Charles E. Coughlin, the politician-priest.

Only One Veiled Thrust.

"The overwhelming majority of people in this country know how to sift the wheat from the chaff in what they hear and what they read," he said in his only veiled thrust. "They know that the process of the constructive rebuilding of America cannot be done in a day or a year, but that it is being done in spite of a few who seek to confuse them and to profit by their confusion."

His own plans for national recovery, he said, envisage, first, measures to relieve future unemployment and, second, to put employable persons now on relief to work.

"Our social security legislation is an attempt to answer the first of these questions, our work relief program the second," Mr. Roosevelt explained.

Six "fundamental principles" by which he will guide the work relief program for reëmploying 3½ million persons were listed by the President.

Demands "Clean Enterprise."

Projects must be useful, most of the money must go for labor, "a considerable proportion of the costs" must be returned to the treasury, only those projects which can employ persons on relief will be approved, and projects will be approved in a given area in proportion to the unemployed in that area.

Admitting that graft will creep into such vast and speedy spending as his program calls for, the President asked citizens to help him make this "the most efficient and cleanest example of public enterprise the world has ever seen" and thus to give "a smashing answer for those cynical men who say that a democracy cannot be honest and efficient."

As to the social security measure for old age and employment insurance, the President declared they were particularly important because "it is obvious that we cannot continue to create governmental deficits for that purpose [relief] year after year." The pension system, financed by new taxes, will take people off the dole, he said.

TEXT OF SPEECH

"Since my annual message to the congress on Jan. 4 last I have not addressed the general public over the air. In the many weeks since that time the congress has devoted itself to the arduous task of formulating legislation necessary to the country's welfare. It has made and is making distinct progress.

"Before I come to any of the specific measures, however, I want to leave in your minds one clear fact. The administration and the congress

Trade Leaders Want Political Doubts Ended

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—A report the nation "is closer to breaking the back of the depression" than at any time since recovery began was linked by organized manufacturers today to a demand for removal of political uncertainties.

Issued as hundreds of critically minded business men converged on the capital for the 23d annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, the economic analysis of the National Association of Manufacturers said:

"Surveys indicate that close to $20,000,000,000 in expenditures, which would give employment to 4,000,000 men for two years, is pent up in the field of factory expansion, renovation and rehabilitation alone.

Save Taxpayers' Money.

"The release of this flow of private capital by removing political uncertainties would dwarf the billions appropriated by congress for relief and make unnecessary the expenditure of much of the taxpayers' money."

Finding recovery "within our grasp," the association asked the temporary shelving—as a business stimulant—of such "disturbing" legislation as unemployment insurance, the omnibus banking bill, the utility holding company bill, the 30 hour work week, the Wagner labor disputes bill, the Guffey bituminous coal measure and proposed changes in railroad laws.

Some, if not most, of this group was expected to receive a heavy fire during the chamber's convention. Preliminary statements by committees already have sounded a keynote of opposition to the so-called intrusion of government into business.

Critic of Roosevelt Policies.

The convention will see the retirement of Henry I. Harriman, president for three years, who has advocated a middle-of-the-road policy, probably in favor of Harper Sibley, banker and large scale farmer of Rochester, N. Y. Sibley was credited with similar views, but associates regarded him as more critical of Roosevelt policies.

U. S. SHOWDOWN TODAY ON CRISIS IN STATE RELIEF

Horner to Promise 3% Sales Tax.

Gov. Henry Horner and Harry Hopkins, Federal Emergency Relief administrator, will meet in Washington today in a conference that is to determine whether or not unemployment relief, drastically curtailed in Cook county and throughout the state in the last week, will cease utterly at midnight tomorrow. Unless Mr. Horner and Mr. Hopkins reach some agreement under which the FERA provides funds at once a million persons dependent upon state and federal aid will have to rely wholly upon private charity.

Gov. Horner will ask in today's conferences that the FERA resume relief grants to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission upon the governor's assurance that this week the general assembly will increase the retailers' occupational [sales] tax from 2 to 3 per cent to supply the $3,000,000 a month which the government insists Illinois must contribute to maintain its unemployed. Government funds have been refused until the state contributes this share.

Expects Tax Bills to Pass.

Gov. Horner arrived in Washington from Chicago yesterday afternoon and immediately conferred with United States Senators Lewis and Dieterich. He told them he was confident of the passage of the sale tax measure on Wednesday at its final reading in the Illinois house of representatives. The governor will ask Administrator Hopkins to extend funds to the IERC until collections from the prospective increased tax can be turned over to the relief organization in compliance with the government's demand. Requirements for May are estimated at $14,000,000.

There have been indications that the FERA would not agree to this request. Administrator Hopkins warned Illinois officials six months ago that government relief grants would cease unless the state contributed its share. Since then Hopkins has referred to Illinois as "a pain in the neck" and has insisted that the next move is up to the legislature in Springfield.

Wind Up Tasks Tomorrow.

With federal funds exhausted and only limited moneys available from local welfare agencies and private charities, Illinois' $12,000,000 a month relief machine yesterday was slowing to a halt. All except a few essential employés of the state-wide force of 9,800 workers will be laid off tomorrow and at midnight, in virtually every county, relief activities will end.

As in Cook county, where the county commissioners have made available $1,200,000 for an additional ten days of essential direct relief, a few communities will be able for another week to provide the barest necessities to their dependents.

The hope that the government may alter its position today is based solely upon the assurance that the legislature will pass the 3 per cent sales tax bill and its companion measure, which would place public utilities under the sales tax. In Springfield there was no great optimism last night over the immediate enactment of the measures.

Status of Tax Bills.

The relief revenue bills passed the senate last week and tomorrow they will come up in the house for their second reading. The bills are expected to have little difficulty in mustering the 77 votes, a simple majority, required for advancement tomorrow to the final reading on Wednesday.

On passage, however, trouble is anticipated. With the emergency clause, passage of the bills requires a two-thirds majority, or 102 votes. With the 84 Democratic representatives divided on the measures, the administration will need 25 Republican votes to pass the legislation with the emergency rider.

Three weeks ago the administration was unable to rally a two-thirds majority for the same bills and it is deemed likely that the governor will have to be content with a simple majority of 77. With this vote the bills would not become effective until July 1, leaving the relief problems for the interim still to be solved.

Mail Out Food Orders.

In Chicago the Cook county relief employés, under Director Leo M. Lyons, completed last night the preparation of 104,942 food orders, the first of which were placed in the mail for delivery this morning. These orders, each for one-fourth of the usual monthly allotment, will provide rations and fuel for about ten days. Until more funds are available relief recipients are to receive no further help.

Cook county's extension of relief is

Marking an epoch in railroad history, four crack trains of the New York Central and the Pennsylvania early today were speeding across the country linking Chicago and New York with seventeen hour service. This is the fastest running time ever made in the regular intercity run and the fastest on any railroad for the distance.

Flower bedecked and sent on their way with appropriate ceremonies, the 20th Century left Chicago at 3 p. m. yesterday, daylight saving time, and the Broadway Limited followed 15 minutes later. Also at 3 o'clock [Chicago time] the westbound Century pulled out of the Grand Central station in New York, and 15 minutes later the Broadway Limited left the Pennsylvania station.

Third Reduction in Time.

This new high speed service, inaugurated to coincide with the adoption of daylight saving time, is the third time in the thirty-three year history of the two de luxe trains that they have lowered the running time between Chicago and New York. By an agreement between the two railroads, to avoid cutthroat competition, these reductions have been made simultaneously.

On June 15, 1902, a twenty hour schedule was put into effect between the two largest cities in America over the New York Central and the Pennsylvania roads. Three years after the inaugural the Broadway Limited and the Century cut their schedules to an eighteen hour basis. In 1912 the Broadway Limited, which had been known as the "Pennsylvania Special," was rechristened, as both railroads put their de luxe trains back on a twenty hour schedule.

Back to 18 Hour Basis.

A return to the 18 hour basis was made April 24, 1932, and one year later, on April 30, 1933, the two crack extra fare trains lowered their time to 17 hours and 45 minutes. The forty-five minutes were lopped off the schedules yesterday.

The day after the first eighteen hour schedule, June 12, 1905, the Broadway was credited with having maintained a speed of 127.2 miles an hour for a distance of three miles, a record believed never to have been equaled. Its highest sustained speed yesterday was 70.5 miles an hour over the 116½ mile run from Liverpool, Ind., to Fort Wayne Junction, Ind. This also is one of the fastest runs in the world.

Maintain Different Averages.

Because of the difference in distance, the two trains yesterday maintained different average speeds. For the 908.2 miles on the Pennsylvania, the Broadway held a 53.4 m. p. h. speed. An average of 56.4 miles an hour was held by the Century over its 960 miles.

Just before the departure of the Century from the La Salle street station business leaders attended a luncheon. President George Young of the Association of Commerce spoke. In the train shed George Jessel, the actor, broke a bottle of champagne on the front of the locomotive, Postmaster Ernest Kruetgen gave the "high ball," and the train pulled out.

Similar ceremonies were held at the Union station, where Bebe Daniels, her husband, Ben Lyon, and other movie stars participated.

Auto Swerves Into Trolley; 2 Are Killed

Two men were killed yesterday morning when the wheels of the automobile in which they were riding south in the Halsted street viaduct beneath the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad near Erie street caught in the street car tracks, swinging the rear of the automobile into the path of an oncoming street car.

The motorists killed were Bernard Lopez, 25 years old, a barber and chef, believed to have lived at 3247 Broadway, and William Martin, 25 years old, Willow Springs, an ex-convict.

Car Unable to Stop.

The street car motorman, William Richardson, 1533 West 105th street, told police he put his car in reverse when he saw the back end of the automobile swing onto the northbound tracks, but in vain.

Police learned that Lopez had given an all night drinking party in his room and when the accident occurred was on his way to purchase some live chickens to prepare a "breakfast." Three men and a woman who, police say, were at the party are being held as witnesses for the inquest today.

Finger Prints Disclose Record.

A comparison of Martin's finger prints at the detective bureau showed he was sentenced in 1929 to from five to fifteen years in the Kansas state reformatory for automobile theft, and in 1931 was sentenced here to a year in the Bridewell for carrying concealed weapons.

20 TERRORIZED IN EVANSTON HOLDUP; GET $1,000

Two robbers wearing handkerchiefs for masks went into Vera Megowen's tearoom at 503 Davis street, Evanston, last evening and after terrorizing ten customers and as many employés of the place escaped with about $1,000 from the cash register.

The men arrived in the restaurant at 8:50 p. m., after most of the patrons had departed. One took his station at the front door and announced:

The second man went behind the desk at which sat Miss Margaret Letcher, cashier, and took the money after thrusting her away. One customer, Mrs. Jane Reticker, who rose from her seat at a table, was commanded to sit down again and she complied. Among the others who were present when the stickup took place were Dr. August Daro, 1742 Judson avenue, Evanston, and his wife, who is owner of the restaurant, and Mrs. A. H. Ellerman, 6101 Sheridan road.

BANISH BOTTLES AS QUINTS TURN 11 MONTHS OLD

CALLANDER, Ont., April 28.—(AP)—Bottles and nipples were banished from the Dionne hospital when the quintuplets became 11 months' old today and spoons and mugs replaced them.

A new meal schedule was announced, as follows:

11—Vegetables and fruits.

3 p. m.—Codliver oil and orange juice.

5:30—Cereals and milk.

There are no night feedings. The infants are tucked into their cots at 6 p. m. for 12 hours sleep. They rarely awaken, the nurses said.

Alfred du Pont Dies; Headed Powder Firm

Jacksonville, Fla., April 29.—(AP)—Alfred I. du Pont, 72, organizer and former head of the du Pont de Nemours & Co., explosive and chemical manufacturers, died unexpectedly early today at his estate, Epping Forest, just outside Jacksonville.

Du Pont suffered a heart attack last Thursday, but had rallied. His physician said he appeared to be recovering, but he was stricken again last night and died a few hours later.

In 1902 du Pont purchased the du Pont company and organized it in its present form. He retired from that company a number of years ago.

In 1926 he came to Florida. At the time of his death he was one of the largest landowners in the state and was active as president of the Florida National bank of Jacksonville.

MR. RYAN STARTS A SINGLE HANDED BUSINESS BOOM

Hagerstown, Md., April 28.—[Special.]—Authorities are looking for Matthew Ryan.

He ordered a restaurant to prepare thirty-five chicken dinners—"a party for some friends." As presents for the friends he ordered a haberdasher to deliver to the restaurant thirty-five neckties, each in an individual box. From a bakery he ordered a huge birthday cake. Then he set a florist to making up a white elephant in various flowers, to grace the groaning boards.

At the transient bureau where Mr. Ryan spent the past three months it was found he had departed.

possible because of the sale of $1,200,000 of county poor relief bonds and the distribution of this money through the IERC machinery under the supervision of the county commissioners.

With this task completed, all except a few of the 5,500 Cook county relief employés will be dismissed. A handful will remain as guards in the relief stations which were closed Saturday "until further notice."

Shelters Have 3 Days' Rations.

A few essential employés will be retained in the relief shelters where 20,000 single men and women are to get food through Wednesday from existing surpluses. After that these men and women will have to rely upon private charity for rations.

Work relief checks were issued last week to 50,000 family heads with what remained of FERA funds. These checks provide this portion of Cook county's estimated 600,000 relief dependents with money for a week or ten days.

Extra police will be detailed to relief stations throughout Chicago and Cook county today to guard against disorders. Relief officials encountered no trouble Saturday when stations were closed, but then the full extent of the crisis was not widely recognized. The cessation of relief activities on the eve of the radical holiday, May 1, has caused police to exert special precautions against demonstrations.

Ending Downstate Activities.

Downstate, county relief committees were preparing to close their offices and cease functioning tomorrow night. In a few counties relief funds were exhausted last week and the unemployed have been without subsistence since Saturday. In others, however, the May 1 shut-off was anticipated and all but essential relief was discontinued two weeks ago.

McLean county [Bloomington] reported that sufficient savings were made in April to continue relief for several days in May. Logan county will keep up its activities for another week or ten days with funds saved during April. Knox county [Galesburg] will close relief stations tomorrow, but extra grocery orders were distributed Saturday which will provide food for another week.

STUDY AWARDS ARE GIVEN TO 8 FROM U. OF C.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Desiring to supplement classroom study of social science by a year's contact with basic material, the Social Science Research council today announced awards of a new type of fellowship.

Twenty-six of forty awards were for the new type to be known as predoctoral field fellowship for graduate students just before they complete the requirements for their degrees.

Among those named for the fellowships were:

John K. Rose, Ph., D. candidate, University of Chicago, for study of statistical method and theory in the United States.

Gabriel Almond, political science, Chicago, for study in New York of political and social leadership.

Hymen E. Cohen, Ph. D., research assistant, Chicago, for study in England, Switzerland, and France of political trends of thought.

Edward Y. Harishorne, sociology, Chicago, for study in Germany of relation between social science and control.

John H. Marion, political science, Chicago, for study in Washington, D. C., of training for leadership, especially army and navy.

Philleo Nash, anthropology, Chicago, for study in Oregon and Washington, D. C., of cultural response of Indians to white contact.

Leo C. Rosenberg, political science, Chicago, for study in Washington, D. C., of public relationships, especially correspondents and news gathering practices.

Walter H. Beidatsch, economics, Wisconsin, for study in Boston and Washington, D. C., of utility regulations.

Ben William Lewis, Ph. D., Michigan, associate in economics, Oberlin, for study in England of administration and control of industry.

Grover A. J. Noetzel, Ph. D., Wisconsin, for study in England, Switzerland, and France of international trade and investments.

Joseph A. Russell, geography, Michigan, for analysis in Washington, D. C., and the middle west of land problems.

Marion C. Siney, history, Michigan, for study in Washington, D. C., London, and Geneva of neutrality during the world war.

Egbert S. Wengert, political science, Wisconsin, for study in Washington, D. C., and the middle west of publicity methods in government.

HOLD 4 DRIVERS IN HIT AND RUN AUTO ACCIDENTS

Arrest Passengers Also in Most Cases.

Four automobile drivers were under arrest last night on charges of driving away after their cars struck and killed or seriously injured, pedestrians.

William Earhart, 39 years old, 6321 Cottage Grove avenue, the driver, and Francis McDonough, 38 years old, 6514 Ellis avenue, his companion, denied yesterday when arrested in McDonough's home that their car fatally injured Robert Lovell, 43 years old, 667 West 66th street, at Marquette road and Halsted street Saturday night. Police held also Miss Bernice Potter, 21 years old, 6102 Greenwood avenue, who, they said, was in the Earhart car.

George Falko, 41 years old, a welder, was arrested while asleep in his home at 3454 North Avers avenue yesterday morning when an automobile bearing a license number issued to him was abandoned after the driver struck, at Addison street and Kimball avenue. Gustaf G. Karlson, 46 years old, 3432 North Nagle avenue, and his wife, Anna, 44 years old.

Catch Two After Accident.

Joseph Fresso, 21 years old, 351 West 13th street, and Joe Batica, 19 years old, 532 West 31st street, were arrested yesterday as the occupants of an automobile that was driven away after it seriously injured Albert Schmall, 39 years old, 6536 Ellis avenue, at State and Harrison streets early yesterday morning. Police finally cornered them in a blind alley.

Douglas Kostilink, 23 years old, 2452 Clifton Park avenue, admitted after his arrest last night that he fled from the scene after his car struck and seriously injured Charles Goff, 35 years old, 3540 Archer avenue, at 2106 West 35th street. Kostilink was seized after a witness reported the license number of the car to the police.

Escape Under Police Fire.

Two men riding west in Madison street escaped last night after their automobile struck and critically injured William Hartman, 45 years old, 949 Madison street, at Green street. Sergt. Stephen Grace of the Des Plaines street police saw the accident and fired three shots at the automobile. Hartman's skull was fractured.

Two fatalities recorded elsewhere, the fatal injuring of Lovell, and the deaths of three others increased the Cook county trafic toll for 1935 to 302. At 4 p. m. yesterday 245 had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 4,694 injured. The other deaths yesterday:

George E. Anger, 77 years old, 1625 North Maplewood avenue, a retired janitor. Died at the Belmont hospital yesterday of injuries incurred on Friday when struck at 4011 Elston avenue by an automobile driven by Joseph McDonough, 55 years old, 4501 North Knox avenue.

Jacob Mander, 79 years old, 3245 Eastwood avenue, died in the Welles Park hospital of injuries incurred March 20 at Kedzie and Eastwood avenues, when he was struck by an automobile driven by Samuel H. Hardiker, 29 years old, 5137 North Troy street. Hardiker was not held.

James Cronin, 30 years old, 7853 South Green street. Fatally injured when he was struck at 35th street and Ashland avenue by an automobile driven by Joseph Lenkart, 6810 South Talman avenue, a deputy clerk of the Municipal court. Cronin died at St. Paul's hospital, where he was taken by Lenkart.

Over 98 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

DRIVER IS HELD AS 3 WITH HIM DIE IN CRASH

Hanover, Mass., April 28.—(AP)—An automobile crashed into a tree and overturned near here early today. Three persons were killed and two others may die. The sixth passenger escaped with minor injuries.

The dead: David J. Aleo, 21, Alice Rogers, 18, and John Feeney, 22, all of Boston.

Six of Family Killed.

Beaver Falls, Pa., April 28.—(AP)—Six members of a family are dead and another is seriously injured. The automobile in which they were riding was struck at a grade crossing by a Pennsylvania R. R. passenger train late last night. Two children escaped injury.

The dead are George Dunn, 58; his wife Ada, 38; three children, Loretta Dunn, 2, Louis Dunn, 4, and Mrs. Edna Caplinger, 19, and a grandson, Theodore Caplinger Jr., 1.

Three Brothers Die.

East Palestine, O., April 28.—(AP)—Four youths—including three brothers—were killed today. The automobile in which they were riding crashed through the lowered gates at a downtown crossing and into the path of a Pennsylvania Limited passenger train.

The victims were Carl, Omer, and William Renner, aged 24, 22, and 20 years, and Jesse Walker, 24, all residents of Enon Valley, Pa.

CHARGE IN COURT TELLS HER RIVAL SHE SHOT IS DEAD

Baltimore, Md., April 28.—(AP)—Mrs. Cecelia Bressler, 36 year old mother of two children, fainted in Police court today when she heard a magistrate charge her with murder—her first indication that the woman into whose body she fired two bullets last night was dead.

Mrs. Bressler, principal figure in a tragic "triangle" involving David Bressler, 38, her husband, and Mrs. Rose Schwartz, 34, was taken from her cell this morning before the magistrate without knowing that Mrs. Schwartz, shot in the back as she walked with Bressler through a crowded market district, had died of her wounds.

The Bresslers had been separated for about eight months, police said. Mrs. Schwartz, mother of three children, and her husband also were separated. Police asserted Mrs. Bressler said she had been carrying a pistol in her pocketbook for several months.

ROB CANDY STORE WOMAN.

Miss May Dillon, 2944 North Seeley avenue, surrendered $60 Saturday night to two robbers who entered the Dutch Mill candy store at 4048 Madison street where she is manager.

ROAD HOGS BLOCK LANES; NO POLICE TO BOTHER THEM

Slovenly Drivers Menace in Heavy Trafic.

BY HAL FOUST.

In six hours of driving on the four lane pavements of the metropolitan area yesterday, not one highway patrolman—county or state—was noted waving slow automobiles to the right hand lane. Road hogs cruising astride a lane marker or loafing in the center lane were numerous.

Chief Taylor of the state police and Chief Burns of the county highway police in interviews a week or so ago said that their patrolmen this spring would educate drivers to the proper use of the forty foot roads of Chicagoland this spring. Some may have been engaged in this activity yesterday but none was encountered in 150 miles of cruising in THE TRIBUNE roadster.

Astride Lane Markers.

In South Cicero avenue, not far from the state police station at 123d street, a car with license 342-017 [issued to J. C. Robertson, 11133 Vernon avenue] was astride a lane marker. A machine with license 186-513 [issued to Raymond L. Braun, R. F. D., No. 2, Chicago Heights] was riding the center lane at 28 miles an hour and was being passed on the right and on the left.

Farther north in Cicero avenue, between 63d and 55th streets, a truck with baskets of spinach on the tail board was traveling the left lane to the one-way pavement at from 20 to 25 miles an hour. It lacked a name on the side, as required by law. The license number was F-5-103. Secretary of State Hughes has not as yet furnished police with identification for this number.

In 111th street a car with license 220-557 [issued to Ruth M. Webber, Urbana] was being driven 30 miles an hour in the center lane. Approaching Harlem avenue it was overtaken by a machine that was forced to the left of the center line to pass.

When Center-Laners Pass.

In the Southwest highway, near Oak Lawn, the reporter witnessed what happens when one center lane driver overtakes another. A car with license 68-505 [issued to Richard Friebderich, 3557 South Damen avenue] swung to the left side of the forty foot slab to pass a machine with license 7212 [isued to Irwin N. Walker, 7321 South Shore drive].

Ogden avenue trafic, west from La Grange, appeared to be fairly orderly. In a drive from Mannheim road to route 59 west of Naperville only one car was overtaken in the center lane. It was traveling 33 miles an hour and moved to the right lane promptly in response to a horn from the rear. Its license number was 616-403 [issued to Peter Dykman, 8015 South Green street, Auburn Park].

22 M. P. H. in Center.

In Harlem avenue near 47th street the same maneuver was used by travelers passing a car in the center lane with license 65-415 [issued by Ray V. Stewart, 4958 Blackstone avenue].

In Roosevelt road, with only three "use outer lane" signs in the 27 miles from Forest Park to Geneva, automobiles astride a lane marker were numerous. Some of the license numbers noted with the persons to whom they were issued, are: 156-960 [Howard L. Davidson, 1232 McKinley avenue, Chicago Heights]; 191-916 [Mrs. Astrid Mayhew, 125 South Summit street, Wheaton]; 559-945 [Leo John Donovan, 7804 Bennett avenue] and 163-674 [Emily F. Keevan, 351 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park].

HIS PRO-DOLE JEST HALTS CITIZENSHIP PAPERS FOR ALIEN

Spokane, Wash., April 27.—(AP)—Reports that he said, "I'll never work as long as I can stay on relief," temporarily, at least, have prevented Mile Grgic from becoming an American citizen.

He was passing the examination successfully yesterday until R. S. Sullivan, federal immigration examiner, asked him if he had made such a statement. Grgic said that, if he had made it, he was joking with his wife.

Judge Stanley Webster, in ordering an investigation, remarked he did not think "there was much of a joke in seeking citizenship in a country in which one expected to be supported."

CELEBRATE 75TH ANNIVERSARY OF LUTHERAN SYNOD

Historic Immanuel Lutheran church, now known as Central church, Sedgwick and Hobbie streets, was the scene yesterday of a diamond jubilee service recalling the founding of the Augustana synod there 75 years ago. Dr. G. A. Andreen, president of Augustana college, Rock Island, and a son of one of the founders, was the principal speaker of the occasion.

He declared that while founding fathers of the Augustana synod were engaged in carving out a separate Lutheran church for Scandinavian peoples, they were likewise engaged in the great conflict to preserve the national union, the civil war. Last night the celebration was continued at Messiah church, Waller avenue and Iowa street, where the 83d annual session of the Illinois conference of the synod will continue through Tuesday.

SHOT IN NEIGHBORHOOD ROW.

John Bussa, 24 years old, 4724 South Racine avenue, a butcher, was slightly wounded by a shotgun charge yesterday morning when an unidentified resident of his neighborhood fired upon men who were tearing up fences when refused admittance to a party.

HUSBAND IN CELL AS SLAYER TOLD WIFE IS SUICIDE

Three weeks ago Mrs. Mary Cobetto, 39 years old, disappeared from her home at 911 South Ottawa street, Joliet, leaving a note stating that she was despondent over ill health and intended to commit suicide.

Yesterday afternoon the police at Morris, Ill., reported the finding of Mrs. Cobetto's body in the river. News of the discovery was given Frank Cobetto, 46 years old, in the Joliet city jail, where he had been locked up a short time earlier in the day on a charge of murdering a woman.

Cobetto went yesterday to the home of Pasquale Dascanio, 1007 Ottawa street, foreman of a labor gang, to protest the dismissal of his son, Bernard Cobetto, from the gang. During the quarrel Cobetto drew a pistol and fired several times. He missed Dascanio but hit the foreman's wife, Mrs. Ida Dascanio, with two bullets, causing her death.

Boy, 5, Drowns in Creek After Fall Off Tricycle

James Duffy, 5 years old, was drowned yesterday when he fell into Squaw creek, between Long and Fox lakes in Lake county, while riding his tricycle on a cement boat landing at the home of his grandfather, Theodore Neuman. The grandfather did not see the boy fall, but noticed the overturned tricycle, recovered the body, and applied artificial respiration unsuccessfully. The boy had lived with his grandparents from infancy.

ABUNDANT CLEWS TANGLE STRANGE HOLLYWOOD CASE

Bizarre Deaths Baffle Simple Solution.

Hollywood, April 28.—(AP)—When violent death comes to the movie colony, it invariably creates a certain set design.

There always are too many clews.

Within a few hours after the tragedy, detectives said Paul Ivar Wharton, dark haired esthete who designed gowns for actresses, had been slain by his chauffeur, William Howard. They declared Howard also wounded Henry Bolte, a friend of Wharton's, before Howard committed suicide.

Promise Sensation.

After hinting a sensation possibly involving "somebody of real importance," authorities today looked to Bolte for more information.

After the shootings they were presented with the usual abundance of apparent clews that invariably attend a Hollywood mystery:

Clews Fade Rapidly.

All these things tended to blur the outlines of what was at first a simple police explanation of his death. Then investigators found the fingerprint was made by a man, the scrawled name was that of an attorney, the countess could explain everything, and the missing man was found.

So, too, were doubts aroused when Paul Bern, film executive, and Jerry Jarnegin, composer, committed suicide.

Apparently, each had taken his own life. Yet detectives were forced to follow a labyrinth of clews, only to return to the point from which they started.

Three Murders Unsolved.

The victims were William Desmond Taylor, director, slain in 1922; Earle C. Remington, described by Capt. Herman Cline as a "high society bootlegger," killed in 1923, and Harry Katz, diamond merchant, slain in 1924.

BODIES OF GANGSTERS BELIEVED HIDDEN IN CONCRETE FOUNDATION

Providence, R. I., April 28.—[Special.]—Somewhere in secret tunnels and subcellars beneath the Warwick, R. I., "fortress" of a crime syndicate which was uncovered in a raid yesterday, federal officials hope to find at least three bodies of racketeers executed by the mob in a career of murder, robbery, kidnaping, dope and rum smuggling.

The secret of the disappearance of Danny Walsh, long missing Rhode Island rum baron, may be discovered, authorities believe, when with pickaxes and sledges FERA workers tomorrow attack the foot thick cement and steel walls of an underground dungeon.

At least two other missing mobsters, known to be dead, but whose bodies never have been found, will be found imbedded in the cement, detectives believe.

Although evidence already obtained has solved the $129,000 holdup of a mail truck in Fall River, last January, and information from those in custody indicates at least three other big holdup jobs will be cleaned up, the men working on the case believe they have hardly scratched the surface.

JURY INQUIRY FOLLOWS TRIAL OF 'DUTCH SCHULTZ'

Syracuse, N. Y., April 28.—[Special.]—As Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer left the Syracuse hotel today, government secret service men investigated reports of jury tampering in his trial for income evasion. A jury, after deliberating twenty-seven hours, reported hopeless disagreement yesterday and Judge Frederick H. Bryant named May 14 as the date for retrial.

The defense attorneys, it was said, were not involved in the jury inquiry, but suspicion pointed at local citizens.

Some rumors quoted amounts offered to prospective jurors at $2,500 to $5,000.

Reliable sources said the jury count was 7-5 for conviction.

Guards for Witnesses.

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—The department of justice has requested the New York police department to provide bodyguards for twenty-four hours a day for three important witnesses against Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, pending his second trial for income tax evasion, it was learned today at police headquarters. These witnesses are Margaret Scholl, bookkeeper; Edith Foster, bank employé; Dennis J. Mahoney, a former bank employé.

WOLF ENTHRONED TO KEEP ALIVE LEGEND OF ROME

ROME, April 28.—(AP)—A wolf, possibly descended from the one that legend says reared Romulus and Remus, was enthroned in grandeur by Premier Mussolini today on the Carpean rock on Capitoline hill, from which rulers of ancient Rome used to cast criminals to their death.

Il Duce inaugurated the grotto during the celebration of the 2,688th birthday of the city. Alongside the grotto is another in which is kept an eagle, symbol of Rome's greatness.

For generations a series of wolves and eagles have been kept in cages alongside the stairs leading to the capitol building, but Mussolini decided such important symbols should have a more prominent position.

ROCKFORD AUTO DEALER DEFIES NEW DEAL CODE

Rockford, Ill., April 28.—[Special.]—H. H. Collier, owner of one of the largest and oldest retail automobile firms in Rockford, today publicly defied the NRA and announced that his company no longer would comply with the used car section of the retail automobile code.

Declaring he had found it impossible to run his business by book rules, Collier in a newspaper advertisment stated that hereafter the Collier company would use "its own good judgment in making proper allowance on used cars."

Collier declared that he was ready for any trouble the code authority might care to start. He described the retail automobile situation in Rockford under the code as "rotten."

DEFENSE PLANS DENIALS FOR U. S. BREMER CHARGES

At Least 5 Prisoners Will Take Stand.

St. Paul, Minn., April 28.—[Special.]—Five or more of the ten defendants in the Edward G. Bremer case will testify to deny complicity in the $200,000 kidnaping. First, however, the government will present more "confessions" and question about 15 more witnesses. The trial enters its third week tomorrow.

The five defendants to talk include John J. "Boss" McLaughlin, William Vidler and Philip Delaney, all of Chicago, accused as "money changers." It seems they will deny they knew money they handled was part of the Bremer ransom.

The other two defendants, expected to testify are James J. Wilson and Harold Alderton. At Alderton's home at Bensenville, Ill., Bremer was kept for 21 days following his kidnaping Jan. 17, 1934. He is believed to intend to deny knowledge of the purpose for which his home was engaged until after Bremer had been brought there. After that fear for his life will be urged as reason for his silence.

To Talk of Operations.

Wilson worked in the office of a distant relative, Dr. Joseph P. Moran of Chicago. Moran is a fugitive in the case. The government will attempt to show Wilson was aware of operations performed by Dr. Moran to mutilate and change fingerprints of various members of the gang and also to alter their faces. Efforts also will be made to connect Dr. Moran with the ransom.

Wilson is expected to tell that Moran befriended him after lack of cash stopped his college career.

Other defendants who may take the stand are Oliver Berg, life term Illinois convict brought here from Joliet; Elmer Farmer, Bensenville tavern keeper; Jess Doyle, of Pittsburg, Kan., and Mrs. Edna Murray, Kansas City's "kissing bandit."

Finger Prints Link Barker.

In addition to testimony offered thus far which has definitely linked Arthur "Doc" Barker with the crime through fingerprints, the defendants will attempt to refute evidence expected likely to be offered by Byron Bolton, who pleaded guilty as the trial started and by Wynona Burdette, brought here from a penitentiary at Milan, Mich. Miss Burdette, alleged sweetheart of Harry Campbell, also a fugitive in the case, was arrested at Atlantic City when Campbell and Alvin Karpis shot their way out of a trap.

Push Robles Kidnap Case.

Tucson, Ariz., April 28.—(AP)—The department of justice pushed forward today toward the cleaning of its slate in its war on kidnapers. A federal grand jury will convene here Tuesday to continue investigation into the abduction of little June Robles last year, the last of the unsolved major kidnaping mysteries of recent years.

Ostensibly the grand jury has been called to consider evidence against Buster Robson, former Tucson dance hall operator, who was charged with writing extortion letters to June's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fernando Robles, demanding $15,000 for their daughter's return. Robson is at liberty on bail. Three additional persons may be involved in the crime, it is rumored.

For 19 days the child had lived in the vermin infested cell, existing on bananas, oranges and dirty water until she was found by her uncle, Carlos Robles, and Clarence Houston, then county attorney, who had been directed to her prison by a letter mailed from Chicago.

SICKNESS TOLL PUT AT 1,200 IN NEW YORK 'POISON PIE' EPIDEMIC

White Plains, N. Y., April 28.—[Special.]—On the strength of reports from health officers in Mount Vernon, Yonkers, White Plains, New Rochelle, and various towns in Westchester county today, the Westchester county health department estimated 1,200 persons had been poisoned by eating germ infested cream puffs and eclairs in the "poison pie" epidemic last week.

Of this total 745 cases had been reported to the county bureau, while the others involved persons who had been made ill but had not called a physician.

Dr. Mathias Nichol Jr., county health commissioner, said that Monday he expected a report from the state health department laboratories in New York City of the analysis made of the ingredients in the custard filling.

From this report he believes he will be able to trace how the poison got in the custard mixture.

Announce 9 Round Trips a Day for New York Planes

The Chicago-New York service of the United Air Lines will be increased to nine round trips daily when two additional passenger schedules are inaugurated Wednesday, according to an announcement yesterday by President W. A. Patterson. Departure times for the two new flights will be 11:25 a. m. and 1 p. m.

PRESIDENT GIVES NATION OUTLINE OF WORKS PLANS

Demands Congress Pass Five More Bills.

are not proceeding in any haphazard fashion in this task of government. Each of our steps has a definite relationship to every other step. The job of creating a program for the nation's welfare is, in some respects, like the building of a ship. At different points on the coast where I often visit they build great seagoing ships. When one of these ships is under construction and the steel frames have been set in the keel, it is difficult for a person who does not know ships to tell how it will finally look when it is sailing the high seas.

"It may seem confused to some, but out of the multitude of detailed parts that go into the making of the structure the creation of a useful instrument for man ultimately comes. It is that way with the making of a national policy. The objective of the nation has greatly changed in three years. Before that time individual self-interest and group selfishness were paramount in public thinking. The general good was at a discount.

"Three years of hard thinking have changed the picture. More and more people, because of clearer thinking and a better understanding, are considering the whole rather than a mere part relating to one section or one crop, or one industry, or an individual private occupation. That is a tremendous gain for principles of democracy. The overwhelming majority of people in this country know how to sift the wheat from the chaff in what they hear and what they read. They know that the process of the constructive rebuilding of America cannot be done in a day or a year, but that it is being done in spite of the few who seek to confuse them and to profit by their confusion. Americans as a whole are feeling a lot better—a lot more cheerful than for many, many years.

"The most difficult place in the world to get a clear and open perspective of the country as a whole is Washington. I am reminded sometimes of what President Wilson once said: 'So many people come to Washington who know things that are not so, and so few people who know anything about what the people of the United States are thinking about.' That is why I occasionally leave this scene of action for a few days to go fishing or back home to Hyde Park so that I can have a chance to think quietly about the country as a whole. To get away from the trees, as they say, and to look at the whole woods. This duty of seeing the country in a long range perspective is one which, in a very special manner, attaches to this office to which you have chosen me.

Only 2 Jobs All Vote On.

"Did you ever stop to think that there are, after all, only two positions in the nation that are filled by the vote of all of the voters—the President and the Vice President? That makes it particularly necessary for the Vice President and for me to conceive of our duties toward the entire country. I speak, therefore, tonight to and of the American people as a whole.

"My most immediate concern is in carrying out the purposes of the great work program just enacted by the congress. Its first objective is to put men and women now on the relief rolls to work and, incidentally, to assist materially in our already unmistakable march toward recovery. I shall not confuse my discussion by a multitude of figures. So many figures are quoted to prove so many things, sometimes it depends upon what paper you read and what broadcast you hear. Therefore let us keep our minds on two or three simple essential facts in connection with this problem of unemployment.

"It is true that while business and industry are definitly better, our relief rolls are still too large. However, for the first time in five years the relief rolls have declined instead of increased during the winter months. They are still declining. The simple fact is that many millions more people have private work today than two years ago today or one year ago today and every day that passes offers more chances to work for those who want work.

Still Serious Problem.

"In spite of the fact that unemployment remains a serious problem here as in every other nation, we have come to recognize the possibility and the necessity of certain helpful remedial measures. These measures are of two kinds. The first is to make provisions intended to relieve, to minimize, and to prevent future unemployment; the second is to establish the practical means to help those who are unemployed in this present emergency. Our social security legislation is an attempt to answer the first of these questions, our work relief program the second.

"The program for social security now pending before the congress is a necessary part of the future unemployment policy of the government. While our present and projected expenditures for work relief are wholly within the reasonable limits of our national credit resources, it is obvious that we cannot continue to create governmental deficits for that purpose year after year. We must begin now to make provision for the future. That is why our social security program is an important part of the complete picture. It proposes, by means of old age pensions, to help those who have reached the age of retirement to give up their jobs and thus give to the younger generation greater opportunities for work and to give to all a feeling of security as they look toward old age.

"The unemployment insurance part of the legislation will not only help to guard the individual in future periods of layoff against dependence upon relief, but by sustaining purchasing power it will cushion the shock of economic distress. Another helpful feature of unemployment insurance is the incentive it will give to employers to plan more carefully in order that unemployment may be prevented by the stabilizing of employment itself.

Security a Future Job.

"Provisions for social security, however, are protections for the future. Our responsibility for the immediate necessities of the unemployed has been met by the congress through the most comprehensive work plan in the history of the nation. Our problem is to put to work 3½ million employable persons now on the relief rolls. It is a problem quite as much for private industry as for the government.

"We are losing no time getting the government's vast work relief program under way and we have every reason to believe that it should be in full swing by autumn. In directing it I shall recognize six fundamental principles:

"1. The projects should be useful.

"2. Projects shall be of a nature that a considerable proportion of the money spent will go into wages for labor.

"3. Projects which promise ultimate return to the federal treasury of a considerable proportion of the costs will be sought.

"4. Funds allotted for each project should be actually and quickly spent and not held over until later years.

"5. In all cases projects must be of a character to give employment to those on the relief rolls.

"6. Projects will be allocated to localities or relief areas in relation to the number of workers on relief rolls in those areas.

How Work Will Progress.

"I next want to make it clear exactly how we shall direct the work.

"1. I have set up a division of application and information to which all proposals for the expenditure of money must go for preliminary study and consideration.

"2. After the division of application and information has sifted these projects they will be sent to an allotment division composed of representatives of the more important governmental agencies charged with carrying on work relief projects. The group also will include representatives of cities, and of labor, farming, banking and industry. This allotment division will consider all of the recommendations submitted to it and such projects as they approve will be next submitted to the President, who, under the act, is required to make final allocations.

"3. The next step will be to notify the proper government agency in whose field the project falls, and also another agency which I am creating—a progress division. This division will have the duty of coördinating the purchase of materials and supplies and of making certain that people who are employed will be taken from the relief rolls. It also will have the responsibility of determining work payments in various localities, of making full use of existing employment services and to assist people engaged in work relief to move as rapidly as possible back into private employment when such employment is available. Moreover, this division will be charged with keeping projects moving on schedule.

"4. I have felt it to be essentially wise and prudent to avoid, so far as possible, the creation of new governmental machinery for supervising this work. The national government now has at least sixty different agencies with the staf and the experience and the competence necessary to carry on the two hundred and fifty or three hundred kinds of work that will be undertaken. These agencies, therefore, will simply be doing on a somewhat enlarged scale the same sort of things that they have been doing. This will make certain that the largest possible portion of the funds allotted will be spent for actually creating new work and not for building up expensive overhead organizations here in Washington.

Preparations Long Made.

"For many months preparations have been under way for undertaking this work. The allotment of funds for desirable projects has already begun. The key men for the major responsibility of this great task already have been selected. I well realize that the country is expecting before this year is out to see the "dirt fly," as they say, in carrying on this work, and I assure my fellow citizens that no energy will be spared in using these funds effectively to make a major attack upon the problem of unemployment.

"Our responsibility is to all of the people in this country. This is a great national crusade to destroy enforced idleness, which is an enemy of the human spirit generated by this depression. Our attack upon these enemies must be without stint and without discrimination. No section, no political distinctions can be permitted.

"It must, however, be recognized that when an enterprise of this character is extended over more than 3,000 counties through the nation there may be occasional instances of inefficiency, bad management, or misuse of funds. When cases of this kind occur there will be those, of course, who will try to tell you that the exceptional failure is characteristic of the entire endeavor. It should be remembered that in every big job there are some imperfections. There are chiselers in every walk of life, there are those in every industry who are guilty of unfair practices, every profession has its black sheep, but long experience in government has taught me that the exceptional instances of wrongdoing in government are probably less numerous than in almost every other line of endeavor.

"The most effective means of preventing such evils in this work relief program will be the eternal vigilance of the American people themselves. I call upon my fellow citizens everywhere to coöperate with me in making this the most efficient and the cleanest example of public enterprise the world has ever seen. It is time to provide a smashing answer for those cynical men who say that a democracy cannot be honest and efficient. If you will help, this can be done. I, therefore, hope you will watch the work in every corner of this nation.

Gives Critics Carte Blanche.

"Feel free to criticize. Tell me of instances where work can be done better or where improper practices prevail. Neither you nor I want criticism conceived in a purely fault finding or partisan spirit, but I am zealous of the right of every citizen to call to the attention of his government examples of how the public money can be more effectively spent for the benefit of the American people.

"I now come, my friends, to the remaining business before the congress. It has under consideration many measures which provide for the rounding out of the program of economic and social reconstruction with which we have been concerned for two years. I can mention only a few of them tonight, but I do not want my mention of specific measures to be interpreted as lack of interest or in disapproval of many other important proposals that are pending.

"The national industrial recovery act expires on the 16th of June. After careful consideration I have asked the congress to extend the life of this useful agency of government. As we have proceeded with the administration of this act, we have found from time to time more and more useful ways of promoting its purposes. No reasonable person wants to abandon our present gains—we must continue to protect children, to enforce minimum wages, to prevent excessive hours, to safeguard, define, and enforce collective bargaining, and, while retaining fair competition, to eliminate so far as humanly possible the kinds of unfair practices by selfish minorities which unfortunately did more than anything else to bring about the recent collapse of industries.

"There is likewise pending before the congress legislation to provide for the elimination of unnecessary holding companies in the public utility field.

"A Positive Recovery Measure."

"I consider this legislation a positive recovery measure. Power production in this country is virtually back to the 1929 peak. The operating companies in the gas and electric utility field are by and large in good condition. But under holding company domination the utility industry has long been hopelessly at war within itself and with public sentiment.

"By far the greater part of the general decline in utility securities had occurred before I was inaugurated. The absentee management of unnecessary holding company control has lost touch with and has lost the sympathy of the communities it pretends to serve. Even more significantly it has given the country as a whole an uneasy apprehension of overconcentrated economic power.

"A business that loses the confidence of its customers and the good will of the public cannot long continue to be a good risk for the investor. This legislation will serve the investor by ending the conditions which have caused that lack of confidence and good will. It will put the public utility operating industry on a sound basis for the future, both in its public relations and in its internal relations.

"This legislation in the long run not only will result in providing lower electric and gas rates to the consumer but it will protect the actual value and earning power of properties now owned by thousands of investors who have little protection under the old laws against what used to be called 'frenzied finance.' It will not destroy value.

Backs Transportation Aids.

"Not only business recovery but the general economic recovery of the nation will be greatly stimulated by the enactment of legislation designed to improve the status of our transportation agencies. There is need for legislation providing for the regulation of interstate transportation by buses and trucks, to regulate transportation by water, new provisions for strengthening our merchant marine and air transport, measures for the strengthening of the interstate commerce commission to enable it to carry out a rounded conception of the national transportation system in which the benefits of private ownership are retained, while the public stake in these important services is protected by the public's government.

"The reëstablishment of public confidence in the banks of the nation is one of the most hopeful results of our efforts as a nation to reëstablish public confidence in private banking. We all know that private banking actually exists by virtue of the permission of and regulation by the people as a whole, speaking through their government. Wise public policy, however, requires not only that banking be safe but that its resources be most fully utilized in the economic life of the community.

"To this end it was decided more than twenty years ago that the government should assume the responsibility of providing a means by which the credit of the nation might be controled, not by a few private banking institutions but by a body with public prestige and authority. The answer to this demand was the federal reserve system. Twenty years of experience with this system have justified the efforts made to create it, but these twenty years have shown by experience definite possibilities for improvement. Certain proposals made to amend the federal reserve act deserve prompt and favorable action by the congress. They are a minimum of wise readjustment of our federal reserve system in the light of past experience and present needs.

"Essential Recovery Factors."

"These measures are, in a large part, the program which under my constitutional duty I have recommended to the congress. They are essential factors in a rounded program for national recovery. They contemplate the enrichment of our national life by a sound and rational ordering of its various elements and wise provisions for the protection of the weak against the strong.

"Never since my inauguration in March, 1933, have I felt so unmistakably the atmosphere of recovery. But it is more than the recovery of the material basis of our individual lives. It is the recovery of confidence in our democratic processes and institutions. We have survived all of the arduous burdens and the threatening dangers of a great economic calamity. In the darkest moments of our national trials we have retained our faith in our own ability to master our destiny. Fear is vanishing and confidence is growing on every side, renewed faith in the vast possibilities of human beings to improve their material and spiritual status through the instrumentality of democratic government. That faith is receiving its just reward. And for that we can be thankful to the God who watches over America."

SON, MORGENTHAU AND WALKER ARE IN ROOM AS ROOSEVELT TALKS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Closing tonight with the statement that the faith of the people "in our ability to master our destiny is receiving its just reward," President Roosevelt added this sentence to his prepared address:

"And for that we can be thankful to the God who watches over America."

Grouped about the President as he spoke in the unfaltering conversational tone first made famous during the banking crisis, was his eldest son, James, Secretary Morgenthau, Frank C. Walker, head of the National Emergency council, Marvin McIntyre, and Stephen Early of the White House secretariat, and Mrs. Frances Drane, a guest from Cape Cod, Mass.

The President sat at his desk, slowly turning over each page of his text as he finished it. Once or twice he glanced down at his wrist watch, then swiftly back to the printed page.

U. S. PLANS TO FIGHT JEWEL AND BOND RECOVERY RACKETS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Now that the big-time kidnaping syndicates have been smashed, the justice department's federal bureau of investigation is setting out to break up another type of ransom racket—the "recovery" of stolen jewels, bonds, and other valuables in return for a reward and promises of immunity from prosecution.

In New York on Monday the government will summon before a special grand jury a group of Miami police and prosecution officials, private detectives, and convicted jewel robbers.

The grand jury will inquire into evidence in connection with the theft of $300,000 in jewels from a woman at a Florida resort last January.

TWO DIE ON FISHING TRIP.

Tiverton, R. I., April 28.—(AP)—Two of four men on a fishing trip drowned as their sixteen foot motor boat overturned in the Sakonnet river here today. The dead were Ernest R. Davis, 42, Providence, and Samuel Allen, 31, Fall River, Mass.

G. O. P. TO SEEK INSPIRATION AT LINCOLN SHRINE

Select Springfield for Midwest Conclave.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 28.—[Special.]—Springfield, Ill., home of Abraham Lincoln, first Republican President, was picked today for the "grass roots" conference of Republicans from nine midwest states. The date is to be set next week and it is planned to make it in the first two weeks of June.

The group of Republicans which for two days has been discussing here plans for rejuvenating the G. O. P. tonight put forth a declaration that the purpose is to launch a campaign to restore popular government. It pictures inroads on popular government, terrific debt burdens piling up, the building of a gigantic burocracy, and it says the Roosevelt New Deal seeks to perpetuate itself in office by "purchasing favor with the savings of the people."

"Reckless, Shameless Waste."

"We are witnessing the most reckless and shameless waste of the substance of our people ever perpetrated in history," says the declaration.

"The morale of the nation is being corrupted. Solemn pledges are broken unblushingly. A gigantic burocracy is being built up. American institutions are being undermined.

"The constitution is being flouted. The Roosevelt administration, aided by a supine congress, fosters the disintegration of the social structure into hostile and selfish groups, seeks to perpetuate itself in power by purchasing favor with the savings of the people."

Embraces Nine States.

The conference is to embrace nine states in the central west—Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Wisconsin.

The states are to name delegates as they desire and the conference is to have about 1,500.

The conference made it known that no office holders or office seekers are desired among the participants. The expectation is that two-thirds of the delegates will be men and women who have not been so active in practical politics and about one-third political workers and party chiefs.

It was declared members of congress are not desired at the conclave—the Washington slant is to be avoided as far as possible. The avowed effort is to get across Republican sentiment in the midwest and get the party back to the people.

Keep Away from Landon.

In selecting Springfield for the meeting, the group of organizers, who say their work is merely to get the movement started, the Lincoln shrine was the great motif.

Kansas City, Mo., was abandoned because of its proximity to Kansas, where Gov. Alf Landon is rated among Republican presidential possibilities.

Des Moines was dropped out because Iowa is Herbert Hoover's birthplace. One aim of the group has been to steer clear of anything that might give the conference a Hooverized complexion.

Justus L. Johnson, Illinois state chairman, who originated the idea of the conference, said:

"Springfield, home of Lincoln, is the ideal place for the meeting. Never before has there been greater need for the interjection of the midwest into the national political picture. Here was the birthplace of the G. O. P. Here in the midwest is real progressivism and straightforwardness in politics. The aim is for the conference to be a spontaneous gathering, not hand picked."

Arthur B. Fontaine, Wisconsin national committeeman, urged a militant spirit instead of acting punch drunk from defeats.

The conferees reported popular sentiment rapidly is changing in its views of the New Deal. Party dissension, in which Democrats are most savage in criticism of the New Deal, they declare, is opening a gap through which Republicans have increasing prospects of carrying the country next year.

DIFFICULT TIMES AHEAD, IL DUCE WARNS ITALIANS

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 28.—The accelerated march of Italy toward pure collectivism, by which he apparently meant further socializing the country's wealth, will be the Fascist response to the present economic hardships, Premier Benito Mussolini today told the Black Shirt masses who gathered in the Piazza Venezia to celebrate the Fascist labor festival.

Il Duce, in Fascist militia regalia, spoke from the top of a high wooden tribune.

"We are approaching more difficult times which will engage all the strength of the Italian people in order to reach the aim we have set for ourselves." This apparently was a reference to Italian aims in Ethiopia and Italy's aims in Europe."

With gesticulations Mussolini added:

"I know you well, and I read in your eyes what are the most inward hopes of your spirit, and I know you are not looking forward to an easy life."

Sees Clearing Horizon.

Two weeks after the termination of the Stresa conference, over which he presided, Mussolini declared the horizon had cleared during the last year and would clear still more if politics could come to the aid of economics.

"Especially would it clear if there were in Europe real peace, strong people's kind of peace, which does not depress," he said, apparently hinting at the hopes for a successful issue in the forthcoming Danube conference in Rome.

Public works were inaugurated throughout Italy and piazza orators held forth in the squares of the various towns where, altogether, 65,000 pension certificates were handed out to those who have attained the age of 65 or are invalidated for further work.

Mussolini handed out 1,100 such certificates to peasants and workers, and would sometimes give a pat on the shoulder or a kindly word to the recipient.

Flays Intellectuals.

Stressing the need of greater socialization of wealth, Mussolini said:

"Fascism will keep collectivism from becoming of the inferior kind, because Italian life, while collectivized, will always be kept in harmony and differentiated at the same time by Fascism."

Il Duce, then flaying the intellectuals, said:

"The distinction which still exists between manual and intellectual labor has an exclusively theoretic value. The day will come when the so-called intellectuals will feel the need to work with their hands and arms, to renew the contact with the reality of the things of the sea and earth and the matter which they yield and from which is forged wealth and power.

"There exists still that pale residue of intellectuals—the last of the esthetes—which has no more value than the dust on the shoes of our forward walking giant and this giant is the Italian people."

Threatens Profiteers.

Mussolini threatened that he would put those intellectuals who are supposedly critics of his Ethiopian and economic policies out of business along with the chatterers and profiteers.

"Those profiteers who, without reason, raise the prices of the necessities of life will be exiled. And all those who do not lend themselves to the duties and necessities of this ardent life of the Italian people will be expelled as negative elements.

"Since last year we have made progress," Mussolini continued. "Some say slowly. I admit it was slow, but we go slow so as not to retrograde."

REPUBLICANS SEEKING TO STIR OPPOSITION AGAINST ROOSEVELT

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Republicans eying the 1936 campaign promised today to center current political briskness on a Boston regional meeting Tuesday after a weekend of Democratic attractions staged by the Roosevelt and Long wings of the party.

Crystalization of opposition to President Roosevelt's administration was expected by Republicans at the New England conference of leaders of six states as a forerunner to other projected regional gatherings.

The fact that Representative Christianson of Minnesota was one of the principal speakers scheduled for the New England assembly was viewed as a move to bring closer together the western and eastern G. O. P. wings for the presidential battle next year.

FARM HOLIDAY GROUP FAVORING THIRD U. S. PARTY

Des Moines, Ia., April 28.—(AP)—The National Farmers' Holiday association today advocated foundation of a third national political party.

That followed a stormy business session in which a group of alleged communists was ordered to leave by Milo Reno, national president of the association.

During the meeting, Reno, summoned from another room, took over the chair from Vice President John Bosch of Atwater, Minn. Reno accused six persons of being "Wall street racketeers and henchmen of soviet Russia."

"You can't talk. You can't argue. Don't try to get the floor. I'm running this meeting," Reno said. "Sit down and shut up. Get out before we get really mad."

The six sought adoption of a resolution for action to promote legislation for "relief without debts" and "production credit without strings." "Immediate repeal of the AAA also was requested. Reno said:

MITCHELL WINS DEMOCRATS; TO PASS HIS BILL

Chicagoan Asks Congress to Aid Colored People.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—Creation of an industrial commission on Negro affairs during this session of congress as a means of solving problems confronting his people is the hope of Representative Arthur W. Mitchell, colored congressman and Democrat of Chicago.

To this end, Mitchell conferred yesterday with Chairman Hatton W. Sumners of the house judiciary committee. Sumners referred Mitchell's commission bill to a subcommittee, and early hearings were promised.

Congressman Mitchell, who obtained his schooling at Tuskegee institute, Harvard and Columbia universities, has made a hit with his colleagues with his quiet ways, which are in direct contrast with the demeanor of his predecessor, the stormy Oscar De Priest. The Democrats say they will pass his bill.

Colleagues Shake His Hand.

When the house debated the social security program recently, Mitchell was given time for a speech. The time was extended by Chairman Robert Doughton [Dem., N. C.] of the ways and means committee so that he might conclude his remarks. Southern Democrats as well as northerners shook his hand afterward, and one of those who came forward was Speaker Joe Byrns [Dem., Tenn.].

The Mitchell philosophy was summed by him in an interview on the bill as follows:

"I think the best contribution I can make toward solution of the race problem is to be as good a congressman as any one on the floor of the house."

Five Members on Board.

Mitchell said that he regarded his bill as being the most far reaching and constructive piece of legislation in the interest of the Negro for the past quarter of a century.

The commission would consist of five members, at least three of them members of the Negro race, to be appointed by the President, who would designate the chairman. As outlined in the bill, the duties of the commission would be as follows:

"To study the labor problems in which the Negro is fundamentally interested; to stimulate and encourage thrift and industry among the Negroes; to promote the general welfare of the Negro in his industrial pursuits and to encourage his general uplift; to consider all questions pertaining to the Negro that may be referred to the commission by any department of the government and report a suggested solution.

Stability of Labor.

"To recommend what may be necessary for the stability of labor in the different states; to discourage subversive doctrine and propaganda; to work toward the formulation of a policy for mutual understanding and confidence between the races."

News of The Tribune Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

(Picture on back page.)

Push Spring Schedule.

April 28, 1935.

THE spring schedule of work is well advanced at THE TRIBUNE experimental farm near Plano and Yorkville. Many odd jobs have been taken care of along with the field work during the last week.

Two small fields of Japanese buckwheat were threshed on Friday. The fields had to be cleared to make way for the plowmen. The buckwheat shocks had been left in the open field all winter to furnish feed for birds that harbored in marshes nearby. Scores of wild birds, including mourning doves, quail, pheasants, and a flock of wild geese fed on the buckwheat during the winter.

The shocks salvaged from a total of ten acres yielded about 80 bushels of buckwheat. This average of approximately eight bushels to the acre was produced despite the unusually unfavorable weather last summer. The yield of grain on the upland field was greater than it was on the rich lowland, where the plants grew rank.

The manager of the farm will save the buckwheat to plant as an emergency crop if chinch bugs infest the corn and small grain crops.

Sheep shearing was another important job tackled at the Yorkville farm last week. The 46 ewes and two rams produced a total of 392 pounds, averaging between eight and eight and one-half pounds to the fleece. Local buyers are offering only about 16 cents for the best grades of wool. The farm manager will store the wool and hold it for higher prices.

The 144 feeder calves brought to the farm during the winter were weighed the other day before they were turned into a field of alfalfa which was practically destroyed by the severe cold weather. One bunch of 114 calves brought to the farm the latter part of February, weighing then an average of 468 pounds, averaged 510 pounds. The other bunch of 30 calves weighed an average of 360 pounds when bought last November, averaged 552 on Thursday.

The 144 calves are still being fed about two tons of silage daily. They will not be turned into the bluegrass pastures until about the middle of May. These feeders will be grazed and in the fall will be sent to market.

Approximately 80 acres of corn ground were plowed last week. The men have 300 more acres to plow for corn and 50 for soy beans. Two tractor drawn gangs will be put in the field Monday morning with Eddie Johnston and Charley Sleezer at the wheels. Two spreaders will spread manure ahead of the plows. More than 150 loads have been hauled to the fields from the barns and cattle feeding yards this spring. With favorable weather, three gang plows, drawn by tractors, will start Tuesday.

HORSE AND MULE CONTEST STIRS WIDE INTEREST

Pulling Competition Date Wins Approval—June 15.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Early entries in The Tribune Horse and Mule Pulling contest indicate that team owners throughout the middle west will be well represented. Teams already have been entered from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Iowa. Some are entering more than one team. One owner of horses in Wisconsin is entering five teams. He will compete in both classes for cash prizes totaling $500.

Farmers wecome the chance to compete in this contest because it comes on Saturday, June 15, between planting and harvesting seasons in many sections of the country. Their horses and mules will have a chance to be well trained and to become accustomed to hard work before the middle of June—a time of year in northern Illinois when the weather is ideal for country outings.

Scene Is Near Wheaton.

The contest will be held at one of The Tribune Experimental farms two miles west of Wheaton, where workers are making preparations for the event. Surprises are in store for those who expect to compete and attend the contest. A score or more of men and women at the experimental farms, on the editorial staf of this newspaper, and in the W-G-N radio station have been at work for weeks on the varied program.

Citizens of Wheaton and the countryside nearby are getting ready to welcome the visitors who are expected to flock to Du Page county on the day of the contest.

A search of the central west is being made for a well trained exhibit team of oxen to be brought to the contest by Wayne Dinsmore, secretary of the Horse and Mule Association of America, who has charge of the technical details of the contest.

Procure University Apparatus.

Mr. Dinsmore is scheduled to talk over W-G-N between 9:35 and 9:45 o'clock this morning. He will tell "Why Horse Pulling Contests Are Popular."

Final arrangements have been made with E. T. Robbins for the dynamometer, owned by the University of Illinois, which will be used at the contest to record the actual pulling power of the competing animals. Mr. Robbins will supervise the operation of the apparatus.

Plans also are being made to broadcast the program direct from the contest grounds. Electricians have surveyed the farm and will begin soon to erect telephone wires for use in radio broadcasting.

A cable is being laid to supply electricity for broadcasting the program through amplifiers to the audience on the natural amphitheater at the contest grounds.

Urges Early Entries.

Mr. Dinsmore urges prospective contestants to enter the teams soon so that arrangements can be made to take pictures of animals in advance of the contest. All entries must bear a postmark dated not later than midnight, June 8, 1935. Teams of horses, mules, and a combination of one mule and one horse may be entered.

Information concerning the details of the contest will be supplied upon request.

RUMANIA ARMS; O.K.'S WAR CHEST OF $220,000,000

Aims to Be the Strongest Power in Balkans.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 28.—(AP)—A vast national defense scheme designed to make Rumania the strongest military power in southwestern Europe and the Balkans was approved today at a council session presided over by King Carol.

Details of the plan were closely guarded, but it was known the council signed a contract with the Skoda Munitions works of Czechoslovakia to supply Rumania with ammunition and artillery worth $25,000,000.

It was known also that $220,000,000 was to be spent on a ten year armament program.

Premier Tataresou announced financial and popular support for the new arms program was assured.

"We want peace," he said, "but when the arsenals of the world are busy manufacturing arms, Rumania too must take necessary steps to preserve peace."

Aid Based on League Decision.

MOSCOW, April 28.—(AP)—France and Russia have agreed that mutual military assistance rendered under the Franco-soviet pact should be given on the basis of a decision of the council of the league of nations, an official communique announced today. The government stated further that the Franco-soviet pact would fit in with the Locarno agreements.

Both France and Russia have been in agreement on these points since the beginning of negotiations, the communique said, and thus the question of automatic military assistance did not cause and is not causing differences between the two countries.

"There is no reason to believe," it said, "that any insurmountable obstacles exist in the way of reaching a complete agreement."

Text of Communique.

"The Tass news agency received the following information from authorized quarters with regard to Franco-soviet negotiations for a mutual assistance pact:

"The question of the so-called assistance clause, despite contrary reports in some organs of the press, has not caused and is not causing differences. Both sides from the very beginning agreed that mutual assistance should be given on the basis of a decision by the council of the league of nations.

"Thus the Franco-soviet pact will correspond with the Locarno agreements. Negotiations were opened on this understanding when the matter of a regional eastern accord and a Franco-soviet pact first came up for discussion.

Difficulty Is Admitted.

"There has been some difficulty in finding the proper form for framing an agreement. The soviet union for its part has striven first for a guarantee of complete reciprocity engagements; second, to give the pact such a form that it could not possibly appear as directed against any outside party, and third, to obtain an understanding between the two signatories as to the limits of the engagements they are to assume.

"There is no reason to believe that these aims do not correspond with the desires of the French governments or that there is any insurmountable obstacle to reaching a complete agreement on the text of all clauses of the pact."

SEALED ORDERS START FLEET ON PACIFIC CRUISE

San Pedro, Cal., April 28.—(AP)—Virtually the full power of American defense at sea was prepared today for the most secret fleet problem in United States naval history.

The fighting strength of the United States fleet, with the exception of the units at the Panama Canal Zone and the training squadron on the east coast, was under sealed orders.

With dawn tomorrow about 153 ships of the fleet will be under way, for six weeks of maneuvers, in an area extending from the Hawaiian Islands to Alaska, and from Midway Island, 1,200 miles west of Honolulu, to the Pacific coast.

The aerial power of the fleet, 466 planes, is nearly 50 per cent greater than ever before sent into maneuvers. The first carrier division of the fleet, the Saratoga, Lexington, Ranger, and the Langley will move out of San Diego, together with the submarines, cruisers, and destroyers and the other vessels based there.

Soviet Pair Claim Glider Record; 26 Hours Aloft

KOKTABEL, Crimea, U. S. S. R., April 28.—(AP)—Pilot Rostorguyeff and Student Pilot Baibuf remained in the air in a glider for 26 hours, 29 minutes today and claimed a world's record. The last record, according to Russians, was established in this country last year, a flight of 24 hours, 10 minutes duration.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, April 28.—The Lithuanian government is preparing to answer a note to the signatory powers—Great Britain, France, and Italy—which have protested against the alleged nonfulfillment of the Memel statutes by Lithuania.

The Kaunas note will reaffirm Lithuania's contention of Germany's continuous interference in the affairs of Memel, the chief cause of the conflict between Lithuania and Germany. The dispute has resulted in Berlin declaring an economic boycott against Lithuania and closing the East Prussian frontier for border trade. Lithuania contends the powers cannot hold her responsible for the present situation in the territory which was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles.

The soviet Russian government, which is actively interested in the Memel question, has assured Lithuania of her support. The Moscow newspaper Izvestia said the Memel question undoubtedly would become more serious in the near future, since, should British diplomacy fail to help Germany achieve her alms, there was a prospect of the Nazis organizing a putsch to seize this district.

The soviet government is interested in frustrating the Nazi ambitions because Moscow believes this to be one of the preparations Germany must make before she can realize her plan to attack Russia.

Storm Troops today assisted the police of Eydtkuhnen, East Prussia, in breaking up a demonstration of housewives against the German government's order compeling them to boycott the Lithuanian produce market across the frontier. Forty women were detained, but later released. The boycott has resulted in hardship for the poorer classes in East Prussian frontier towns as the prices of foodstuffs are 50 per cent lower in Lithuania and a large trafic had developed with housewives crossing the frontier daily to do their marketing.

REOPEN TRIAL TO SHOW FALSITY OF 'ZION PROTOCOLS'

BERNE, Switzerland, April 28.—(AP)—Jewry's effort to prove it is not seeking to dominate the world enters its final phase tomorrow when a hearing reopens in the famous "Protocols of the Elders of Zion" case.

The suit was brought by Swiss Jewish organizations against leaders of Swiss Nazi organizations, which have been dissolved. The latter used the "Protocols" in an attempt to prove allegations Israel planned to rule the world and to arouse public feeling against Jews.

YANKEE AIR BASE CLOSE TO CANADA URGED IN BILL

Topic "Camouflaged," Officer Says.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—A "camouflaged" provision for a powerful air base near the Canadian border was disclosed today to have been written into the Wilcox air base bill as redrafted by the war department.

Brig. Gen. Charles E. Kilbourne, assistant chief of staf in charge of war plans, put the language into the bill already approved by the house military committee. The bill designates six other strategic areas for consideration in creating defensive aviation centers.

"I should be very glad to put in the bill the great lakes area," Kilbourne told a secret meeting of the committee, "but I could not put it in the bill because of the Canadian situation.

"You will notice No. 7 in my bill is camouflaged. It is called 'intermediate' stations for transcontinental flights, but it means the same thing."

As framed by Representative Wilcox [Dem., Fla.], the bill proposed a base in the great lakes region, but that clause was eliminated after Kilbourne said:

"We do not want to accentuate anything that would look as though we contemplated passing away from the century old principle that our Canadian border needs no defense. I thing it would be very unfortunate if we did."

Brig. Gen. F. M. Andrews, head of the new general headquarters air force, told the committee, Canada might be forced to join a coalition hostile to the United States and then:

"'Air force' operations from a base in the great lakes area would be capable of dominating the industrial heart of Canada, the Ontario peninsula, and prevent establishment of enemy bases in that area for operations against this particularly vital area—northeast United States."

JAPANESE, YANKEES FREELY STUDY ARMIES OF BOTH THE NATIONS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Keeping tabs on what the other fellow is doing, world nations are studying war on an international exchange plan which has put Japanese officers in United States army units and assigned American experts to Nippon's regiments.

The interchange is accomplished by reciprocal understandings between the United States government and a string of nations around the world. Constant surveillance of new devolpments in the science of destruction is the objective.

Although agreements exist with a number of European and Asiatic countries, only one foreign officer—Capt. Hiromichi Yahara of the imperial Japanese army—is now attached to an American regiment.

HITLER EXPLAINS NEW NAVY STAND TO BRITAIN TODAY

Germans Invite London Aid to Conference.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 28.—Although German naval authorities insist there is no truth to the report that twelve submarines have been laid down at Kiel, they today invited the British naval attaché to call on them tomorrow to give him a new explanation of the reich's naval policy. Reichsfuehrer Hitler returned to Berlin today and it was assumed that he would confer with his naval experts before they talk to Great Britain's representative.

Diplomatic circles close to the British contend they have information that Germany has started building "vest pocket" submarines of 250 tons each for "training purposes."

May Cancel Naval Parley.

LONDON, April 28.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Hitler's reported construction of 250-ton "vestpocket" submarines in violation of the Versailles treaty was believed in informed quarters tonight to have wrecked plans for the scheduled Anglo-German naval conversations in London the second week in May.

The British cabinet was expected to hold an emergency meeting tomorrow to discuss canceling or going ahead with the conferences in the face of the new German gesture with which Hitler confronted an alarmed Europe yesterday—his third fait accompli since March 16 when he announced army conscription.

The full seriousness of adding the submarine to an armed Germany, at first depreciated, was pointed out by naval experts today while cabinet members individually considered what action to take.

The early reaction here was that Germany could not do much in the way of aggression with her small new submarines which the Berlin defense ministry has admitted form a part of the reich's armament plans.

Experts exploded this belief, however, recalling that during the world war Germany bottled up and almost succeeded in starving England with even smaller U-boats than the new 250-ton craft which the most reliable British sources insist are already under construction.

Tracked Down Troop Ships.

These small wartime craft averaged only 160 to 260 tons, the latter known as the UB-type, being operated in the North sea channel with great effectiveness. The 160-ton craft were restricted to an active radius of 900 miles, but served powerfully by carrying mines. The 260-tonners had a cruising radius of nearly 6,000 miles and carried four torpedoes and a six-pound or a 12-pound gun. They often stayed at sea for weeks tracking down allied troop ships and supply ships.

According to the London Herald a "powerful naval and airplane base has been constructed on the North sea by Germany. Details of the alleged German fortifications on the Island of Sylt in the North sea were credited by the Herald to the Pariser Tageblatt, a German refugees' publication in Paris. The island was described as a "second Helgoland" [former German naval base].

Denunciation of the London naval treaty limitations by Britain was urged by the Morning Post, London's only strictly Conservative party newspaper, because of Germany's reported submarine building program. The London treaty is the only naval disarmament pact remaining in full force in the world today, since Japan has already denounced the Washington treaty.

German War Vets Remove 'Shame of Versailles' Crepe

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP)—Black crêpe bows which have been carried on the standards of the Steel Helmet association as a symbol of mourning for the "shame of Versailles" were ceremoniously removed today in acknowledgment of Adolf Hitler's restoration of the German army. The solemn act took place on the parade ground at Hasenheide, where 7,200 Steel Helmet members assembled.

CATHOLICS FIGHT TO KEEP SCHOOLS IN NAZI GERMANY

Campaign Opened by Senior Cardinal.

BERLIN, April 28.—(AP)—Roman Catholics throughout Germany began today an intensive campaign for the maintenance of their parochial schools as guaranteed in the Vatican concordat.

Observers attached significance to the campaign, to be pursued throughout a so-called "educational week," in view of the present strained situation between German churches and the state.

Roman Catholics are known to feel that the existence of their schools is jeopardized by the Nazi drive for "one nation, one school."

Cardinal's Plea to Catholics.

In a pastoral letter Cardinal Bertram of Breslau, the senior German cardinal, exhorted Catholics to hold steadfastly to the principle of religious education.

His letter was frankly and gravely apprehensive of the effects which Nazi schooling would have, he said, on young minds removed at a receptive age from the religious care of parents.

The Nazis' charge that religious education makes for Schism was answered by the cardinal's emphatic statement that "religious dissension is caused not by believing Christians—who in this matter stand commendably shoulder to shoulder—but by those who would force a new faith upon the people even by the most oppressive and unscrupulous methods."

Points to Article in Concordat.

The compulsory transference of some 30,000 Catholic children of both sexes between 13 and 14 years of age to undenominational schools in accordance with the Nazi scheme to "smooth out religious differences," was regarded as extremely dangerous by Cardinal Bertram. He cited article 23 of the concordat, which provides that "maintenance and extension of Catholic confessional schools is guaranteed."

Meanwhile, at Trier, the Catholic Paulinusblatt was seized by secret police. No reason was assigned for the action.

REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP FOR LOYAL AMERICANISM.

Conferences of Republicans, like that at Excelsior Springs, to discuss the fighting organization of citizenship for the defense of American institutions and ideals are a reassuring development. The situation created by the pseudo-Democratic administration does not bring Republicans and Democrats who honestly cherish their party principles into serious conflict, since it has raised fundamental issues upon which principled Republicans and Democrats are not divided. But the Democratic party being in power, though directed by a régime which has repudiated Democratic principles, the chief responsibility for expressing opposition to the destruction of the American order lies with Republican leadership.

The course before Republican conferences is therefore clear. It points to the emphatic and unambiguous assertion of fundamental American principles and the forceful condemnation of the subversive acts and proposals of the so-called New Deal, which is in fact the old deal of government autocracy, dressed up in the pretense of humanitarianism and social justice.

Amid the confusion of thinking and feeling, the fear and discontent into which the depression years have plunged the people and which demagogs and shrewd advocates of revolutionary change are exploiting, the duty of Republican leadership is to stand up and stand fast for the restoration of American principles and ideals. It should fearlessly assert the validity of basic American political, economic, and social ideas and traditions, under which the American people have achieved through a century and a half the most widespread prosperity and progress of any nation in the world, past or present. It should challenge the New Dealers' distortions of the American story and the exaggeration of the excesses and evils incident to every society in the world, though ascribed by the propaganda of the New Deal to the American order it is trying to destroy.

In short, it should point the true objective of the nation, which is the defeat of subversive measures and the restoration of the American democratic faith, the liberty of the American freeman and his lawful activities, the richly productive forces of free American enterprise which alone can meet and master the vast problems of mass employment. It should assert the fundamental requirements of our social order and social progress through the initiative, energy, thrift, and integrity of our people, and the ability of American character and intelligence to deal wisely with the evils which have been demonstrated in our national experience, without the reckless destruction of American institutions or the desertion of the American faith in freedom and self-government.

The ground of loyal America is sound and unshaken. It is in the hearts and minds of the great majority of our people, despite the howling of demagogs or the sophistries of half-baked theorists. That ground Republican leadership should take and there plant its banner, to which all loyal Americans, whatever their past political affiliations, may confidently repair.

THE CANADIAN SEAWAY RE-EXAMINED.

One more impartial student of the St. Lawrence waterway project, Mr. Ramon Wyer of the Harvard school of business administration, has found it to be unjustified economically. The claims made on its behalf he finds to be fantastically exaggerated. The estimates of costs are too low, the estimates of benefits too high.

He notes, for example, that Frank P. Walsh, chairman of the New York state power authority, has stated that operation of the proposed waterway would effect a saving in power costs in nine northeastern states "conservatively estimated at 200 million dollars a year." This statement Mr. Wyer characterizes as "absolutely fallacious, apparently based upon political strategy rather than upon facts." Mr. Wyer quotes the official estimate of Mr. Walsh's power authority to the effect that the saving in cost of power supply would not exceed 10 million dollars a year and the comment of the authority that a saving of this magnitude "would be scarcely discernible in the consumers' monthly bill."

The adverse findings will astonish no one who has looked into the matter carefully. Their significance at this time is to be found in the light they cast upon the other schemes of the government for navigation and power in various sections of the country. The St. Lawrence system is already an important artery for commerce and has been used as a commercial waterway for well over 300 years. There are no undeveloped power sites in the country where there is so even a year around flow as is to be found in the St. Lawrence and so stupendous a volume of flow. Yet neither for navigation nor for the production of electricity nor for the two in combination is there economic justification for the St. Lawrence project.

The conclusion is inescapable. If the expenditures on the St. Lawrence will be a liability to the nation, the expenditures at other power sites will be a far heavier one in proportion to their cost. President Roosevelt and Honest Harold Ickes are the most profligate squanderers of other people's money that this or any other country has ever known.

HEADED FOR OUTLAWRY?

The news of armament programs coming in day by day from all parts of the world makes an interesting and voluminous appendix to the treaty which outlawed war.

There is, for example, the increase of the French army and the disclosure of the tremendous line of fortifications along 200 miles of the Franco-German frontier. French naval building also is being increased and accelerated. The British naval plans provide for a substantial increase of the strength of the greatest naval power of the world and British military equipment on advanced lines is going forward at high speed. The Italian navy is being strengthened and Mussolini's militarization of Italian youth is proceeding with unabated if not heightened enthusiasm. Moving eastward, the recent sensational declaration of Herr Hitler has revealed that in spite of the Versailles treaty Germany has been creating an army and armament which has already brought her back to a place among the great military powers. At the same time there is talk of increasing the forces of the little entente, and passing through Poland under its military dictatorship, which has certainly not allowed its army and armament to decay, we hear that the communist Utopia, already supposed to have the largest and one of the best equipped armies in the world, has twice as many soldiers as had been credited to its account. The Japanese commander in chief in Manchuria has told a New York Times correspondent that Russia has an army of 200,000 men, with 600 tanks and 600 war planes, in the eastern area, and the soviet commissar for war has lately intimated a line of fortifications extending from Lake Ladoga in the north to the Black sea, a distance of about 1,200 miles. Making due allowance for military pride or some element of diplomatic exaggeration, there is undoubtedly enough of fact in what is reported of soviet armament to support an estimate of Russia as potentially if not actually the greatest military power on earth.

So much for Europe. In the far east Japan, already one of the foremost naval and military powers among the nations, has been increasing its army and navy appropriations, increasing its military resources and its strategic situation, and China, its huge neighbor, containing approximately a quarter of the population of the globe, though weakened and demoralized by internal warfare, political factions and industrial backwardness, is hopefully building up aviation and has, it has been estimated, two million or so under arms in its various armies, public and private.

As for the birthplace of outlawed war, its statesmen seem to have discovered "the folly and futility" of our course since the war to end war ended, while we devoted our efforts to inventing and instituting the machinery of world peace, whose final fruitage was the outlawry of war. At the present moment we propose to catch up by increasing our army to a level somewhat below Czechoslovakia, building more and better quarters for our soldiers and passing the largest peace time naval appropriation in our annals, in order to build up the navy to the limits permitted by the treaties contrived at Washington in 1922 and at London in 1930.

It is unanimously declared by the governments named herein that their respective programs are strictly defensive, forced upon them by the malevolence of their neighbors, of which, truth to say, there appears to be a plenty. Were it not for these gratifying assurances of pacific intent we should be compelled to believe that all the nations were preparing for a course of outlawry.

A SENATOR DISCOVERS THE CONSTITUTION.

A high light of humor was reached in Washington last week when Senator Connally, one of the chief nation wreckers of the New Deal, rose to the defense of the Constitution. He championed it as an immovable barrier, barring government interference with mob violence and murder.

Editorial of the Day

THE SOCIAL SECURITY BILL.

[Bloomington Pantagraph.]

The house has passed what is called the social security bill, which now goes to the federal senate.

This is generally spoken of as an old age pension bill; but strictly speaking, the federal government promises no old age pensions in this measure; in title I it simply agrees to pay half the cost of such pensions in states which pass their own pension laws. The federal contribution in any case would not exceed $15 per month, under this bill. In case no state passes a pension law the federal appropriation for that purpose goes back to the general treasury.

The proposed old age pensions, created by coöperation of federal and state agencies, would be financed by a tax on the wages of employés and the pay rolls of employers, with certain exceptions. All wages up to $3,000 per year would be taxed at one-half of 1 per cent for the first $3,000, and graded upward. The employer is expected to pay a like tax on the pay roll, or the wages of all his employés, which is gradually increased until 1949, when the total yield from such taxes is expected to be 600 million dollars.

The bill will go to the senate where it is expected to stir a lively debate. It is questioned whether the proposed substantial new taxes on pay rolls and wages will not be a detriment instead of a benefit in the nation's economic recovery. When business is seeking by all possible means to resume its normal speed and to employ its normal number of workers, this proposed heavy tax, running up to 9 per cent at its maximum, would tend to frighten capital from new ventures and to make necessary cutting of pay rolls to the limit. With these possibilities ahead, it is questioned whether this measure is in fact a "social security" program, or one tending in an opposite direction. A less ambitious and tumultuous start on a far reaching program which may take years to perfect would come nearer suiting the present conditions, in which the business and industry of the country looks in vain for signs of governmental encouragement, but sees instead frequent political attempts to penalize and stultify it.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may.

WHY PICK ON US?

By Major General C. Linche Bugge, commanding Chinch Bug Army of Invasion.

A cruel war of extermination has been organized in the United States. For weeks we have read in the newspapers such cruel headlines as these: "Gather Today to Map Fight on Chinch Bugs," "Ruthless War Against Chinch Bugs Declared," "Chinch Bugs to be Burned, Drowned and Poisoned." Now, I ask you, is it fair? We chinch bugs destroy the crops, I grant you that. There is nothing we love so much as to descend by the million in a fine field of young grain and have our breakfast and stay to dinner and supper and munch and munch and munch until it is all gone. Then we beat it over to some more fields and keep right on feasting. It's a funny thing about us chinch bugs that we just eat all the time. And we destroy the crops, there's not the slightest doubt about that. BUT—and notice I used capitals in the BUT—are we not aiding your government? Your AAA has battled nobly to cut down overproduction, it has buried tens of thousands of little pigs, it has paid the farmers to plow under great fields of cotton and wheat and corn. Now, the destruction of crops, the great battle against overproduction, is what we chinch bugs are continually carrying on. And we ask no pay for our work. You give the farmer money to plow under his crops and kill the little pigs. We, the Chinch Bug Army of Invasion, will do this work free of charge. It won't cost you a nickel. Groaning as you are over the mounting taxes, would it not be better to stop fighting us chinch bugs, but just turn us loose and tell us to go to it? And we speak as well for our allies, the Cotton Boll Shock Troops and the Advance Guard of Grasshoppers. We are willing to work under the direction of the AAA if you want it that way. We know that Washington wants to spend that five billion dollar appropriation that is just standing up on its hind legs and a-rarin' to go. All right, build nice restrooms and cottages for us chinch bugs. Send us teachers and entertainers. Or put the money in greenbacks and pile it up in your parks and watch us chinch bugs descend on it and eat it. Give us a chance—we can destroy your crops and your money, probably not any faster than you can, but just as thoroughly, and save you all the trouble. All we ask is equal treatment. Justice for Chinch Bugs is our slogan.

XCII.

Look where the dawn between the sill and shade
Lays her cool dagger. Now we are undone
By hours like minutes and the rising sun
That sees exultant novæ flare and fade.
My heart, my heart! the star was never made
That shines forever, but no other one
Shines brighter where the shadow patterns run
On moon-washed vistas of love's colonnade.
I will remember you when harp and bell
Are silent and their echoes silent, too.
I will remember a great star that fell
In a white arc described across the blue.
And if there be a star that shines in hell,
Down in that dark I will remember you.

NANCY SHORES.

IT'S GETTING AROUND towards commencement time. And the seniors are in doubt as to whether to write their graduation essays on "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy" or "How to Crash the Dole."

THIS IS THE LAST of April, and who cares? Since April showers changed to dust storms we don't talk about them bringing flowers any more. This April has been a sad disappointment, but each month in turn fails to live up to the high hopes we have of it when it begins. They get sadder and sadder, or it may be that upward trend in prices of eggs and pork chops and butter and things, and skyrocketing taxes make 'em seem that way. Anyhow, welcome May! You might be a big improvement. Certainly you can't be any worse.

FAMILIAR BEAUTY.

Familiar beauty is too much to hold.
The sky is numb and heavy with its blue . . .
The stars ache with their light, and in the dew
The crocus spills its bright and clumsy gold.

Against the earth's flank, green and silver-still
The furrows dig like knives. Across the hill

RAYMOND HOSKEN.

THIS LOOKS OMINOUS! Scientists say they have reached the very verge of tapping the atom. And if and when they do that and release the poor atoms they will increase energy two hundred million times. Horrible! Suppose they feed those cracked atoms to the New Dealers down in Washington! And suppose some of the stuff gets into the gasoline in our cars! And suppose Hooey Long eats a teaspoonful of it! And Herr Hitler gets a dose of cracked atoms! And Mussolini! However, a couple of gallons of the stuff would be grand for the G. O. P. Or maybe a barrel of it wouldn't be any too much.

TOP OF THE MORNING.

One I love,
Two I love,
Three I love, I say;
Sunshine over rows of books,
Cherry bloom in May,

But most of all, and every year
More and more and more,
Mystery, in postman's guise,
Knocking at the door.

PROTEIN SENSITIVITY—ALLERGY.

ASTHMA for many centuries has been recognized as a distressing ailment, and as early as 1698 Sir John Floyer, a confirmed sufferer from this disease, published what is now a famous essay on the condition. Evidently, in Floyer's case, the symptoms were not incompatible with life for, as Samuel Johnson wrote, "He panted on to ninety." In his dedication Floyer says: "In periodic asthma the returns must depend on the defluxion of humours where the inflations begin [on the lungs and nerves]." Again he says that "the bronchia are constringed."

In 1859 Hyde Salter first called attention to the fact that hair or dandruff was in many cases the exciting cause. He recorded instances in which attacks were brought on by the presence of cats, horses, guinea pigs, rabbits, cattle, sheep, and deer. About this time the famous French physician, Trousseau, wrote of a woman who had an attack of asthma whenever a feather bed was shaken in her presence.

The word "allergy" means "other energy," and since Goodale in 1916 suggested a method for detecting protein sensitivity, the term has been applied to abnormal body reactions due to the absorption of proteins. Asthma, hay fever, eczema, and many skin manifestations are included.

Allergy is characterized by an unusual susceptibility to a substance harmless to most people. Of the individuals who are sensitive, some are more so than others, and in certain persons the reaction may be exceedingly severe, even endangering life.

The phenomenon is often attended with a galaxy of symptoms. Absorption via the air passages is, in many instances, responsible for conjunctivitis, hay fever, and bronchial asthma. If the offending protein is taken in through the digestive tract there may be ulcers in the mouth, vomiting, diarrhea, vague abdominal pain, or intractable itching about the rectum. Protein that enters the body through the skin brings on itching, hives, eczema, or dermatitis.

Patients who complain of prolonged colds, chronic bronchitis, or catarrh should be thoroughly examined for an underlying allergic cause.

As an example of food allergy the case is reported of a lad of 5 years who from the age of 18 months had suffered repeated attacks of bronchitis accompanied by an unusually high fever. As soon as a careful record of all foods was made it was observed that shortly after eating heavily of potatoes breathing became difficult. Eliminating potatoes relieved the condition entirely. Not so long ago a 3 year old who apparently had epilepsy was found to be sensitive to the protein contained in cheese. The phenomenon disappeared promptly upon the elimination of cheese from the diet.

In about 1 per cent of the cases of asthma foods are responsible. The identification of the offending protein is often difficult and it may be necessary to starve the patient mildly before the particular substance can be found. Only a few simple foods should be given at first. If after several days there are no symptoms other foods may be added one at a time. In this way the offender can usually be discovered.

Testing the skin for a reaction by the injection of a series of protein extracts or the use of the so-called patch test will frequently serve to determine the irritating protein.

Once the cause is found the treatment, in many cases, consists only of not using a certain food or foods, or in avoiding contact with particular proteins such as animal hair, feathers, silk, pollen of flowers and weeds, etc. In others, however, it is necessary to desensitize by means of a vaccine prepared from the poisonous protein. It is not always possible to desensitize completely every patient, and these persons must remain under observation and, in addition, help study their own cases.

Ninety-nine per cent of the population can eat all forms of protein without exhibiting signs of sensitivity, and the remaining 1 per cent are not sensitive to all proteins. While the problem is most annoying to sensitized individuals, it is not in any sense a hopeless one.

BLASTOMYCOSIS.

W. K. describes a case of blastomycosis involving the urinary tract, kidney, bladder, and testicle. After the removal of one kidney and one testicle, but only after two years of search, a diagnosis of blastomycosis [fungus growth] was made after careful microscopic examination of the discharge.

As was pointed out in the article that appeared in this column, the condition is frequently mistaken for tuberculosis, apparently the diagnosis in this case. The intravenous use of sodium iodide completely cleared up the condition, with the result that the patient has now entirely recovered.

MENINGITIS.

M. S. writes: In January I lost my 4 year old son, who had pneumococcus meningitis. What is this disease?

REPLY.

Meningitis, or inflammation of the coverings of the brain, may be caused by several different organisms. The common variety is the meningococcus, which is a biscuit-shaped bacillus and against which an antitoxin has been prepared. When due to this organism the disease is known as cerebrospinal fever or spinal meningitis.

Sometimes meningitis is the result of an infection in the middle ear. Streptococci and pus may burrow into the brain, which lies close to the mastoid cells. What is true of this organism is also true of the pneumococcus. This organism is one of the prime causes of pneumonia and may gain entrance to the blood stream and be carried to the coverings of the brain [meninges]. Infections of this character are serious.

EASY ON THE EGGS.

E. C. writes: You say that egg yolk contains a great deal of cholesterol. Since this substance is a great factor in the formation of gall stones, I am wondering if two eggs a day would be harmful?

REPLY.

Individuals who are inclined to gall bladder disease should reduce the amount of cholesterol in the diet. This means not more than one egg per day other than the egg material used in ordinary cooking.

INHERITANCE.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. A will was made several years ago in another city by my husband's grandfather, giving him a share of his estate on my husband's fortieth birthday. Would it be possible to obtain a copy of that will without the services of an attorney? 2. If so, just how would I go about it? Would there be charges? 3. How long could the persons in charge hold such property before notifying heirs? 4. If a woman is living with her husband at the time he becomes heir to an estate and that estate is not claimed until later, would there be any chance of her claiming a share of that estate? I mean, of course, if the estate was not claimed while she was living with him. 5. If there is no settlement, just what share of an estate is a wife entitled to if she obtains a divorce? G. B. H.

1. Try writing to the clerk of the probate court where the estate was settled.
2. See 1.
3. Obviously they might never give notice.
4. If the estate involves land, then the wife would acquire a dower interest.
5. The divorce judge would have power to make a fair settlement, taking into account all of the equities of the parties, but if the decree is silent on the point the wife will only have her dower.

DISINHERITING RELATIVES.

Dubuque, Ia., April 22.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In March, 1930, my aunt, 98 years old, residing in New York, died possessed of $200,000 or more. She was married but had no children, therefore no direct legal blood heirs other than myself as her nephew. Our relations were extremely amicable. A few days before her demise, at the instigation of her husband, who was worth in his own right $1,500,000, she made a codicil to her will bequeathing her entire fortune to him, with the exception of $10,000 to a maid. Under the laws of New York as of the above date had she the right to give her entire fortune to her husband, or is the amount limited? D. C.

The law does not prevent a husband or wife from disinheriting other relatives, but in view of the age of the testatrix and of the fact that the will was executed so shortly before her death we would consider your chances of contest good enough to warant going over your facts in a personal interview with an attorney.

LIFE TENANT.

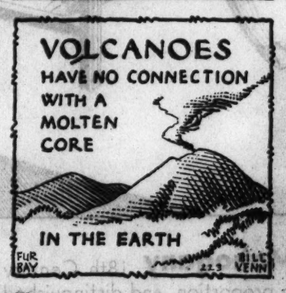
Hume, Ill., April 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If there is a mortgage on a farm and other outstanding debts, can one procure a government loan? My sister's husband died leaving her the income on his farm until her death, after which it is to go to his heirs, her stepchildren. The taxes on said farm have not been paid for two years prior to her death. His will does not provide that she pay the taxes. Would there be a claim against her estate for the taxes? If so, would this claim be allowed before the claim of a sister who cared for her during her three years' illness?

S. V.

It is the general rule that a life tenant should pay general taxes on real estate, but we cannot give specific advice without having the wording of the will in question before us. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.



There is no molten center of the earth, geologists now tell us, for the passage of earthquake waves through the earth proves that it is solid all the way through. Volcanoes have small lava pockets at their roots, only a few miles down, just as an oil well has a reservoir of its own. The pressure in these lava pockets becomes so great at times that it "boils over," and we call it an eruption.

REJOINDER TO U. OF C. ALUMNUS.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 17.—As a Republican who has always been a progressive [but is unwilling to align himself now with Wisconsin progressives, who may be too progressive], this writer defends the course taken by Charles R. Walgreen. It is my uncompromising position that, like the Christian church, America's educational system from start to finish ought to espouse the cause of the social order in which it finds itself. Just criticisms of any and all weaknesses as may be developed in political practices, and especially such as are definitly known and admitted to have contributed to social injustices, may and ought to be pointed out. But there should be no indoctrination of the tenets of some other social "ism." Many intellectual minds have studied Marxism—the mere gateway or prelude to communism—much as the dead languages are taken up. There can be no objection to any student wishing to add to his cultural and social knowledge studying Marxism, or even to espouse the system within himself. But all that needs to be told him in the classroom, inasmuch as it is no definite science, is the brief definition which Strachy gave of Marxism just before he turned his back on our Statue of Liberty: It is the analagous discovery in the field of economics to Darwin's theory of evolution, for Karl Marx elucidated [but without proving] what he called "the law of modern society."

In the case of dead languages no differences of opinion exist; in Marxism there exist many diverging views, and therefore it is much as if religion were to be taught in our schools. The teacher of a fundamentalist vintage might indoctrinate pupils that it is the truth of God that the whale swallowed Jonah. The modernist might teach at this blessed Eastertide that the physical body of Christ did not arise; that only his spirit survived him, and that the resurrection refers to the spiritual interpretation. Or what might some Jewish parent say if to the question, "Sol, what did you learn at school today?" the answer came, "Teacher said the Jews crucified Christ."

Exponents who passionately espouse the cause of a "free pulpit," or "academic freedom," are liberals and hypocrites desiring to propagate their cause of some new "ism," or indoctrinate social-political ideas with which they are enamored. And once attained to their goal would probably become the conservatives, which the majority of us are now, and they would be the last to tolerate basically new "isms" and their propagation. CARL F. KECK.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION ENDORSED.

Chicago, April 25.—At a meeting of the civic service committee of the Men's Club of Sinai, an organization consisting of 1,200 members, most of whom reside in the Third, Fifth and Thirteenth senatorial districts, a resolution endorsing the permanent registration bill now pending in the state legislature was unanimously adopted, and the chairman directed to notify the members of the legislature of the committee's action. LEO S. KOSITCHEK.

THE BRIDLE PATH.

Chicago, April 23.—I cannot understand how any one can be as selfish as William Smith, whose article appeared in Sunday's TRIBUNE, and who had the audacity to suggest the removal of the Lincoln park bridle path. The bridle path has been in Lincoln park for more than forty years and is enjoyed by not only those who ride but those who enjoy watching horses in action. If any one dislikes dust he can stay away from the path. There is plenty of room in Lincoln park.

For the few golf players who are disturbed by the dust there are plenty of courses nearer the city where they can carry their golf bags, which would be much easier than moving the bridle path. E. M. SCHROM.

JEFFERSON ON LIBERTY OF OPINION.

Chicago, April 19.—In his first inaugural address, March 4, 1801, Thomas Jefferson said:

"If there be any among us who would wish to dissolve this Union or to change its republican form let them stand undisturbed as monuments of the safety with which error of opinion may be tolerated, where reason is left free to combat it." MERLIN M. AMES.

HE DOESN'T LIKE THEM.

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 24.—Headline in Grand Rapids Press April 23: "Favors Life Term for U. S. Senators."

If certain members of the house, a few cabinet members and some department heads could also be disposed of in this way we could soon make some progress toward the recovery we have longed for for four years. STUART P. WILLIAMSON.

HITLER TARGET OF ATTACK BY PAPAL LEGATE

Cardinal Pacelli Closes Lourdes Masses.

LOURDES, France, April 28.—(AP)—Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli, secretary of state for the Vatican served indirect notice upon Reichsfuehrer Hitler today that the Roman Catholic church never will come to terms with him while the Nazis persist in a racial philosophy "contrary to the Christian faith."

CARDINAL PACELLI

Enemies of the cross, "whatever their name," were denounced by the pope's representative at the Eucharistic triduum here as "the real fomenters of evils from which humanity suffers."

It was the cardinal's closing speech after three nights and three days of continuous masses dedicated to peace at this famous grotto. Many German pilgrims were among the immense throng at the colorful final ceremony.

Condemns Reds, Too.

An attack on both Hitlerism and communism was apparent in Cardinal Pacelli's denunciation of Christianity's "enemies" whom he accused of using the depression to spread "aversion for the cross."

"The poverty and distress which shakes the social order is great, deep and anguishing," he said, adding "worry over our daily bread in the depressing uncertainty of tomorrow uses up the physical and moral forces of many men without leaving them a little calm and respite to think of their souls.

"With the mind always upon material tasks they scarcely think at all any longer, raising their eyes to the cross.

"What is tragic is that this aversion for the cross is raised to its utmost by those who are denying the fundamental dogma of sin and reject the idea of redemption as injurious to human dignity.

"New Cover for Errors."

"With the illusion of extolling new wisdom, they are really only lamentable plagiarists who cover with new trumpery errors quite old.

"It matters little that they mass around the flag of social revolution. They are inspired by a false conception of the world and life. Whether they are possessed by superstition of race and blood, their philosophy as that of others, rests upon principles essentially opposed to those of the Christian faith. And on such principles the church does not consent to form a compact with them at any price."

A quarter of a million religious pilgrims were crowded in this small town to attend the last mass of the continuous 72 hour rites while the radio was bringing to the pilgrims the voice of Pope Pius from Vatican City ending the Catholic "jubilee of redemption" which began with the proclamation of the holy year in 1933. The pope delivered a prayer for peace and good will in the world.

Pilgrims prayed in a hillside grotto where priests and bishops intoned a continuous chain of masses. The entire mountainside above the shrine was a riot of flowers which have blossomed since the opening of the triduum.

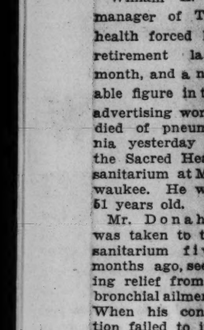
WM. E. DONAHUE DIES; RETIRED AD CHIEF OF TRIBUNE

International Figure in Newspaper Field.

William E. Donahue, advertising manager of THE TRIBUNE until ill health forced his retirement last month, and a notable figure in the advertising world, died of pneumonia yesterday in the Sacred Heart sanitarium at Milwaukee. He was 51 years old.



WM. E. DONAHUE. (Rayhuff-Richter photo.)

Mr. Donahue was taken to the sanitarium five months ago, seeking relief from a bronchial ailment. When his condition failed to improve he resigned his position with THE TRIBUNE on March 14, after serving in the capacity of advertising manager for more than six years. He was succeeded as manager by his assistant, C. M. Campbell.

Mr. Donahue first came to THE TRIBUNE in 1904. With the exception of a seven month period in 1910 his employment with the newspaper was continuous.

Salesman His First Job.

Growing with the newspaper, Mr. Donahue started at the bottom in the advertising department. His talents as a salesman and the system he later developed of training young men aided his advance, and for several years he headed the display advertising department.

During this period, the post-war expansion years of THE TRIBUNE, Mr. Donahue was active in the development of his department. On many occasions he was called on to lecture before student bodies or at conventions of the advertising fraternity.

When advertising men held an international convention in England in 1924, Mr. Donahue was a delegate from Chicago. Later in 1929 at Berlin, at a conference of French, Danish, English, and German advertisers, he attracted attention with his description of the thorough training given young men in his department of THE TRIBUNE.

Relatives in Same Work.

Surviving Mr. Donahue are his widow, Mrs. Mae E. Donahue, who lives at 6231 Kenmore avenue; a sister, and a brother. He was the uncle of Charles W. Donahue, merchandising manager of the New York News, and of Daniel J. Donahue, local display solicitor of the Cincinnati Post.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday from the chapel at 1353 Devon avenue, to St. Ita's church. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery.

TRACY LYON DIES; PULLMAN CLUB CAR DESIGNER

New York, April 28.—[Special.]—Tracy Lyon, who designed the first Pullman club car while he was assistant general manager of the Chicago Great Western railroad, died early today in Lenox Hill hospital of pneumonia after an illness of three days. He was 69 years old.

For the last nine years Mr. Tracy had been chief engineering adviser for the Chrysler corporation here. He was graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at 18, the youngest student to be graduated up to that time.

SECRET OF LILAC GIVING: IT BRINGS CHEER TO LONELY

Annual Campaign Near; Growers Happy.

BY MARCIA WINN.

"Why do you give lilacs?"

This question was propounded yesterday to a number of leaders in the annual "share your lilacs" campaign sponsored by the Chicago Plant, Flower and Fruit guild and THE TRIBUNE, through which a deluge of blooms is distributed among flowerless hospitals and institutions of Chicago.

Answers to that question, asked at a time when lilac bushes were putting forth their first green leaves, were in varied language, yet they might all be interpreted in one concensus—"Because they bring cheer."

"Everybody Knows Why."

Mrs. K. E. Tholin of Downers Grove, guild chairman for the Burlington district, replied that there is only one reason for distributing the lilacs, "and everyone knows what that is."

"I presume," she said meditatively, "that it's just to share the things we have—to bring just a little bit of cheer to those folks who never see flowers."

Mrs. A. H. Harrison of Deerfield, chairman of that district and herself a "lilac-sharer" for the past six years, said that she participated merely because "doing it is sheer, unalloyed pleasure."

"A Pleasure to Give."

"Bringing these beautiful blossoms to sick eyes really is a pleasure," she explained, "because we feel we have so much out here in the country that the children, the sick and the poor in the city are not able to have. We want to share all of that with them."

Mrs. E. R. Davery, president of the Elgin Garden club, who gives bountifully from her long hedge of lilac bushes, had only this to say: "Why, everybody gives them for the same reason—cheer. I think any one who has lilacs wants to share them."

"Why do we give lilacs?" repeated Mrs. William H. Schultz of Maywood. "First, because the lilac is the first flower of spring, and second, because it brings happiness. That's my real reason—the happiness. It's just a nice thing to do.

After Flowerless Winter.

"We've been around and visited persons who receive the lilacs, and so we actually know how much pleasure they do get out of it. Many of them don't see a flower all winter long, until the lilacs come. And so," she concluded, "I do hope we have a lot of them this year."

The date for this year's lilac deluge, the seventh annual campaign, is dependent upon the opening of the buds.

R. T. BAKER DIES; A CLOSE FRIEND OF ROOSEVELTS

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Raymond T. Baker, 56, former director of the mint and a close friend of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, died today at his home here. He had been suffering for six weeks from coronary thrombosis.

Baker, whose wife, the former Delphine Dodge Cromwell, is now in London with their 3 year old daughter, was a prominent social figure in Washington.

Born in Eureka, Nev., Baker's early years were spent as a prospector. He was prominent in the development of the gold fields of that state throughout his life.

It was while he was directing the mint he married Mrs. Margaret Emerson Vanderbilt, widow of Alfred Vanderbilt, one of the victims of the Titanic sinking. He had one child, Gloria, now 15.

Following a divorce in Rena, Baker married Mrs. Cromwell, former wife of the present husband of Doris Duke.

Mrs. C. C. Erickson Dies; Wife of Chicago Lawyer

Mrs. Berthe D. Erickson, 47 years old, wife of Attorney Cecil C. Erickson, corporation lawyer, died yesterday morning at the Mercy hosiptal after a long illness. DEATH CLAIMS FAMED HOOSIER "SANTA CLAUS"

Santa Claus, Ind., April 28.—(AP)—James F. Martin, 60 year old postmaster of this tiny southern Indiana settlement, died of paralysis today after clinging to life since a stroke suffered April 12.

J. F. MARTIN.

Martin made "Santa Claus" real throughout the world at Christmas time by postmarking gifts and requests to thousands of anxious children. Fewer than 100 persons inhabit this village, and all assisted him each year in relaying truckloads of cards and packages which daily flooded his tiny workshop.

The "Santa Claus, Ind." postmark enlivened Yule celebrations in Palestine, Egypt, the Philippines, Canada, England, and in most of the United States.

Ten years ago this 90 year old community was nothing but a "cross roads town." A California stamp collector who found the name "Santa-claus" on the Indiana map wrote to Martin suggesting the name be changed to "Santa Claus."

C. A. Paeschke, Milwaukee Manufacturer, Dies at 77

Milwaukee, Wis., April 28.—[Special.]—Charles August Paeschke, 77, president of the Geuder, Paeschke & Frey company and pioneer citizen of Milwauke, died tonight at his home at 739 North 18th street.

With William Geuder, he was the founder in 1880 of the company which he headed for so many years, one of the large industries in Milwaukee. The golden anniversary of his connection with this manufacturing business was celebrated on Jan. 7, 1930. He was active head of it at the time of his death.

Mr. Paeschke was born in Milwaukee Dec. 25, 1857, six years after his parents had migrated here from Europe.

Several Yachts to Be Added to Chicago Fleets

Spring Lures City's Sailors Into Lake Michigan.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH long promised spring finally at hand, the feel of handling a craft and pushing out beyond far horizons is getting into the blood of Chicago's sailors. Boats are being launched almost daily and the news comes that there soon are to be several handsome additions to the usual number of costly cruisers and sailboats lying at anchor at the foot of Monroe street, in the Belmont and Jackson park harbors and on the north shore.

Ralph H. Norton has invested in a splendid new 46 foot cruiser that will go into the water out at the Jackson Park Yacht club. Down in New York Charles S. Davis has just purchased a 97 foot twin screw yacht that he will bring to the downtown yacht basin in Chicago and that will, without doubt, be the scene of many gay parties this summer.

Roger Babson Builds Yawl for Mackinac Race.

Roger Babson is having a 62 foot yawl built in the east and hopes that it will be finished in time to bring it here for the Mackinac race. The Sterling Mortons expect to keep their beautiful two masted schooner, the Freedom, in the waters off Cape Cod most of the summer.

The James R. Offields' yacht will be in Lake Michigan waters, however, and so will Commander Eugene MacDonald's Mizpah and Kenneth Smith's Kenkora, which was especially built at Bath, Me. Each of these boats always draws especial attention and so does the late Van Lear Black's beautiful yacht, painted a grass green, which is now owned at Charlevoix, but makes several trips to Chicago every summer.

Evanston Garden Club to Revive Fair May 25.

There's also the feel of warm weather in the plans for Evanston's garden market just told by Mrs. Frank W. Kingsley. After a lapse of three years the Garden Club of Evanston, an affiliate of the Garden Club of America, is reviving the fair which used to be one of the gala occasions of each spring in the north shore community.

This time it's to be all day May 25 in Raymond park, which means that the park will bloom overnight with canopied booths and stalls where plants and seeds, shrubs and seedlings, and garden novelties will be sold. The members of the club will do the selling and all of the proceeds will go back into the club treasury.

Mrs. Charles Max App has accepted the general chairmanship of the market and will be assisted by Mrs. Alfred H. Gross, Mrs. Charles G. Rhodes, Mrs. George B. Dryden, Mrs. Frank M. Elliott, Mrs. Frank W. Pomeroy, and Miss Edith M. Lacy.

Mrs. John H. S. Lee, who with Mrs. Clay M. Baird is responsible for the luncheon to be served at noon the day of the market, is having a vacation just now in Tennessee with her son, Sheldon. Mrs. Lee worked very strenuously and successfully as general chairman of the recent benefit of the Evanston board of the Northwestern settlement.

Opera Tonight a Benefit for Episcopal Mission.

A major benefit of prime interest to Episcopalians will be given tonight at the Auditorium theater where the Church Mission of Help, working through half a dozen important ladies in St. James' and St. Chrysostom's churches, has taken over the opening night of the San Carlo Opera company. The opera will be "Madame Butterfly" and tiny Mme. Hizi Koyke, Japanese star, will play the rôle of Cio-Cio San.

An attractive group of young women will give away programs and sell cigarets in the lobby. They include Mrs. William M. Collins Jr., Miss Dorothy Dewes, Miss Eleanor Jerrems, Miss Barbara Eldridge, Miss Margaret Talbot, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Alice May Dickinson, Miss Medora Pelouze, and Miss Rosanne Patton.

Among those who have taken boxes for the benefit tonight are Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Welles, Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed, Mrs. Chauncey Keep, the Angus Hibbards, the George A. Ranneys, the Frank Hixons, the Sewell Averys, the James R. Offields, the Laurance Armours, the Albert A. Sprague, and the John D. Allens. There are a few boxes and main floor seats that may still be obtained by calling Whitehall 8083.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings is chairman of the benefit with Mrs. James R. Offield and Mrs. Bruce Borland as vice chairmen.

Charles S. Deweys to Give Dinner for Dr. Gruber.

Dr. Henry K. Gruber, president of the Postal Savings bank in Warsaw, who arrived in town Saturday morning, will be kept busy during his week's visit with business luncheons and social dinners. Mr. and Mrs. Waclaw Gawronski, the Polish consul-general and his wife, entertained at dinner yesterday for the Polish financier, and on Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey will have a dinner for him. Thursday night Dr. Gruber will lecture at the University of Chicago and Friday afternoon he will assist at the reception which will mark the opening of the new Polish consulate in the home on Lake Shore drive which belonged formerly to Earl Reynolds. Dr. Gruber will be at the Lake Shore Drive hotel until he leaves next Sunday.

Several teams of mothers and daughters of the North Side auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society will assist at the semi-annual rummage sale which the North Side center and the Kenwood center will hold jointly today at 26 South Michigan avenue. As these sales are always very large, both in the quantity of goods for sale and in the number of customers, Mrs. Eugene Talbot Jr. and Mrs. Herbert Mayer, co-chairmen of the sale, are delighted to have as many volunteers as possible to help them. We submit the effort of Coralie Schrader, written in purple lead pencil on lined paper, which would seem to indicate that an 11 year old girl is capable of satire. Her script follows:

"This is the Codliver Oil program with Molly Codliver. But before I present Molly I want all of you children out there to know how good codliver oil is and it comes in orange, razzberry, banana, and salmon. I know you will like it because it tastes so good. Mothers, here's a tip, you can use this codliver oil for dyeing curtains and it is odorless. It also helps you sleep, so get a bottle right away as it is only 33 cents a bottle. And now I take great pleasure in presenting our star, Molly Codliver. O, Molly, hurry up. John C. Thomas Magnificent in Benefit Recital

BY EDWARD MOORE.

John Charles Thomas sang for the benefit of the John B. Murphy hospital clinic yesterday afternoon, but the clinic was not the only beneficiary. Those who went to the Civic Opera house were also rewarded by hearing some magnificent singing.

Possessed of one of the great baritone voices of this generation, Mr. Thomas is both an artist and a student. The fact that he opened his recital with a group of the less familiar songs of Schubert and Schumann and made a striking success by the dignity and poise of his interpretation as well as by the beauty of his voice indicates that he is a person out of the ordinary in the field of song. He would seem to be one from whom the world has the right to expect the great things of music that otherwise must remain unheard.

The Fisk Singers, a male octet from Fisk university, appeared at the Studebaker theater yesterday and in the course of the program did some of the finest singing of spirituals that has been heard here in a long time. The list was not entirely of this class of music. The octet is a group of well trained singers fully able to sing other numbers as well, and one of the members, George Mathews, tenor, appeared in a solo group that included the cavatina from "Faust." But to hear spirituals sung in all their simplicity and directness of manner by voices better than the average group was a special pleasure.

The annual festival of the Civic Music association, its culminating event of the season, took place at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon and, like its predecessors for years back, illustrated what fine work in music is being done in the small parks, playgrounds, and various institutions for the young. At the back of the stage a small army of young singers in gay colors sing naturally and delightfully a list of folk and part-songs ending with an elaborate cantata, "The Ride of John Gilpin," by their conductor, Marx E. Oberndorfer. The floor of the stage was occupied by the Civic orchestra, another notable outgrowth of the association's work. It accompanied the chorus and also appeared in special numbers under the direction of three members of the conductor's class, Irwin Fischer, Albert Goldeberg, and Adelbert Huguelet.

Adeline Davis, pianist, gave a recital in Kimball hall yesterday afternoon. She was heard with much pleasure in a Chopin group, music for which she evidenced both artistic sympathy and an adequate technic.

'Life Begins at 8:40' to Conclude Chicago Stay in Two Weeks

"Life Begins at 8:40," the Broadway revue which came to Chicago April 20, with the intention to remain for a spring and summer run, will end its stay at the Grand Opera house two weeks hence. Motion picture contracts which require the presence of Bert Lahr and Ray Bolger, star comedians of the company, in Hollywood early in the summer are said to have figured in a sudden decision to limit the engagement at the Grand Opera house to three weeks.

After its final performance here on Saturday, May 11, the company will move to Detroit for a week's engagement. Then it will probably disband. "Life Begins at 8:40," was the most popular musical show of the current season in New York and had an eight months' run there. It came to Chicago with its original company of more than 100 players. Good Morning!

Al Jolson's getting places with that little wife of his! Was a time when she wouldn't even allow him on the set when she was working in a picture. Said he made her nervous. Now look at her! Thick as thieves with him—in the same movie!

Well—they're a nice team, and "Go Into Your Dance" is a diverting musical comedy, flashing with the Jolson teeth and the Keeler legs. Mr. Jolson still loyally pays tribute to his Mammy on bended knee, and many bright-faced, nimble maidens contribute to the decorative and terpsichorean aspects of the production.

As for the plot—Mr. Jolson's discovered as one Al Howard, a capable, heady song and dance man who's in bad with Equity because of his habit of walking out on shows when wanderlust assails him. He has walked out just once too often when the picture opens and is in the dog house for fair.

Pursued by his adoring sister, impersonated snappily by Glenda Farrell, and captured at a race track, he is, through the wiles and guiles of Molly and Dorothy Wayne—the latter establishing herself as his dancing partner—turned about in his tracks.

Back on Broadway eventually, he is saved from the clutches of a gangster's wife and her husband, who stand for no foolishness. Equity smiles on him again, and you feel that his new night club venture, and his prospective union with the devoted Dorothy are about to put him on the hotsy-totsy side of the ledger.

The piece is neatly paced and has several catchy tunes. "About a Quarter to Nine" is apt to prove its biggest hit. Supporting players do their bits with ability and enthusiasm.

See you tomorrow!

PARIS TODAY

By MAY BIRKHEAD.

PARIS.—Since we wrote about it a few weeks ago, interest in the forthcoming exhibition here of Italian art is growing apace. Some of the Paris publicists have expressed concern lest its extraordinary merits may not be sufficiently called to the attention of the masses. But they need have no fear. As soon as this amazing show is staged, it will meet with an instant response.

Already private collectors, some of them Americans, are picking out fine examples from their possessions and sending them to Paris. Jules Bache of New York has shipped several canvases, among them Bellini's "Young Man," Crivelli's "Virgin and Child," and a portrait by Ghirlandaio. A number of notable works are also on the way here from English collections. It is recognized that this display will surpass that of Italian art at Burlington house, London, two years ago. A feature of the Paris exposition which London did not have will be a grouping for the first time of masterpieces from the great Sienese school.

The barest enumeration of this wonderful array of genius would take more space than we have at our disposal. In any case, this exposition is the most notable assemblage of Italian art ever brought together under one roof. To give some idea of what it will be like, the visitor to the Petit Palais will see no fewer than five of the canvases of Botticelli, among them "The Birth of Venus," "The Man with the Medallion," and "The Virgin with the Pomegranate." Fra Angelico is to be represented with three works from the Florentine galleries and one each from those of Cortona and Perugia. Also from Florence is coming Leonardo da Vinci's "Annunciation." Rome, Turin, and Venice each is sending examples from the brilliant brush of Paolo Veronese. The Louvre will contribute such of its gems as Michelangelo's sculpture "The Captives," and Florence is sending other works by this, one of her most illustrious sons. No fewer than eight paintings by Tintoretto are on the way to Paris, five of them from Venice.

It goes without saying that Raphael, Titian, Andrea del Sarto, and a score of other great masters are each being shown with several examples of their work, not to forget a number of pieces by Luini.

We understand that May 14 has been chosen as the date to open this exposition, which may be destined to exert a strong influence on the more gifted painters and sculptors of our own day. It is a curious fact that performances of Shakespeare's plays in Paris by an English company, over a century ago, left a great impress on the creative work of French poets, novelists, painters, sculptors, and musicians.

Chiffon Gowns Please Wearer and Spectator

Flowing Creations Lend Seductive Touch.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Even if you can't see yourself draped out with one of the new swathed Hindu evening outfits copied from the best creations sponsored in the land of Gandhi, you can find evening gowns that will do practically everything for you and the wandering spectators ready to appraise your ensemble.

Flowing and clinging chiffons as lovely as anything out of a story book are tremendously successful, long cloudlike creations that flutter seductively as you dance or walk—chiffons in daring colors and chiffons in pastels with chiffon sashes long enough to wind around your middle a couple of times and then tie in a bow and go to the hem of the dress in two long ends. Most of them are made of two contrasting colors to accent the shade of the gown.

Watch this big sleeve racket. You'll find puffed balloon affairs bursting into fashion glory in chiffon, net, and organdies as well as taffeta and mousseline de soie. And these sleeves ARE huge, standing up and out from the shoulder seams in picturesque splendor to accentuate the slimness of the silhouette.

With lace it's another tale. The best of the lace creations depend upon the delicate patterns of the lace for dramatic appeal. The sleeves are usually long and fitted and the silhouette hugging the figure to the knees with graceful flounces cut in circular formation swirling to the ankle or floorline. All evening and party gowns are made with taffeta slips that rustle enticingly whenever you move. Unquestionably these 1935 spring party-going gowns and ensembles are the most devastatingly decorative affairs you ever used for stag line bait.

THE SLEEPING CHILD

By Alice Grant Rosman.

SYNOPSIS.

Miss Fell scents romance when she sees Miles Buchanan meet Eleanor Chevening, returning from London, at the Fendon railway station. Miles has been forced through adversity to shut up most of the Priory, his inherited home. The girls of the Chevening family of Fendon Edge are pursuing careers. Pauline having had a play produced and now working on a period piece. Eleanor is studying medicine. Jenny, the youngest, runs a smart hat shop with another girl in Knightsbridge, and gets engaged and disengaged now and then. Audrey, an orphaned second cousin, with a talent for design, has for 15 years been as a daughter to Anne and George Chevening, the girls' parents. Pauline uses Audrey's skill for her theater. The Chevenings have a small flat in London for the use of any of the family going to and fro. It is Audrey, however, and not Eleanor, who claims Miles' romantic interest. Miles and Geoffrey Burton are partners in a stock breeding venture. Albert King, wealthy newcomer to Fendon, wants to buy the ruins of an ancient monastery on the Priory grounds. Mrs. Willis, wife of the rector and mother of two demon sons, calls on Anne Chevening. Audrey helps to entertain her.

INSTALMENT VII.

EMOTIONAL BARRIERS.

Audrey took her tea from her aunt's hands and perched herself on a seat by the window a little in her rear. It was all just as usual, parish, Peter, demons and all, and yet. . . .

It was not that the girl had seen the two women change before her eyes as she came in, one generation so often did before another, two people before a third. It was her aunt's color and the tone of her voice as she said, "It's tyranny and that's the greatest sin in the world."

Audrey had heard no more than this, she was not even curious about the context, yet the words sang through her mind like a refrain, a key to something, though at the moment she could not say what.

As Mrs. Willis talked on about parish matters and the girl threw in an inconsequent word as occasion required, her eyes turned half-consciously to her aunt—to the grace of her body as she sat in a rather straight chair, her head thrown back a little against the top of it and her face turned to her guest, and at the lovely curve of her short gray hair over her ear. Here was eternal beauty to the artist in Audrey Chevening, and her charmed eyes held it until a movement at the tea table brought her to her feet, fearful that her aunt might somehow have felt her gaze.

"I must go back to Pauline's great work. We're deep in it," she said. "Good-by, Mrs. Willis. Love to the noncurate."

"Don't let her make you late getting ready for Miles, Audrey," Mrs. Chevening reminded.

"I'll lay her out flat first."

Audrey was gone, but not yet back to Pauline. She ran up to her own room, suddenly reminded that her green evening frock would probably need to be pressed, and she had forgotten to see about it. But it was laid out on her bed all fresh and ready for her when she threw open the door, and she saw that her aunt had remembered and had it done for her—even a little thing like that. If Pauline or Nell had done it, which was inconceivable, she could have thanked them carelessly, but to her aunt she would not be able to say a word. Aware of her always, responsive to her as to no other member of the household, conscious of her care and kindness, she felt distressfully sometimes that there was no speech between them.

She kissed him and went off to join Miles.

And then she would think with common sense: "It's perfectly natural. Uncle George may treat me like one of his own daughters and even think half the time that I am one. He didn't bear them."

Now leaning against the door and looking at her frock, she was not thinking of herself or it.

"Tyranny to her," she said to herself. "Brutes! How could they dare?"

Miles came for her soon after six, for they were to dine in town, his contribution to the evening's festivity. George Chevening, who had been at Fendon on business all the afternoon, drove up just as Audrey came out, followed by Pauline issuing urgent instructions.

"It's the First Act in particular, I want you to notice, remember," she said. "The play's nothing—just the usual sword and cloak mush. The sentiment will probably make you sick, but the dressing in that scene is worth watching, particularly the effect of scarlet and bright blue against the vivid orange. Miles, I wish you'd make a note of this, and don't you two linger over dinner and get there late, or she'll miss it."

"What's all this?" inquired her father, putting his arm round young Audrey and looking down benevolently at her burnished dark red hair, apple-green gown and satin slippers. "A fig for your orange and scarlet and blue. I call this much better."

He was fond of his four girls [as he always called them] and liked to see them going off to some gaiety or other, delicately clad. It seemed to put the distressful world back a little to less anxious days when a man expected to provide chiffons and laces and soft living for his daughters until husbands arrived to usurp the privilege. But now, few young men, it seemed, could afford to marry until they were in their thirties, and the girls were off into the world earning their own furbelows. George Chevening could admire their spirit without having any real faith in the result. Women, he felt, should be part of the decoration of life. Almost incredible to realize that the child's drawings, which seemed to him just a few bold lines flung down at random—unfinished—nothing pretty about them, had actually bought and paid for the clothes she wore. Well, they at least were delicious, and he nodded his head at her and said in a tone of congratulation, surveying the frock:

"Very nice, too."

"Flatterer."

She kissed him and went off to join Miles, her soft green flounces sweeping the grass as sweetly as those of any young woman of the past.

He heard his wife's voice calling behind him:

"Take care of her, Miles," and he nodded agreement.

Miles was to be trusted—a careful driver. He was wrapping her cloak round her and spreading the rug, then turning to reassure Anne:

"We can take our time, Mrs. Chevening. I've reserved the table for 7:30."

George Chevening strolled indoors and found his wife sitting at one of the drawing-room windows with a piece of needlework in her hands.

He offered her a cigaret and she took it, but refused a light, saying "Presently," and put it aside to go on with her work. He nodded and stood beside her, hands in pockets, smoking peacefully, still seeing in his mind's eye the pleasant picture of young Audrey in her green gown.

"So they are off to the theater, those two young people? Well, I suppose I must sit up for the child, which will suit me very well as it happens. There are several things I want to read."

"Of course you must not sit up," said Mrs. Chevening. "They probably won't be back till all hours, and Audrey has a key and can be trusted to bolt the door."

He laughed.

"By George, Anne, it's amazing how much we do trust them, when you come to think of it. In our day there'd have been a chaperon in the back seat and all sorts of fuss if we weren't home to the minute. Why, even when we were engaged it was almost the work of a lifetime to see you alone."

Anne had a momentary impulse to point out that she was nearing fifty and not five hundred, but she held her peace, for if he had found her difficult of access, she knew that her own doubts and nothing else had been responsible. The elders had desired the match. He had forgotten, and why cruelly remind him?

So she murmured vaguely, which was all he wanted, and he continued his own line of thought.

"Audrey was looking very pretty tonight," he proceeded presently. "Poor Hector's girl . . . hard to believe it can be fifteen years. . . . Well, I'm glad we took her, Anne. She's had a happy home."

Mrs. Chevening stirred in her chair and her eyes were dark. His complaisance maddened her; on this subject of all others she could never bear it, and she gathered up her needlework and rose.

"I must go and dress. I think I'll smoke my cigaret upstairs," she said and moved to the door. Then compunction seized her for she knew that he had done a generous thing, and done it ungrudgingly and well. Turning back she said, with a half shy and rather touching kindness:

"You've been goodness itself to the child."

Miss Stanwyck to Play Movie Annie Oakley

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 28.—[Special.]—After almost a year's absence from the movies Barbara Stanwyck, who, in the opinion of many film goers, is the cinema's most accomplished actress, is being rushed by the studios again. She's to play the rôle of Annie Oakley in "Shooting Star," an original story based on the life of that famous circus woman, at Radio studio. Miss Stanwyck also is to be featured by Paramount, either in "Invitation to Happiness" or the Molnar story, "The Pastry Baker's Wife."

Verree Teasdale and Adolphe Menjou are said to be expecting a family increase in October. . . . David Holt, 7 year old Paramount contract player, has been joined in that studio's stock company by Betty Holt, his 4 year old sister. . . . A published report that he and Joan Bennett had split is vigorously denied here by Gene Markey, screen writer, formerly of Evanston, Ill.

On George Raft's return from a New York vacation he was accompanied by his reported fiancée, Virginia Pine of Chicago and her daughter, Joan Lehmann. Raft said he had no comment to make about marrying Miss Pine in view of the fact that divorce matters between himself and Mrs. Grace Mulrooney Raft of New York still were unsettled. . . . Frank Capra, who won the annual award for motion picture direction, with "It Happened One Night," is father of a baby boy. Both mother and son are doing well at Good Samaritan hospital. . . . June Travis [June Grabiner] of Chicago is playing a bit part as a hat check girl in "Broadway Gondolier" with Dick Powell, Joan Blondell and Adolphe Menjou, at Warners', and June Martel [Martha Greif Klavun], another film newcomer from Chicago, is doing a bit playing a showgirl in the newspaper story, "Front Page Women," with George Brent, Bette Davis, and Roscoe Karner at the same studio.

Among the wonders of press agent copy is a note forwarded by MGM studio declaring that Wallace Beery intends to hunt the giant savage brown bears of Kodiak Island, Alaska, this summer "with a shotgun loaded with solid ball rather than the usual high powered rifle." If Beery could only get the bears to read this he might have a chance; they would die laughing.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The early history of this pattern has Connecticut as its locale. Considering this, the strong modern feeling in the color arrangement is worthy of notice. Red, fuchsia, and green make up the poppy design. In the early days the combination was red, purple, and green. The finished block measures 12 inches square, and the coverlet requires 21 plain and 21 applique blocks.

Patterns of this design quilt are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., April 28.—[Special.]—The President went for a cruise down the Potomac today on the Sequoia. Mrs. John Boettiger, his daughter, who has been at the White House several days, returned tonight to her home in New York.

Yesterday Mrs. Roosevelt was the guest of honor at a tea in the Girl Scouts' Little House, and from there went to Alexandria to the tea and exhibit by Mrs. Henry Wilder Keyes, wife of the senator from New Hampshire. Mrs. Keyes showed her collections of fans, costumes and other souvenirs accumulated during her travels over the world. She is known in her writings as Frances Parkinson Keys.

Mrs. Harold L. Ickes, wife of the secretary of the interior, was the special guest and speaker at a meeting of the Art and Archaeological League of Washington last night when it celebrated the 21st anniversary of its foundings.

The secretary of commerce and Mrs. Roper entertained at luncheon today in their home on Woodland drive in compliment to Gov. John W. Troy of Alaska and Arthur M. Chamberlain of Alaska, who accompanied the governor on his visit to the capital.

Tallulah Bankhead Opens in Play in N. Y. Tonight

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Tallulah Bankhead will open in a new play tomorrow night—"Something Gay," a comedy by Adelaide Heilbron. Playing with her will be Hugh Sinclair, Walter Pidgeon, Nancy Ryan, Percy Ames, Elizabeth Dewing, and Kent Thurber. This is Miss Bankhead's third appearance this season. Her most recent rôle was that of Sadie Thompson in "Rain."

"Cooking After Office Hours," a booklet of tips and recipes for business girls who cook, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamp or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The prepared flake cereals always are proving themselves handy little helpers in the kitchen. The latest news we've gleaned is that one of them, the golden flaked rice cereal, has added a dandy new omelet to its répertoire. You're sure to like its rather distinctive texture and flavor at, for instance, a Sunday breakfast sometime soon. It's made simply, this way:

Fluffy Rice Cereal Omelet.

6 eggs
6 tablespoons hot water
Salt
2 cups crisp rice flaked cereal

Beat the egg yolks until light and fluffy, and combine with the hot water and salt. Fold into the stiffly beaten egg whites, and lightly add the rice cereal. Turn into a buttered skillet and cook over a slow heat until browned, then place into a moderate oven until the top is cooked, but not too dry. Fold over canned or fresh fruit, slightly sweetened, and serve at once.

Corn flakes make a base for an interesting dessert that the whole family will be pleased to see coming tableward. The pastry you may have made before. It's just as easy to make as it is to eat.

Corn Flake Pastry.

¼ cup butter
1 cup corn flake crums
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Melt the butter, mix with the crums [it takes about 4 cups of corn flakes to make 1 cup of crums], sugar, and cinnamon. Press into the bottom of an 8 inch cake pan, or large pie pan.

With that as a flavorful base, here's the way to make the dessert of which we just spoke.

Corn Flake Cream Dessert.

1 recipe corn flake pastry
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups hot milk
¼ teaspoon almond extract
½ teaspoon vanilla extract

Mix the dry ingredients with the egg yolks, stirring until smooth. Add the hot milk slowly, stirring constantly, and cook in a double boiler until thickened. Cool, add the flavorings, and pour into a pan lined with three-fourths of the corn flake pastry. Top with a thin coating of whipped cream and sprinkle the remaining corn flake mixture over the top. Serve cold.

An apricot chiffon filling with this corn flake pastry is another palate teaser. Just make the pastry, press all of it into a pie pan, and fill it with a fluffy golden mixture made like this: Mix ½ cup of sugar with 2 cups of cooked sieved apricots. Add this mixture, along with 2 teaspoons of lemon juice, to 2 egg whites, and whip with a rotary beater until fluffy and stiff. Pour into the shell and chill.

Chocolate flake pudding is another nice family treat.

Chocolate Flake Pudding.

2 cups hot milk
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons cocoa
1 tablespoon butter
4 cups corn flakes
2 eggs, slightly beaten

Add the sugar, cocoa, butter, and corn flakes to the scalded milk. When cool, add the beaten eggs, and pour into a buttered casserole to bake in a moderate oven until the custard is firm.

Diamond Betrothal Ring or No, Consult Girl's Preference

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Do you think a girl would object if I gave her a ring with her birthstone in it, instead of a diamond as an engagement ring? I can't afford the diamond, so I thought I'd surprise her with a birthstone." Zeke's on the line, wanting to know.

The girl wouldn't object, Zeke, if she loved you and knew you were in no position to buy her a diamond. But I think it would be smart to take her into conference on the subject of the ring. This way, you can tell her that the largest diamond in the world wouldn't be big enough for her if you could afford it but, seein' as how things are, would she mind compromising on the birthstone until your ship rolls in later on?

Sometimes the surprises men think up all by themselves go awry, just because the woman feels her taste in the matter has been slighted. What is meant is that women's taste can be swayed more easily if you let them think they're part of the consideration, than just to think one up yourself and try to put it over. I think the girl should be consulted, especially about an engagement ring.

Your other query, Zeke, about asking the girl to give up smoking now that she's promised to be your wife is something you'd better approach with tact rather than high-handed methods. You tell her you'll give up something in return.

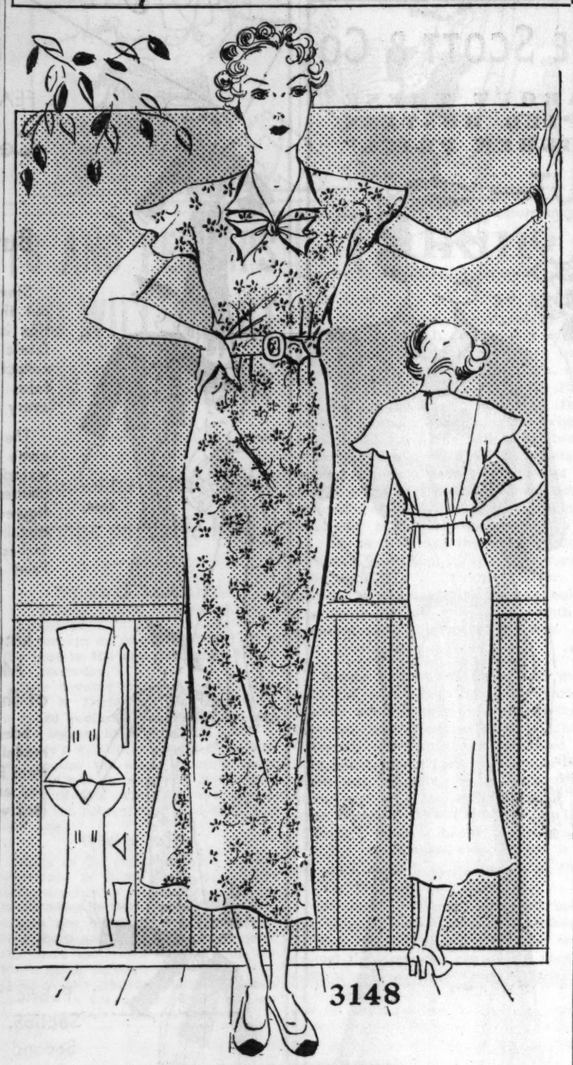
Lovely Frock for Tub Fabric



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

The simplicity of this pretty one piece dress makes it a lovely model for tub materials. Look at the small sketch and you will see how little there is to the making. Be sure the length is correct before cutting out. Then put the tucks in at the waist, front, and back, and press flat. After that assembling and finishing the dress at the neck is simple. A yellow and white printed cotton made the original.

The pattern, No. 3148, comes in sizes 14, 16, and 18 years, and 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure.

Small Child Is Happiest with Others His Age

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The younger a little boy or girl is, the harder it is for him or her to play with another child who isn't the same age.

The 2 year old is on a much lower level of maturity than the 3 year old. What he can say and what he can do with his body and his hands is quite different from what the 3 year old can say and can do muscularly. And so is what the 3 year old can say and can do far below the achievement of the 4 year old.

So, too, in this matter of what we call age levels, do we see a great difference in the way children act toward each other. Yips and tears—bites and scratches—pushes and pulls—all come quite naturally into the picture when one young and rugged individualist meets another young and rugged individualist, and they first try to get on together.

What we must do is to give them time to learn. How could it be otherwise? But the older little children can play together without all this struggle except for occasional flareups.

There is a big gap between little children whose ages vary as little as six months or one year. And so, if possible, it is better for young children to have playmates who are of the same age or near to them in age.

Priscilla Waite Engaged to Harold E. Wilkins Jr.

Although the formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Priscilla Waite and Harold E. Wilkins Jr. is just being made this morning, it was at Mr. Wilkins' sister's wedding last Monday evening that the news was broken to the most intimate friends of the young couple.

Miss Waite was a bridesmaid for the former Helen Wilkins, who was married to Stuart Sherman Houston, and Mr. Wilkins one of the ushers. Their own wedding will be not later than the middle of June. Miss Waite is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waite of 7127 Bennett avenue and Mr. Wilkins, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Wilkins of 5201 University avenue. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago.

The Cyrus H. McCormicks have returned from a vacation in the south and are at home for the summer in Lake Forest.

Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King arrived at home Friday night from a trip to Ontario.

The J. Allen Newtons have returned from a three weeks' cruise to the West Indies. They are at home again at 64 East Cedar street.

James Ward Thornes to Move This Week.

The James Ward Thornes will move this week from 1200 to 1500 Lake Shore drive. Mr. and Mrs. Thorne plan to be among the passengers on the new Normandie when it sails for the first time from New York in June.

Today the John Derns are moving out of their house at 840 Locust road in Winnetka, but they cannot go directly to their new home in Glencoe, for it is not yet completed. Until early June they will be with Mrs. Dern's parents, the Bruce MacLeishes. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Hunter Jr. have taken the Dern house on Locust road and will move into it late this week.

Miss Georgia Pettibone, the Holman D. Pettibones' daughter, Miss Martha Quisenberry, the T. E. Quisenberrys' daughter, and Miss Phyllis Burnell are some of the Chicago students at Mount Holyoke college who danced until late hours over the week-end at the Junior class prom.

Robert Hall McCormick was re-elected president of the Alliance Française at the annual meeting held recently. Moise Dreyfus, Orville Taylor, and Arthur L. Allais are the vice presidents and Hayden B. Harris is treasurer. Henri David is secretary and Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick is president of the conseil with Mrs. Thomas W. Hinde, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, and Mrs. Ralph H. James as her vice presidents.

The last of a series of three lectures will be given by the Rev. Theodore C. Hume before the Lake Shore League of Women Voters this afternoon in the apartment of Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne at 1448 Lake Shore drive. Dr. Hume, whose lecture will begin at 3:30 o'clock, will speak on "The European Crisis."

The exhibition of the work of the Needlework and Textile Guild of the Art institute has been placed on exhibition in the Art institute galleries to continue until May 4.

Michigan Blossom Queen to Be Named Wednesday Evening

St. Joseph, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—The judges who will select the queen of this year's Blossom festival next Wednesday evening in the Liberty theater here were announced today. They are Elmer A. Forsberg, Finland's consul in Chicago; Orville Atwood, Michigan secretary of state; Col. T. A. Siqueland of Chicago, and Miss Eleanor Nangle, CHICAGO TRIBUNE writer and radio entertainer.

At least 30 Michigan cities will be represented in this year's Blossom queen contest, from which will emerge the ruler of the Blossom festival in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor from May 5 to 12.

Dark skinned beauties are greatly in the majority in the contest. Of 25 candidates, 18 are brunettes and only seven blondes.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

A BAD CONTRACT.

The Conservatives won the first rubber by 1,200 points, so Mr. Aggressive, at least, is starting the second rubber with blood in his eye. Mrs. Conservative, sitting South, dealt the following hand:

NORTH
♠K-10-8
♥10-7-5-3
♦A-6-4
♣10-6-2

WEST
♠Q-6-5
♥Q-J-4-2
♦9-8-5

EAST
♠A-3-2
♥A-K

SOUTH
♠J-9-7-4
♥9-8-6
♦Q-J-10-7-2
♣5

The bidding was passed around to Mr. Aggressive, who aggressively opened with a bid of three no trumps. "Double stoppers in all four suits—bosh!" said Mr. Aggressive to himself. "I can take nine tricks at no trumps—maybe ten, if a diamond is opened, and I should let my partner pass me out!"

Mrs. Aggressive hadn't heard an original bid of three no trumps for so long that she was a little uncertain of the exact responses. She gazed for some time at her two queens and a jack, and then, predicating her bidding on what Mr. Aggressive would say if they missed a slam, she ventured four hearts.

"Five clubs," answered Mr. Aggressive, feeling there was a slight possibility of the hand going places and doing things.

Mrs. Aggressive thankfully passed, and spread out the dummy quickly. Mr. Aggressive rose hurriedly and left the room. When he returned he had the air of one who is determined to look on the bright side of things.

"Now listen, Mary," he said softly. "I have Mr. Sims' book here, and I want you to read the article on responses to original bids of three no-trumps, while I'm playing this hand. You haven't even got a primary trick, let alone a five-card suit, and you bid. I've got three no trumps—four no trumps—all over the lot, and what am I playing the hand at? Five clubs!"

"Are you going to make it?" queried Mrs. Aggressive.

"I don't know. All I can say is that it's a lucky thing that you've got a magnificent player for a partner."

Mrs. Conservative interrupted by leading a diamond. Mr. Aggressive took the second round, and at this point realized that he could easily lose two spades. He led the ace and king of hearts, and then the ace of clubs. Of course, if the king of spades lies behind the queen, he can make five clubs; or if the clubs break, he can get into dummy and make six clubs. But Mr. Aggressive, since he was only playing the hand to make five, made a very fine safety play. He led the eight of clubs, and overtook it with the nine in dummy. Since it did him no good to hold off, North took the trick with the ten of clubs. This gave Mr. Conservative a club trick, but when Mr. Aggressive got in on the next lead he laid down the four of clubs—played the seven of clubs from dummy and got two spade discards on the queen and jack of hearts.

"I thought you'd make it," said Mrs. Aggressive, who had been obediently reading the chapter on responses to three no-trumps.

"Do you mean to say you didn't notice the way I played the hand?" demanded Mr. Aggressive. "Not one person in a thousand would make it."

"Well, anyway," interjected Mrs. Conservative, crossly, "I don't think your opening bid of three no-trumps was so hot. You misled your partner."

"Now, dear," said Mr. Conservative hastily, after one look at Mr. Aggressive's face, "I wouldn't try to give the opponents any lessons, if I were you. After all, Mr. Aggressive's bidding, or his remark to his partner, is his own affair."

"You're darned right!" agreed Mr. Aggressive.

The Aggressives now have 200 points—100 honors, and 100 points below the line. They started out almost exactly the same way in the last rubber, however, and the Conservatives won by 1,200 points.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The manner in which women have stepped right along in intelligent care of their nails is astounding and thoroughly admirable. Really unsightly nails are the exception today—and not long ago they were the rule.

But nail troubles are still common. Even the women who have professional manicures regularly find it difficult to avoid brittleness and ragged cuticle. And those of us who must do our own tinkering with file and emery board and polish have an even tougher time.

Both groups should know about a nail cream that's really exceptional. It will conquer the unpleasant brittleness if you'll work in a little bit of it every night or any other time it's feasible. But that's only one of its virtues. It bleaches the nail tips—and you know how important immaculately white tips are to good hand grooming. Putting whitening beneath helps a lot, but if the nail itself is stained the effect is always dingy.

As if this weren't sufficient in the way of merit the genius who made this cream worked in another property that's even more important. It removes the cuticle. And, unlike other cuticle removers, it's not on the acid order. It leaves the nail rim soft and smooth. It's easy to give yourself a quick manicure without cutting the cuticle if you use this cream. You simply apply a small quantity to the nail, work it well into the cuticle, soak the fingers in warm water for a few minutes, and then mold the cuticle gently.

This cream, which is yellow and of a delightful, lemony fragrance, helps cracked finger tips, too. As you work it into the nails massage a little into the fingers at the same time. It keeps the flesh soft and white and well nourished, and the massage movements will do the hands plenty of good.

Discomfort of Feet Etches Lines in Face

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I've been telling you from time to time how facial massages in certain salons now begin with a foot treatment, the obvious theory being that if the feet groan the face is going to tell the world. While I don't feel that one needs a foot treatment every time she feels like getting a facial, I do think one now and then is a fine practice, if for no other reason than to prove how comfortable feet can brighten a face. But it was of another departure along this foot-face line I wanted to speak today.

I refer to the use of foot creams. There are several on the market. These are manufactured especially for massage work on the feet. If you have any of the minor foot ailments, not corns or dislocations of joints and that sort of thing, this massaging of the feet at night, with a cream, is excellent.

I know a woman who has suffered for years with calluses on the soles of her feet. Not a thick callus, nevertheless what she had caused her great discomfort in walking. She thought up the idea herself of using cream on the feet just to soften the sole skin. She used regular cold cream, in fact, and found much relief from the practice. Other women have reported how they have removed the callus with one of those razor blades with the metal cap, which makes it possible to handle a blade, and then massaging the foot with cream. It stands to reason that if one keeps that sole skin softened, walking will be easier.

But, of course, we're told that a calloused condition comes from some foot condition not correctible with a cream. It is offered merely as a temporary relief. Certain of the special shoe fitting experts have told me of clients who found the calloused sole disappear completley with the proper fitting shoes.

U. S. NOW BIGGEST BANK WITH 9½ BILLIONS LENT

Liens Range from Crops, Homes, to Ships.

Fahey, points out that this outpouring of cash was an enterprise "greater than the business of the two largest industrial corporations in the world at the peak year of their prosperity in 1929."

While these three agencies had led the way, an array of others has followed after. The Commodity Credit corporation has underwritten 1,214,646 loans aggregating 276 million dollars to farmers on cotton, corn, and other products to peg their prices. The Federal Housing administration has underwritten 207,000 loans.

The shipping board bureau has loans on 99 vessels, and the federal reserve banks have lent money to about 1,000 business undertakings. The home loan banks have 3,224 advances outstanding to mortgage financing institutions. The Public Works administration, once the wealthiest of New Deal agencies, has only 930 millions outstanding in loans, having handed over the rest of its 3 billion 300 million dollars to projects which will never bring any direct money in return.

DECISIONS AWAITED

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Arguments involving the constitutionality of two NRA fundamentals, and expected decisions on laws touching millions of farmers and workers, today summoned New Deal officials to another week of watchful waiting at doors of the Supreme court chamber.

On Thursday, Donald R. Richberg, NRA chairman, and justice department lawyers were scheduled to tell the court why code wage and hour provisions of the recovery law should be ruled valid.

Tomorrow—opinion day in the court after a two weeks' recess—may bring rulings on the validity of the railroad retirement pension act and the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium law. Both cases were argued several weeks ago.

Thrown Out by Lower Court.

The railroad law, vigorously contested by the nation's major carriers and affecting a million employés, was held unconstitutional by the District of Columbia Supreme court, because of provisions holding all railroad employés were engaged in interstate commerce, and because service of employés prior to the law was considered in computing retirement pensions.

The lower court held those two provisions could not be discarded without destroying the purpose of the legislation. A third provision, held invalid but separable from the act, provided that former employés who had left railroad service within a year of the act's passage could qualify for its benefits.

Millions of dollars in farm mortgages were subject to the Frazier-Lemke ruling, which came before the tribunal on an appeal from a decision of a Louisville court upholding its validity.

The provisions challenged provide that bankrupt farmers may retain possession of their mortgaged farms for five years by payment of a reasonable rental. During that period, they can wipe out their mortgaged indebtedness by paying the appraised value of the farm.

BALLOONISTS END LAST TEST TRIP IN STRATOSPHERE

Boos Station, Ill., April 28.—(AP)—A small army balloon, carrying delicate instruments to record upper atmospheric phenomena, landed safely on the outskirts of this small community at 1:10 o'clock this afternoon after a four hour flight through the substratosphere.

The 80,000 cubic foot bag reached an altitude of 26,000 feet and floated 150 miles from its starting point at Scott field, Belleville, Ill.

The two army officers who piloted the balloon, Capt. Orvil Anderson and Capt. Randolph Williams of Dayton, O., said the trip had been "completely successful."

The flight, similar to one completed by the two men a week ago, was made to test electric thermometers and a new type air conductivity meter to be used in a stratosphere balloon flight by the army and the National Geographic society in South Dakota next June.

"This completes our test flying for the stratosphere attempt," Capt. Anderson said. "The instruments functioned perfectly and were undamaged in the landing. The weather conditions were all we could ask."

Unfavorable winds and dust storms twice forced postponement of the take-off during the last week.

Capt. Anderson indicated a "closed" bag would be used in the flight in June.

"Today we used an "open" one filled with a mixture of air and helium," he explained. "While we got good results, we feel that the unmixed helium used on our flight last week makes the balloon function better.

EXTINGUISHER BOMBS TO CHECK FIRES TESTED FOR AIR RAID DEFENSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28. — Extinguisher bombs to check fires started by incendiary bombs or in any other way were used with success in a test here today. In an experiment staged by the National Union for Aerial Defense, under the supervision of technicians, a three story frame house was set on fire. The blaze was rapidly halted by extinguisher bombs which previously had been placed in several rooms. The bombs exploded automatically when the temperature reached a certain point.

The extinguisher bomb was invented by an Italian engineer named Redaelli, who calls it the Pirofuga X. The bombs weigh from seven to sixteen pounds. Each bomb has an automatic detonator. A powerful explosive is surrounded by a quantity of extinguishing composition. The vacuum created by the explosion is sufficient to quench a small blaze instantly. The extinguishing composition is pulverized and scattered in all directions by the blast.

PACK MOSCOW'S 36 CHURCHES FOR EASTER SERVICE

MOSCOW, April 28.—(AP)—Thousands who attended midnight services in Moscow's 36 churches rose early today to spend Orthodox Easter day in factories and offices.

Although Easter celebrations in homes and churches were permitted, the day was not officially recognized and toilers were not excused from work. Sunday itself is a workday in the soviet union unless it happens to coincide with a "free day" or the one day in six set aside for rest.

The three dozen churches remaining open in the Red capital were packed and crowds were unable to jam their way into the buildings. Many stood outside with lighted candles in their hands, peering through the windows. Bells were silent. Ringing has been prohibited for years. Anti-religious propaganda, usually broadcast by radio the night before Easter, was omitted this year and newspapers likewise made no reference to the occasion.

BREAK GROUND TODAY FOR NEW SEWAGE PLANT

Chicago sanitary district officials will conduct at 11 a. m. today the public ground breaking exercises for the new $15,000,000 southwest side sewage treatment works and the ceremony of throwing into use the last units of Imhoff tanks at the west side plant. Ross A. Woodhull, president of the sanitary board, will push the button that is to complete operations on the $24,000,000 west side unit and will be at the controls of the steam shovel when ground is broken for the new plant.

Both plants are located on the sanitary district's 550 acre tract in Stickney. When complete, according to Mr. Woodhull, they will form the largest and finest sewage treatment works on earth.

SEIZED ON TAVERN CURFEW LAW.

ITALIANS NAME EIGHT MEN FOR CHICAGO BOUTS

Team Ready to Sail Wednesday.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 28.—Italy's team of eight boxers was definitly selected today and final arrangements made for the trip to Chicago for the fifth annual International Golden Gloves contest in the Chicago Stadium, May 22. The boxers will sail on Wednesday for New York.

GIUSEPPE FARFANELLI.

Uncertainties concerning the heavyweight, middleweight, and welterweight contestants were cleared up today after a series of bouts at the Fascist Party stadium. Amateur boxing officials decided Augusto Bonadio was the best man in Italy in his class and named him the middleweight member of the team. Otello Binazzi, Roman youth, will be welterweight contestant.

Saruggia Is Ready.

At the same time Secretary Eduardo Mazzia received word from Angelo Saruggia, Italy's best heavyweight, that he would be in Rome Tuesday morning ready to sail.

Bonadio, although winner in the Milan bouts, and Binazzi were not selected until after their three round bouts with Gilberti and Pittori, respectively, today. The judges decided Bonadio was superior to Gilberti, and that Binazzi outclassed Pittori, despite the latter's victory in the championship final at Milan.

"We are sending our best boxers to Chicago, determining them entirely on their merits and without consideration of their titles or championship claims," said Mazzia, in announcing the selections.

FLYWEIGHT—Gavino Matta, Sassari.

BANTAMWEIGHT—Roderigo Sergo, Fiume.

FEATHERWEIGHT—Giuseppe Farfanelli, Perugia.

LIGHTWEIGHT — Araldo Montanari, Rimini.

WELTERWEIGHT — Otello Binazzi, Rome.

MIDDLEWEIGHT — Augusto Bonadio, Turin.

LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT — Mario Annibali, Rome.

HEAVYWEIGHT—Angelo Saruggia, Varese.

Trainer Is Replaced.

The boxers, under the guidance of Count Campello, vice president of the Italian Boxing federation, will leave Rome early Wednesday morning for Naples and embark there on the Italian liner Conte de Savoia.

It was stated that Trainer Leo Guinchi, who has been preparing the team, would be replaced on the American trip by Rolando Galletti, trainer and referee, who will be assisted by Mario Castelli, trainer and masseur.

176,000 TURN OUT FOR 8 GAMES IN MAJOR LEAGUES

New York, April 28.—(AP)—For the third time this season major league baseball approached the mark of 200,000 customers for one afternoon's entertainment today. With the attendance in two cities exceeding that of opening day, approximately 176,000 fans turned out for today's games.

At Cincinnati the paid attendance was 29,514, passing the opening day mark by 2,000. There probably were several hundred free admissions besides. The Browns-White Sox game at Chicago and the Boston-Brooklyn game drew about 25,000 each, while 26,000 jammed into the Cleveland park to beat the opening day record there by 3,000 as the Tigers finally beat the Indians.

The day's attendance figures follow:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Chicago-Cincinnati	29,514
Boston-Brooklyn	25,000

16 AND PERHAPS 20 WILL START IN 61ST DERBY

Kentuckians Plunk Down Savings on Nellie Flag.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—Surely 16 and perhaps as many as 20 will go to the post in the 61st Kentucky Derby next Saturday.

This became evident here today, where a Derby struck community watched performers assemble for the turf's biggest show on earth.

There's a little argument as to who will occupy the star's dressing room, but that's to be expected in the general confusion which always accompanies the presentation of a show like this one.

What to Expect.

Many of the performers are already quartered in their stalls, others are being accorded a royal welcome at the horse depot as they step off cars. Still others are on their way here from New York and Maryland and some of the more ambitious ones are on the track going through rehearsals.

When the trouple finally falls into line for its grand parade to the post it will be just about as follows:

Horse.	Owner.
Nellie Flag	Warren Wright, Chicago
Today	C. V. Whitney, New York
Plat Eye	Helen Hay Whitney, New York
Omaha	William Woodward, New York
Commonwealth	Mrs. Walter Jefferd, Phil'phia
Whiskolo	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Oak Park, Ill.
Morpluck	J. J. Loncheim, New York
St. Bernard	Elmer Dale Shaffer, Chicago
Chance Sun	J. E. Widener, New York
Boxthorn	E. R. Bradley, Lexington
Weston	Jouett Shouse, Lexington
Sun Fairplay	Mrs. W. S. Kilmer, Binghton, N. Y.
Chance View	J. J. Flannigan, Louisville
Psychic Bid	Mrs. Isabell Dodge Sloane, Detroit
Roman Soldier	Phil Reuter, Chicago
Whopper	Hal Price Headley, Lexington
Blackbirder	Mrs. C. Hainesworth, S. Francisco
Bluebeard	Mrs. R. B. Fairbanks, Minneapolis
Prince Splendor	Thomas C. Worder, Chicago

In addition there is a possibility that the following colts also will join the parade, but at this time they are considered doubtful starters:

Horse.	Owner.
Our Reigh	Mrs. John Hertz, Chicago
Young Native	Isabell Dodge Sloane, Detroit
Gallaclay	Mrs. Ethel V. Mars, Oak Park, Ill.
Calumet Dick	Warren Wright, Chicago
Jawapa	J. W. Parrish, Midway, Ky.
Big Gawk	E. R. Bradley, Lexington
Finance	C. B. Shaffer, Chicago

Many a Doubting Thomas who lined the Churchill Downs backstretch this morning predicted that the early winter book favorite, Chance Sun, will not start in the Derby. They based their opinions on not only his sorry showing in the Cherokee Purse yesterday, when he finished third back of Nellie Flag and Bluebeard, but on the manner in which he has trained during the last ten days.

Trainer Is Worried.

Chance Sun appeared to be the picture of health and condition this morning and seemed to be enjoying the summerlike Kentucky sunshine. His trainer, Peter Coyne, one of the most capable in Kentucky, shook his head, however, and remarked, "I wish I felt as good as that fellow looks."

Coyne would make no comment as to whether or not Chance Sun will start in the Derby. This was taken to mean that he will not come to a definite decision until he confers again early in the week with Joseph E. Widener, owner of Chance Sun, who spent today at his farm near Lexington.

Trainer Coyne hinted Chance Sun may be given one more opportunity, in the Derby trial purse, to be run Tuesday, before the colt's immediate destiny is determined.

Nellie Gets Play.

LUKE SEWELL, White Sox catcher, who has been in the American league since 1921, never has been with a tail end club and he says "I have played with much weaker teams than the 1935 Chicago White Sox." . . . When the Harlem Globe Trotters' basketball team was touring the Pacific northwest the players tired of making baskets so easily, so Inman Jackson, giant center, stood on the free throw line and drop kicked. . . . The ball went through the hoop for a field goal, much to his surprise as well as the spectators'. . . . They say down in Bloomington, Ind., that both the first and second string lineups that appear in spring practice games are more powerful than the Indiana eleven that whipped Purdue, 17 to 6, in the final game last November. . . . In the WAKE of the NEWS

FEED BOX DOPE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 28.—[Special.]—Leaving Chicago on the night train which arrives here at that early morning hour when one most desires more sleep. The Wake dressed hastily, took our coffee and toast at the station, tossed our luggage into the hotel as we passed by, and taxied out to Churchill Downs.

There we began our quest for information and intimate interviews with various Kentucky Derby candidates for the benefit of our readers, if any. We first chanced upon Roman Soldier, recent winner of the Texas Derby at 1⅛ miles. Soldier had finished his breakfast, dishes had been removed, so we could not tell what had been his food. He was seated before the stable in a dark blue toga gathered rather closely to protect him from the morning air after his workout.

Although we had not seen him since last summer at Hawthorne, we adopted the free masonry of the turf and greeted with "Good morning, there, Romey." The handsome black fellow, son of Cohort-Miamba by Light Brigade, looked up palpably annoyed by the familiarity. Then his muzzle broke into a boyish grin as he recognized us. "Why, Old Man Wake himself," he whinnied in that equine dialect with which we have become familiar through long usage, "when d'ya get in?"

"Just arrived. Came to see you first," we replied, to be affable.

"Mighty nice of you," replied Romey. "Like to offer you an eye-opener, but I'm strictly on the wagon now. Anyway, you're probably better off without it. There isn't much of that good old Bourbon any more and some of this green stuff is terrible, the boys tell me. Want to know about the Derby, I suppose?"

"That's what friend Arch O. K.'s my expense accounts for," we answered.

Well, Wake, as you know, I never was a boaster. This is a peculiar Derby. It's a question whether some of the choices training in Kentucky, Virginia, and Maryland are ready for 1¼ miles owing to the backward spring. That's to the advantage of us winter fellows.

"Now, as a 2 year old I wasn't exactly the cat's meow, yet I won 5 of 12 starts, only twice outside the money, and $4,690. Socially, I didn't always associate with the swells and had few dates with the sub-debs. My dates were more likely to be with waitresses and hat checkers. But that's nothing against me. Cavalcade wasn't so sophisticated at 2. Reigh Count didn't get good until late in his first year of racing, and many other great 3 year olds have been indifferent performers the year previous.

"Remember, I'm ready. I've started 7 times this year with 5 brackets and earnings of $19,325 already. In the Texas Derby I beat Whiskolo more easily than Gillie did at Santa Anita. On a slow track I ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:53, mile in 1:39 4-5, with plenty of uncalled for reserve. Back of me were Whizzaway, which had a nine race winning streak previously, and McCarthy, Louisiana Derby winner. I came from behind. I can race on a fast or slow track. Pretty near all the qualifications, aren't they?"

"Yes, but how about that third to Black Helen in the Florida Derby?"

"You would bring that up! Looks to me as if I was outrun in the early stages, but you notice I was running over horses at the end. Black Helen is not in the Kentucky Derby, and, anyway, the route is a furlong farther. That last eighth is where I'll be doing my running. I'm no cinch because the race is so open, but better have a part of the bank roll on me across the board."

We were walking back to our taxi when we saw a somewhat somber face peering out at us from a nearby barn. "Why, if it isn't my old pal Whiskolo from Santa Anita," we called. "Yes," whinnied the son of Diavolo-Stonechat from the Milky Way farm stable of Mrs. Ethel Mars of Oak Park, Ill., "and I note you, too, do not think as well of my chances as before I ran second to Roman Soldier in Texas.

"Well, I was disappointed myself, although it was not my kind of track. I discounted Gillie's win over me in California because my legs got tired in the stretch and just wouldn't move fast enough, but I thought I was short. Maybe I'm not Derby stuff after all—what do you think, Wake?"

"Well, Whisk," we replied, "you've been running in pretty fair company and holding up your end. You've started 8 times as a 3 year old, and while you've only one bracket, you've earned $7,900. Not bad in these times. You don't need to worry about your oats, old topper."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 28.—The Cubs staged a ninth inning, five hit rally today to score three runs, thereby breaking a 1 to 1 tie and giving themselves the odd game of their series with the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1. Bill Lee pitched a great game, holding the enemy to five hits, the first of which was a home run by Sam Byrd and the last a single by Gilly Campbell in the ninth. An overflow crowd of 29,514 saw the contest.

The Cubs had to do a lot of perspiring for the first five innings as a result of that homer of Byrd's. Of the 15 batsmen who faced Danny MacFayden in this span only three knocked the ball out of the infield and only one got as far as second.

Up from Behind.

In the sixth a double by Augie Galan and a single by Bill Herman tied the score and the game again became a tight affair until one was out in the ninth. Then singles by Herman and Chuck Klein and a triple by Lindstrom decided the issue. Another run was added, however, when Phil Cavarretta drove Lindstrom home with a line single to right center.

As a result of the day's doings the Cubs will be able to return to Wrigley field victorious in both series of their first road trip of the year, having taken two out of three from the world champion Cardinals before coming here to grab two out of three. Lee pitched two of the road trip victories, Lon Warneke one and Tex Carleton one.

Reds Take Lead.

After Galan and Herman had supplied infield outs and Klein had fanned in the first inning, the Reds promptly took the lead. Herman threw out Myers, but Byrd drove his third homer

HOW ZEKE DOES IT

6TH VICTORY IN ROW; BONURA HITS 6TH HOMER

St. Louis Makes Five Errors.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mainly because the Browns of St. Louis were bubbling over with generosity yesterday the gay White Sox were able to stretch their winning streak into six games. The visiting delegation, for which some excuses can be made because of injuries, tossed five errors into the box score and the second place Sox made good use of all the blunders to triumph, 6 to 4, before 25,000 spectators, who didn't appear to be conscious of the low temperature.

If the crowd turned out in anticipation of watching a continuation of the bombardment the Sox had been carrying on for five days it probably was disappointed. There was only one real outburst. It came from Zeke Bonura who boomed forth in the first inning with his sixth homer of the year just after Al Simmons had doubled. That one round trip wallop furnished two of the three runs actually earned by the victors. The others were due to the clownlike fielding of which the St. Louis lads were guilty.

Whitehead Gets a Scare.

The defensive antics of the Browns were particularly helpful to the reputation being built up by John Whitehead, the Sox rookie sensation from the Texas league. The young man who did an excellent job of trimming the champion Tigers' claws in his only two other major league appearances, discovered his foes for the day were worthy of serious thought. They had him staggering slightly in three innings and without brilliant support [barring the dropping of a fly ball by none other than Al Simmons] he might have been pushed into the defeat column for the first time.

The Browns started in early to show that they had no desire to break up the Sox winning streak. Burns fumbled on the first batter in the first inning and this became one of three runs scored at the outset. In the second Burnett added with a wild toss after two dinky hits. This assisted in the scoring of two more. After that all the errors were bunched in the fifth, the last of three in a row being a crazy throw by Dick Coffman, who had done a fairly good job of pitching, except when Simmons and Bonura broke loose in the first. The three successive errors gave the Sox their final run without a hit being involved.

Simmons Hits Wall.

The Sox three run first inning got under way with Burns fumbling Radcliff's roller. Hayes laid down the customary sacrifice. Simmons belted Coffman's first pitch for a two bagger against the right field wall, Radcliff scoring. Coffman was overcautious about his pitches to Bonura and finally got the count down to 3 and 2. Then Bonura spanked homer No. 6 into the first floor of the left field pavilion for two runs. Washington and Appling flied to center.

The Browns made no impression on Whitehead in the first inning, but with a pass and two hits managed to sneak a run over the counter in the second. Pepper led off with a single to center and the next two fellows rolled into forceouts. Hemsley walked, after which Bejma singled to center. Bell scoring and Hemsley racing to third. Coffman's roller to Hopkins was converted into the third out.

Second Is Bargain Inning.

The Sox cashed in on some real bargains in their half of the second. Hopkins beat out a roller to the crippled Clift. Sewell got a hit because of the same player's infirmities. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Whitehead poked a bounder to Burnett who threw the ball out of Burns' reach, Hopkins scoring, Sewell going to third and Whitehead to second. Sewell dashed home on Radcliff's long foul fly to Bell. Hayes was thrown out by Clift and Simmons expired on a drive that Pepper pulled in close to the left field stands.

Sears Improves in 2 Mile; Threatens Record.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In the welter of Drake university relay records and individual championships Saturday, nearly every one lost sight of the two mile race won by Ray Sears of Butler university, Indianapolis. Sears not only captured his third consecutive Drake two mile title, but in the running thereof he tied his own two mile record of 9 minutes 17 2-10 seconds and came within less than four seconds of the American record for this distance.

In 1932, Henry Brocksmith, Indiana university, unexpectedly responded to a perfect weather setting and raced eight times around the Drake field in 9 minutes 13 6-10 seconds for an all time American outdoor record. That mark still stands. But Sears, who was unable to crack 9½ minutes in 1933 and 1934, has so improved that he definitly is a threat to the Brocksmith record and must be considered in selecting an American Olympic team to compete in Berlin next year.

Unfortunately for Sears, there is no Olympic race comparable to the two mile. The 5,000 meters, nearest approach, is considerably longer than the 3,520 yards comprising the two miles, but nevertheless this will be Sears' objective when the tryouts are held for the American Olympic team.

Made Own Pace Most of the Way.

Sears might have done better Saturday had he been pressed at any time. Actually, he was forced to make his own pace after once stepping to the front, for Don Lash, Indiana university sophomore, who landed in second place, trailed by at least 50 yards. The remainder of the field was strung out behind.

The spotlight centered on Jesse Owens, Ohio State; Sam Allen, Oklahoma Baptist, and relay teams from Iowa, Texas, and the University of California at Los Angeles. Owens was the hero of the two day meet, more because of his American broad jump record than because of his 100 yard dash in 9 5-10 seconds, which tied the meet record. Allen tied his own high hurdle record and that of George Saling in 14 4-10 seconds.

The annual comparison of events at Pennsylvania's relays and Drake's relays gives the verdict to the easterners by a 7 to 6 score, principally because Penn used the metric system for its hurdle and sprint events, both of which probably would have gone to Drake participants in comparative scoring.

Here Are the Results.

The margin was gained in the track events, in which Penn teams held a 4 to 3 advantage and which did not include the high hurdles and 100 yard dash. It is unlikely that any college sprinter, at this time, can do better than tie Owens' century mark, and Allen's hurdling will stand by itself at this stage of the outdoor season.

All in all, the two carnivals are just about an even proposition and the real test of east versus west track and field supremacy must wait until the scores of the eastern intercollegiates and the national collegiates are hung up.

CHYNOWETH AND ZIVIC FIGHT EIGHT ROUNDS TONIGHT

Meet in Windup Bout at Marigold Gardens.

Fred Chenoweth, stocky Manitowoc, Wis., fighter, will attempt to chalk up his ninth consecutive triumph at the expense of Fritz Zivic, Pittsburgh, Pa., boxer, in an eight round bout at Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. The agreed poundage is 144.

Henry Hook, Indianapolis, Ind., bantamweight, and Bobby O'Dowd, Cedar Rapids, Ia., will meet in the six round semi-final. Four round preliminary matches will involve Joe Mickey and Joe Mendoza at 175 pounds, Dick Porter and Carl Scalise at 138, and Walter Matthys and Jimmy Richards at 131 pounds. Rudy Kay and Frank Hart will meet in a wrestling exhibition.

Joe Louis will come to town Wednesday on a stopover en route from Detroit to Peoria, where he will box four rounds or less with Jack Kranz, Gary, Ind., Friday. Though it had been announced this bout would be Louis' last before he went east to prepare for his forthcoming encounter with Primo Carnera, a change in plans may be made. Kalamazoo, Mich., promoters have interested representatives in showing Louis in their city next Monday and, if a suitable opponent is obtained, the latter quite likely will end his exhibition tour there.

Tom McHugh, Kansas City, Mo., promoter, is attempting to arrange a lightweight contest between Davey Day, Chicago, and Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis, Mo., for presentation at Kansas City May 8 or May 15.

Harry Dublinsky will head for New Orleans, La., Wednesday for his ten round bout with Eddie [Kid] Wolfe there a week from tonight. . . . Billy Miller, Milwaukee welterweight, anticipates a match with Fritz Zivic or Fred Chynoweth at Marigold Gardens next Monday. . . . A wrestling show will be held at Cicero stadium Friday.

The show at Midway arena, scheduled for tonight, was canceled when Promoter Johnny Coulon was unable to close a windup bout between Tony Bruno and Johnny Phagan. A card will be held at the Midway next Monday. Tony Zale, Gary, Ind., middleweight, and Phagan are likely to clash in the feature bout.

Amateur cards will be offered at Downers Grove tomorrow, 124th Field Artillery armory Wednesday, C. Y. O. center Thursday, and Northwest stadium Friday. The card at Downers Grove includes:

Ray Wozniak vs. Willis Johnson, 170.
George Nelson vs. Johnny Anderson, 147.
Laverne Keir vs. Jimmy McCabe, 147.

Prep Teams Play Off Postponed Games This Week

The first half of the Chicago Public High School league baseball season will be concluded this week. The following games are scheduled to clear up early season postponements:

Austin vs. Harrison; Austin vs. Marshall; Calumet vs. Morgan Park, Lake View vs. Senn, Farragut vs. Harrison, Tilden vs. Phillips, Englewood vs. Lindbloom.

The Suburban league also has scheduled seven games. Proviso, defending champion, will meet Oak Park Thursday.

The following teams are leading the sectional races in the City league, each without defeat: South, Bowen with five victories; Central, Tilden with four; North, Senn with four, and Austin in the west section with three triumphs.

The two way tie for second place in the west section will be broken when Harrison meets Farragut in one of the games scheduled this week. Harrison also will engage Austin.

MARINO BEATS FREITAG; WINS BOWLING MEET

Hank Marino of Milwaukee defeated Herb Freitag of Chicago in the final series of the match bowling eliminations at Schueneman's Lake View alleys last night and earned the right to meet Otto Stein for the individual match championship.

Opening last night with an eight point lead, Marino finished on top in points with 228.02, and by defeating Freitag made is possible for his teammate on the Heils, Ned Day, to ease into second place with 215.34. Freitag was third with 215.26.

For the 45 games in the tournament Marino averaged 226.9 for his 9,931 pins. He won 29 and lost 16 games.

Marino will open with Stein in St. Louis May 4, 5, and 6, and will then continue in Chicago May 10, 11, and 12.

Babe Didrikson Eyes National Golf Crown

Houston, Tex., April 28.—(AP)—Mildred [Babe] Didrikson cast a purposeful eye today on the women's national golf championship while she yet was unaccustomed to the feel of the Texas women's crown.

Miss Didrikson, all around athlete and olympic star, acquired the state title yesterday by defeating Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, 2 up, in a dramatic 36 hole final of the tournament over the River Oaks Country club course here.

Friends Call Golf Too Hard.

"Heres the big reason I am glad I won the championship," Babe said today. "After I had won those olympic events and told sports writers that some day I would be national golf champion, people laughed and that hurt me. Well wishing friends advised me that golf was too hard to master, and that I should not dream of becoming a national champion.

"I listened to all that advice but in my heart I still was determined to become a good golf player. Since 1932 I have worker hard on my game. I love to clout tee shots, but long ago I realized there is something to golf that requires more than tee shots. Through months I have worked with my irons, on the putting green, and being perfectly sincere about the matter, I think I have accomplished much with my golf game in a short time.

She'll Take Golf Lessons.

"My future plans? Golf and my study of the insurance business. I plan to join a country club at Dallas where I will place myself under a capable professional. My spare time will be occupied with golf lessons. I am not saying that I will win this year's national championship—that would be silly, but I do hope to make a real showing, say the quarter or semifinals. Of course my biggest dream is to win it."

MONARCHS END LEAGUE SEASON WITH 3 VICTORIES

The Monarch Beers shot a 3,143 series in the Classic league at the Gold Coast Recreation last night to win three games from the Budweisers. Herb Lange, president of the league and member of the Monarchs, wound up the regular season with a 702 count.

Pabsts defeated the Cardinals in three games and the Baby Ruths took two from the Edelweiss. Scores:

SKATING UNION TO RUN TOURS OF FOREIGN STARS

St. Louis, Mo., April 28—(AP)—Henry Kemper, president of the United States amateur skating union, said today he plans to take control from the United States Figure Skating association of future American exhibition tours by foreign skaters and place it in the hands of the Amateur Skating union.

"In their tour of the United States," Kemper said, "the five Europeans, Miss Vivi Ann Hulten of Sweden, Maxie Harber of Germany, Ernst Baier of Berlin, and Ida Papas and Carl Swack of Austria, appeared before probably 100,000 people who paid approximately $200,000. Out of this, the parent body of skating in the United States did not receive a cent, nor did any of the other winter sports groups."

Kemper said his plan has the support of Avery Brundage, president of the United States Olympic committee, who is of the opinion a percentage of all skating shows should be turned over to the Olympic committee.

UNIONS BOYCOTT CARDINALS; ASK DUROCHER'S JOB

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—Asserting Leo Durocher, captain and shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals, had manifested an anti-union attitude, the Central Trades and Labor union voted unanimously today to boycott the Cardinals' games here until Durocher is removed from the team's lineup.

Durocher's wife is a designer for the Forest City Manufacturing company, whose union garment workers are on strike. Delegates at the meeting charged Durocher had made anti-union statements and that he had appeared in City court as a witness against a woman who attempted to board his motor car in front of the company's plant when he had taken his wife to work.

SNYDER DEFEATS HOUSEHOLDER IN 30 LAP AUTO RACE

Jimmy Snyder, Chicago auto driver, beat Ronney Householder to win the 30 lap feature race at the 124th Field Artillery armory last night before 8,000 fans.

At the 11th lap Snyder pulled up on even terms with Householder and took the lead at the 17th lap after some fancy maneuvering. Householder lasted to beat Marshall Lewis for second place. Jimmy Roger was fourth. Snyder was awarded the Lendheimer trophy after the race.

CHICAGO RUGBY TEAM DEFEATS ST. LOUIS, 8 TO 6

The Chicago Western Rugby football team defeated the Missouri Rugby team of St. Louis, 8 to 6, at the Mills stadium yesterday afternoon.

All Chicago's scoring came in the first half, when Roberts made two touchdowns or tries and Mitchell made good the kick after the second try to give the Westerns an 8 to 0 lead at the half. Mitchell's kick after the first try went wide of the uprights.

In the second half, Winters made good a penalty kick for St. Louis and a short time later Foehr, through an error in fielding by Mitchell, scored again for St. Louis. Winters failed to convert the kick.

Sparta Beats Maccabees to Capture Title

BY OFFSIDE.

The Sparta Leaders yesterday captured the championship of the National Soccer league by defeating the Maccabees, 5 to 4, in a rough game at Sparta stadium. The winners opened the scoring shortly after the start of the contest, when Kriz drove a hard kick past Goalie Fisher.

Several minutes later Ogilvie of the Maccabees headed the ball into the Sparta net to tie the score. The Maccabees came back with another point to take the lead when Stevenson easily beat Baer on a close in shot.

Pearson scored from a penalty kick to put the Leaders on even terms again, but Ogilvie came out of a scrimmage and kicked his second goal for the Maccabees. Just as the half was drawing to a close Vleck raced through the Maccabee defense to scend a shot whizzing past Goalie Fisher. The period ended 3 to 3.

Wolf and Vleck kicked Sparta into a 5 to 3 lead within the first ten minutes of the second half. The teams battled for almost the remainder of the period before the Maccabees scored their fourth foal, Stevenson again beating Baer on a hard shot.

FENWICK WINS CATHOLIC PREP SWIMMING TITLE

Fenwick High school of Oak Park won the Chicago Catholic High school swimming championship for the third consecutive season by scoring 35 points at St. George High school yesterday.

St. George finished in second place with 28, while two points behind in third place was Loyola academy with 26. Leo and Mount Carmel, the other two schools competing finished third and fourth respectively, the former gathering four, and the latter two points.

COACHES TO SEE OLYMPIC PREVIEW AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador, will present a preview of the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin at the annual athletic dinner of the Catholic university alumni here May 1.

Ten well known college football coaches will attend. Dick Harlow, new Harvard coach, and Jimmy Crowley of Fordham will be the chief speakers. Other coaches include H. C. Byrd of Maryland, Lieut. Thomas Hamilton of Navy, Harry Stuhldreher of Villanova, Lou Little of Columbia, Chick Meehan of Manhattan, Heartley Anderson of North Carolina State, Jack Haggerty of Georgetown, and Jim Pixlee of George Washington.

Senators David Walsh of Massachusetts, F. Ryan Duffy of Wisconsin, Augustine Lonergan of Connecticut, Joseph O'Mahoney of Wyoming, and Joseph Guffey of Pennsylvania and Representatives John J. Cochran of Missouri, Daniel Reed of New York, and J. Joseph Smith of Connecticut will attend.

Athletic certificates will be awarded to Catholic university players.

Also available for special needs, the 1½-ton, 4-cylinder Model C-20. Chassis prices as low as $575 f.o.b. factory

Quick Facts About INTERNATIONAL 1½-Ton 6-Cylinder Model C-30
Six-cylinder engine—78.5 horsepower—hardened exhaust-valve seat inserts—full-floating rear axle—133 or 157-inch wheelbase—any desired body style—most economical in operation of all trucks in its class—lowest priced 1½-ton 6-cylinder model in International history. Other International sizes range from ½-ton to 10-ton with chassis prices as low as $400 f. o. b. factory.
Increased demand has greatly increased the production on the new International Model C-30, and the result is the lowest price that International Harvester has ever put on a 1½-ton, 6-cylinder truck.
That increased demand is the direct result of a combination of performance and economy in a modern truck that meets the widest range of hauling requirements.
See this new Model C-30 or any other International at our showroom. We'll be glad to show you the mechanical superiorities that have enabled hundreds of C-30 owners to operate their trucks at lower cost for a long lifetime of service.

SCHUMACHER AND GIANTS DEFEAT PHILLIES, 3 TO 0

New York, April 28.—(AP)—One single of a scratchy variety spoiled Hal Schumacher's chance for a no hit game today as he hurled the Giants to a 3 to 0 victory over the Phillies to strengthen the club's hold on the National league lead.

Orville Jorgens, second of three Philly moundsmen got the hit in the third inning. Schumacher got his glove in front of the hard hit ball and deflected it to Dick Bartell, who went across to the far side of second to take it. His hurried throw went over Terry's head and Jorgens continued to second. The scorer gave Jorgens a hit and Bartell an error.

Only 29 players faced Schumacher and only two reached first. After Jorgens got his hit the Phillies were retired in order until Lou Chiozza drew a walk in the ninth.

Joe Moore hit his third homer with Gus Mancuso on base in the second to give the Giants the necessary margin and Mancuso drove in the other run in the third when he bounced a single off third base to bring Hank Leiber home.

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—(AP)—Cy Blanton, Pittsburgh rookie, engaged Dizzy Dean in a hurling duel today and came out on top as the Pirates defeated the Cardinals, 3 to 2, in the last of their three game series before 12,000.

The young Pirate recruit held St. Louis to eight scattered hits while his teammates landed on the best offerings of Dean for 11 safeties. The victory was Blanton's second in a row over the Cardinals and marked Dizzy's second loss of the season.

TIGERS COME TO LIFE AND WHIP INDIANS, 5 TO 3

Cleveland, O., April 28.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers came to life today and blasted four pitchers for 12 hits, including a home run by Hank Greenberg, to end the six game winning streak of Cleveland with a 5 to 3 victory over the Indians.

Pitcher Joe Sullivan, in the box for the Tigers, made his first American league start. Oral Hildebrand, the Indians' starting pitcher, was knocked out in the fifth inning.

Greenberg's homer came in the eighth, when he drove one of Lloyd Brown's fast ones into the right field bleachers. Greenberg also cracked out a double, and Sullivan helped to win his own game by driving in two runs. Score:

SENATORS, 5; RED SOX, 3.

Boston, Mass., April 28.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today bunched four hits and, aided by Manager Cronin's two errors, piled up four runs in the ninth to defeat the Red Sox, 5 to 3, to sweep the three game series. A crowd of 23,500 watched the game.

Cronin missed Bolton's grounder to start the trouble in the ninth. Powell singled and Lary sacrificed. Kress, pinch hitting for Hadley, grounded to the Red Sox manager, who again lost it, and Bluege, running for Bolton, and Powell scored. Singles by Manush, Kuhel, and Stone scored the other two runs.

Ward's Injury Same as That Sustained Last Year

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 28.—[Special.]—The injury suffered by Willis Ward in the 100 meter dash at the Penn relays Saturday is similar to that he sustained in the Big Ten outdoor meet last year, he informed Coach Hoyt of Michigan today. Ward said it was less serious than last year's injury, however, and that he would be ready to compete in a few days. Coach Hoyt said Ward would not run in the Michigan-Michigan Normal meet here Tuesday.

Cubs Defeat Reds, 4-1, in Ninth Inning

Three infield outs were the Cubs' lot in the second inning, after which the Reds stirred up a mild jam. With one out Goodman reached first on Herman's fumble and Campbell walked. Then Lee fanned Kampouris and MacFayden. Lee was the first Cub to reach first and the first to knock the ball out of the infield. He singled to left with two out in the third and went to second when Galan caromed a severe liner off MacFayden's anatomy. Herman, however, failed to offer at any of three curve strikes that MacFayden dipped past him.

Klein made two nice running catches to dispose of Myers and Byrd in the Reds' third, then Riggs came through with the second Red hit, a single to left. Bottomley was nipped by a pitched ball, but Hafey popped to Jurges.

Ropes were stretched in front of the right field bleachers at the end of the Cubs' fourth and ground rules became effective as the overflow poured on the field. As the game continued, Jurges threw out Goodman, but Campbell walked for the second time, then Kampouris fanned for the second time. Lee tossed out MacFayden.

Galan doubled with one out in the sixth for his second and the Cubs' fifth hit and ran home with the tying run on Herman's single to left. Klein flied to Goodman and Herman was out trying to steal second.

Herman singled to center after Galan had been thrown out to start the ninth and went to third on Klein's single to right. After a conference in the center of the diamond the Reds decided to pitch to Lindstrom. Freddie tripled just short of the crowd in left when Goodman failed on a try for a running catch, Herman and Klein scoring. Lindstrom held third while MacFayden was throwing out Cuyler. Cavarretta singled to center, scoring Lindstrom. Hartnett singled to left, Cavarretta stopping at second. Frey replaced MacFayden here and Jurges fouled to Kampouris.

Sox Start Jones Against Indians in Opener Today

The White Sox moved out last night for Cleveland where they'll open a three game series today with the Indians, who now are leading the league race. The veteran Sam Jones, who has two victories to his credit, will be started in the opener. Monte Pearson probably will appear in behalf of the Indians.

Manager Jim Dykes' charley horse slipped its halter again yesterday, so he has decided not to return to third base for another day or two.

Manager Hornsby was so short of infielders that when Burns asked to be relieved in the third Heinie Mueller, an outfielder, had to go to first base. Hornsby couldn't take the job himself because of a charley horse. Burns' knee was injured on Radcliff's grounder which he fumbled in the first inning.

Cubs Home Today to Open 3 Game Pittsburgh Series

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., April 28.—The Cubs are scheduled to arrive home at 7:55 o'clock tomorrow morning, and tomorrow afternoon at Wrigley field they will face the Pirates for the first time since they beat them twice at the outset of the exhibition season. Lon Warneke will go after his fourth victory of the year. Waite Hoyt probably will be Lon's opponent.

Owner P. K. Wrigley of the Cubs, who rapidly is becoming a real fan, came down for the final today. He was accompanied by his assistant, Charley Drake, and a party of friends.

An hour before game time it was apparent that there was going to be a capacity crowd. And what a good old fashioned hooting and cheering of bugs it was. They got their first chance to hoot when Umpire Klem called out Myers in the first inning and they cheered a few minutes later when Byrd socked his homer.

Sox Win Over St. Louis, 6-4; Sixth in Row

In the third and fourth, but misery of some kind took hold of them again in the fifth, the Sox scoring one run without the help of a hit. It began with Mueller fumbling on Hayes' grounder. Simmons tapped to Coffman who threw wild trying for a force at second. Bonura popped out and on Washington's roller Bejma tossed wide to Burnett at second. Hayes scored and Simmons went to third on the error. Appling was purposely passed, filling the bases, and Hopkins hit into a double play.

After four innings of work which was almost perfect Whitehead handed a pass to Pepper to open the seventh. Burnett rolled to Appling for a force of Pepper at second and Bell popped out, but immediately after this there was trouble. Hemsley slammed a double down the right field line, Burnett stopping at third. Bejma hit the left field wall for two bases, Burnett and Hemsley scoring. Then Garms was sent forth to swing for Coffman, but was easily erased on a grounder to Hayes.

The Sox stirred up a little excitement for the crowd and also for Ivy Andrews in the home portion of the seventh, but there was nothing doing in the run line. After two were out Bonura dr[illegible]ed a single through Burnett's hands at short. Washington lined a double to right, Bonura stopping at third. Appling again was purposely passed, loading the bases. The strategy worked out successfully when a third strike slipped past Hopkins.

Simmons Drops One.

Whitehead tumbled into a mixup in the ninth when Bell walked and Hemsley bounced a single off Bonura's wrist. This seemed a serious threat until a speedy double play was pulled on Bejma's grounder to Appling. This left Bell on third and he scored a moment later on a scratch single past Hayes by Pinch Batter Heath. Then the threat broke out again when Simmons, of all outfielders, dropped West's tall fly. This put the tying runs on third and second, but Mueller ended the battle with a bounder to Hayes.

SOX, INDIANS AND GIANTS TOP 2D WEEK IN MAJORS

New York Takes Lead with Six Victories.

New York, April 28.—(AP)—The New York Giants' undefeated tour to the head of the National league standing and the slugging duel between the Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians for the American league lead furnished the high marks for the second week of the major league baseball season.

The Giants hammered the Braves and Phillies for six victories, interrupted only by a tie game with Philadelphia, and extended their streak to nine games without a loss. They outhit all league rivals, making 74 hits; outscored all but Boston, led the league in fielding, pitching and home runs.

Giants Have Tight Defense.

The New Yorkers tied the Braves with 32 runs, hit nine homers, allowed their opponents 17 runs in seven games to edge out the Reds and made only four errors.

For sheer hitting power, they weren't in the same class with either the White Sox or the Indians. Chicago made 80 hits and scored 64 runs; Cleveland put over 45 runs on 79 hits. Their opponents were allowed 32 and 24 runs, respectively.

The White Sox put on a home run hitting splurge in five of their seven games, cracking out 14 homers, six by Zeke Bonura.

Yankees Chase Leaders.

The Yankees, winners of four of five games, gave the leaders a good chase with 43 runs to 26 for the opposition as well as leading the league in fielding with four errors.

FAST SPRINTERS TO SEEK AURORA OPENING HONORS

Zekiel Eyes 2d Straight Inaugural Victory.

A fleet field of sprinters is in prospect for the 13th running of the Fox Valley inaugural handicap, the six furlong fixture which will be the opening day feature of the seven race program at Aurora Wednesday.

Entries for the race close today. Racing Secretary Dick Leigh reports that a starting field of a dozen thoroughbreds is assured, and that the number may run as high as fifteen. As soon as entries close, Leigh will begin the task of assigning weights for the handicap, and will release them to horsemen tomorrow.

Trouble for Zekiel.

Heading the list of probable starters is the good 6 year old sprinter, Zekiel, which will likely wind up as favorite. But a list of possible starters which includes Joe Flores, Fanfern, Whipper Cracker, Rapid Bells, Band Wagon, Noah's Pride, Woodlander, Herowin, Irene's Bob, Terrier, Friend Charley, Zenka, Charlie Dawn, Clang, and Hasty Glance guarantees that Zekiel will have plenty of competition.

Zekiel is seeking his second victory in the event. Last year, although rather lightly regarded in the betting, Zekiel won the Inaugural by a length and a half, and set a new track record by running the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5. A few days later he broke his own record with six furlongs in 1:11.

Racing Strip Faster.

That the winner of the Inaugural will clip a fraction off Zekiel's record is a distinct possibility. At its best the Aurora oval is just about as fast as any in the Chicago district, and Track Superintendent Placide Frigerio believes he has speeded it up by his work this spring. Slight rains over the week-end have served to settle the topsoil, and be assured that on opening day the racing strip will be faster than it ever has been before.

Improvements to the racing strip have formed a minor part of Aurora's preparations for the opening of the Illinois' season, however. The grandstand has been rebuilt in modernistic concrete, a new stand built, and the lawn paved to make the Fox Valley plant one of the most attractive of Chicago's race tracks. The track was crowded yesterday with racegoers eager to get a preview.

16,Perhaps20, Will Compose Derby Field

morning she had come out of her smashing victory in the Cherokee Purse in fine condition.

Nellie's owner is Warren Wright of Chicago, but Kentuckians regard her as home folks because she was bred and foaled at Mr. Wright's Calumet farm, one of the picture places of the Blue Grass country.

They're beginning to think she's going to run away and hide from the colts in the Derby field and they are wagering their money that way. They have bet so much today that Nellie is about the equal favorite with C. V. Whitney's Today. Bookies here were offering 7 to 2 against each of them.

Gallaclay Steps Along.

Sun Fairplay, which arrived from Maryland yesterday, St. Bernard, Roman Soldier, Gallaclay, Whiskola, Chance View, and Finance attracted the most attention during today's training hour. Gallaclay outworked them all. He stepped five-eighths of a mile over a very heavy track in 1:01, while his stablemate, Whiskola, went the same distance in 1:02, although it appeared that Whiskola was under wraps most of the way.

Neither Sun Fairplay nor St. Bernard went in for speed. The former traveled a mile handily in 1:46 and St. Bernard was just breezing when he covered the same distance in 1:48 2-5. Roman Soldier was out for the first time since he arrived from Texas and breezed three furlongs in :39 3-5.

Omaha, Plat Eye, Today, Commonwealth, Sailor Beware, and other eastern Derby candidates will arrive at Churchill Downs tomorrow.

There's a bit of mystery about the party in which Omaha is traveling. Trainer Jim Fitzsimmons is bringing Omaha here and he is accompanied by four other horses. Fitzsimmons is training six Derby eligibles so it may be that the wealthy eastern owners Fitzsimmons represents have decided to take a chance at the Derby prize and have ordered some colts to be started in the race that are not included in the probable field at this time.

U. S. AND MEXICO DISCUSS SILVER IN WASHINGTON

Morgenthau Meets Envoy Najera.

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Monetary troubles in Mexico, born of world silver prices soaring after United States treasury offers, today were taken directly to Secretary Morgenthau by representatives of the southern republic.

For an hour, President Roosevelt's first financial advisor conferred with Ambassador Castillo Najero and Roberto Lopez, assistant secretary of the Mexican treasury, who was sped to Washington by his government when climbing silver prices forced orders for the surrender of silver coins and closed banks over the week-end.

With Morgenthau were Herman Oliphant, the treasury's general council, and Herbert Feis, economic advisor of the state department.

Will Confer Again.

Officials of neither nation would discuss the meeting beyond indicating further conferences. But before the session, Lopez said, "It would seem proper that both countries should find a way to coöperate in this matter."

Despite the silence in official quarters the belief was general that the Mexican government would urge the United States to ease its buying program just as China has asked in the past.

Dies gave his interpretation of the situation in these words:

"The United States, by raising its price for silver to 77.57 cents, is getting or threatening to get the world's floating supply of siver.

Have Little Gold.

"Many nations have little gold; the United States has half of the world's gold. A managed currency without a metallic base is never satisfactory, and the rest of the world knows it.

"So with the United States buying all the silver it can get, some other governments apparently are bidding up the price in order to keep silver within their own borders.

"Eventually the United States price will get up to $1.29 an ounce, as the silver purchase act provides. The duel cannot continue forever. Some nations need silver worse than we do. If they let us buy it all, they eventually will have to buy it from us. They naturally would prefer to prevent a flight of capital.

"In the final analysis, the thing will end in the international monetary conference the President wants, and I believe that conference will end in an agreement upon a bi-metallic worldwide currency system at the 16 to 1 ratio."

Some observers, however, referred to yesterday's drop in the world's silver price to 76.75 cents, contending it showed that so far the world price was being kept up primarily by speculators and not by other governments.

Exchange Rate Restored.

MEXICO, D. F., April 28.—(AP)—The Bank of Mexico announced today it will buy and sell an unlimited quantity of dollars at 3.60 pesos beginning tomorrow, thus restoring the exchange rate which until the peso shot up Thursday has been in effect for a year and a half.

A number of banks and individuals who bought United States dollars for as low as 3.30 pesos during the two days when the Mexican currency was skyrocketing will be able to sell them at the 3.60 price, taking large profits on the transactions.

Huge Indian Hoard.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Hindu marriage customs are cited by metal dealers as a growing factor in the upward swirl of world silver prices.

May is the favorite marriage month among the Hindus. Market authorities point out that the use of silver ornaments in dowries grows sharply during the marriage season, and there is a tendency not to part from the cherished silver holdings at that time.

Hoardings of the white metal in the far east have been estimated as high as 6,500,000,000 fine ounces, by far the largest store in the world, but this metal for the most part has been kept off the market. Customs of the people, such as the Hindu marriage practice, have tended to limit the amount of silver from that source available for trading.

The United States treasury has been the most powerful buying force in the world silver market in recent months, and the floating supply has been sopped up by treasury buying and by speculative demand riding the crest of high silver prices.

EXPRESS AGENCY PRESIDENT FINDS BUSINESS BETTER

President L. O. Head of the Railway Express Agency passed through Chicago last night on his way to New York City after a month's survey of business conditions throughout the country. While his private car was being switched from the Burlington railroad to the Pennsylvania railroad, Mr. Head declared that business conditions continued to show an upward trend.

"Judging from our business which has shown an eight to twelve per cent increase during the first four months of this year over the same period last year, I believe that business generally will show an increase in 1935," he asserted.

Mr. Head said that his company during 1934 had an increase of $18,000,000 in volume of business over 1933, representing a 11.9 per cent increase.

Rise in Silver Cheers British Speculators

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—Although criticized in the press as being as "ruthless and cynical a piece of statesmanship" as was ever put through, the Roosevelt silver program has overjoyed British silver speculators. Within a few weeks they have seen the world price of silver rise by nearly half again from its lowest level this year.

A "bear" argument is the suggestion that the unpredictable Henry Morgenthau, American treasury secretary, might grow uncomfortable at the spectacle of silver gamblers taking enormous profits in metal and might say something which would puncture the boom. But others contend he cannot turn back, no matter how unsavory the landscape.

Bankers Are Worried.

Responsible sections of the London bullion market—notably the big eastern banks—are distinctly worried over the prospects of a runaway market in silver. Many years ago, long before the British government invented the exchange equalization fund and patted itself on the back for the idea, the big eastern banks in London had hit upon the idea and had perfected the technique of using silver as an exchange reserve fund to iron out fluctuations in the foreign exchange value of the Shanghai tael and the Hongkong dollar.

Nowadays it does not work too well on Shanghai, but it still functions more or less in connection with the Hongkong exchange. Today the eastern banks are the only sellers of silver in this one way market. There is a limit to the supplies they can offer.

Talk of Intervention.

During the war when a runaway market developed the British government intervened and there is talk it might have to do so again. However, it is difficult to figure out any justification for such a move, especially in view of the substantial profits which the United States is now presenting to silver hoarders of India.

On the strength of those profits India government stocks are in great demand, the 3½ per cents jumping in a single day from 95½ to 98. Incidentally the rising price of silver is expected to go a long way to allay the discontent among the Indian masses and smooth the way for the British government in forcing through its proposed constitution. This is an aspect which appears to have escaped the notice of the American left wingers.

But a runaway market in silver based on a political program rather than a world demand is bothersome to London. Curiously enough, it coincides with fresh continental attacks on sterling.

Earnings Reports Good.

London is still getting good earnings reports from industrial companies and it looks as though Neville Chamberlain's receipts from the income tax during the current year will be considerably higher than his cautious budget forecasts.

Furthermore, the royal silver jubilee is proving good for business in stimulating the velocity in Britain of a somewhat sluggish money circulation, and the next stock exchange account promises to be favorable.

Sentiment is growing much more cheerful, although there is an undercurrent of concern over possible developments in the shellac and white pepper affair, regarding which it may be recalled that the official receiver took a rather serious view. This means that the courts will almost certainly be invited to investigate certain aspects of that affair and repercussions might conceivably be far reaching.

MILLION SHARE DAYS APPEAR; BROKERS HAPPY

Silver Stocks Lead Market Advance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 28.—Stock prices in most sections of the market reached their best levels of the year last week as the administration's fresh "jiggle" in silver set the speculative community to thinking anew in terms of monetary inflation.

"Million share days" became the rule once more and the week-end found brokers rubbing their hands gleefully over one of the best market weeks that has come their way in many a cheerless moon. Transactions totaled 7,686,445 shares, making it the biggest week since last July.

Near Season's High.

Silver stocks, as in the previous week's advance, made the best group showing, although the railroad and utility divisions performed impressively and the continued flow of cheap money drove a fresh flood of investment funds into some of the better grade dividend-paying industrials.

Strike troubles militated against the motors and their accessories and the farm implements and mail orders encountered some trouble over difficulties on the Chicago Board of Trade and the setback in grain prices. Some of the leading food stocks wound up the week slightly lower and a scattering of specialties countered the trend for net losses due to one cause or another.

Silver Shares Soar.

Most of the silver stocks made wide gains on the week and copper and other mining issues rose impressively with them. U. S. Smelting and Refining, the bigtime leader of the group, scored a net gain of 6⅜ points for the five and one-half trading sessions and American Smelting and Refining rose 4¾ points.

Cerro De Pasco and Silver King bettered their board standings by 6⅝ points each, the first named issue soaring to one new high after another on a flood of buying orders. Other price improvements for the division were Magma Copper, which rose 3½ points, and Howe Sound and Park Utah with a net gain of 2⅛ points each.

The week, the sixth successive one of the market's forward movement ended on a rather sour note yesterday as uncertainty over the administration's next move in silver brought selling into the metal groups and through them the market in general. Commission house comment over the week-end indicated no little doubt as to whether the market could carry on from this point without some fresh stimulant from the new deal. Some commentators believe that the bullish possibilities of the silver tinkering have about been exhausted and that a rabbit of another stock will have to be pulled out of the administration hat before much further progress can be counted upon.

Await Court Decision.

Many traders are looking—as they have been for weeks past—to a Supreme court decision favorable to the railroads on the pension act, tomorrow, to give the list a temporary fillip.

Business news with a market bearing has been of a mixed character. Current statistics do not point to any important change in recent weeks nor last week aside from the usual Easter pickup in Easter trade. Automobile output made a new high but it was thought the stepup in activity at the plants was in anticipation of possible further strike troubles. Railroad carloadings and steel production are slightly higher but electric power output suffered a slight decline.

TRADE IN CHICAGO IS HELPED BY WARM WEATHER LAST WEEK

Unusually warm weather stimulated business in Chicago last week, the Chicago Association of Commerce reports. A pronounced rise occurred in purchases of warm weather clothing and other commodities, while jobbers in building supplies reported the best trend of the year.

A marked spurt in residential building and remodeling, particularly in suburban areas, resulted in sizable commitments for building materials.

Railroads had a busy week in passenger trafic, although freight loadings fell below expectations, particularly in grain departments. Steel output in Chicago continued at a satisfactory pace, although a few points behind the same period last year. Pig iron was said to be in heavy demand.

Fears that the automobile strike would hurt machinery and metal concerns failed to materialize. Wages and employment in the Chicago industrial district remained steady.

Subscriptions for New U. S. Issues Total $910,000,000

Subscriptions totaling $910,000,000 had been received up to the close Saturday in response to the offering of treasury bonds and notes in exchange for first Liberty Loan bonds called for redemption June 15, it was announced yesterday by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. About $605,000,000 of the bonds have been exchanged for the 1½ per cent treasury notes, series A-1940, and $305,000,000 for 2¾ per cent treasury bonds of 1955-'60.

Blames U. S. for Flood of Alien Goods

Much that is praiseworthy of the NRA is being nullified by a refusal of the government adequately to protect American industry against importations of foreign goods made in countries with a relatively low plane of living, low wage scales and poor working conditions, the Diamond Match company declares in a voluminous report on its operations for 1934.

Simultaneously with the imposition of higher American costs by NRA, which it terms "government decrees," so-called reciprocal trade agreements carrying 50 per cent tarif reductions on American imports are contemplated, which if consummated, will make certain industries in this country helpless against the raids of foreigners who are not burdened with NRA, the firm declares.

Finds Results Disappointing.

Despite rosy promises that the Blue Eagle would stop cut-throat competition, stabilize prices, halt wrongful trade practices and many other things, results have been disappointing, the report asserts.

"An avowed purpose of the act was to create and preserve harmonious relationships and to prevent industrial strife and class conflicts, but the opposite has resulted," the company charges. "For the first time in the history of Diamond Match, a period extending back 25 years, this company has had labor misunderstandings, difficulties and an unfortunate and unwarranted strike, notwithstanding the fact the company paid higher wages than those prescribed in the code.

Cites Increase in Costs.

"NRA and the match code have greatly increased the cost of match production in this country, caused discord between employers and employés, and have held honest and responsible companies to strict compliance with code provisions, but have not punished violators.

"Neither has the code stabilized prices at a reasonable level, restricted unscrupulous and demoralizing competition, put a stop to nuisance-value gangsterism, or given protection to the national industry against low cost and foreign exporting match making countries."

The report discloses the company paid an average tax of $3,400,000 in the last two years, a total of $6,800,000. In the same period stockholders received in dividends $3,200,000, or only 47 per cent of the amount contributed to the expense of government. Net earnings during the period were $4,184,407. Taxes paid were one and five-eighths times profits.

SEN. FLETCHER URGES BEWILDERED BANKERS TO AID CREDIT PLAN

Washington, D. C., April 28.—(AP)—Urging approval of sections of the omnibus banking bill designed to centralize control over currency and credit in the federal reserve board, Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking committee tonight asserted the "bewildered" bankers should approve of this "stabilizing" step.

In a speech the Florida senator said a "few bankers" were in a dominant position to "lay down the rules for making money 'tight' or 'easy,' but they could not be called to account."

"It is my earnest desire," he added, "that the fifteen or twenty thousand bewildered bankers, who have never known and cannot be expected to know why money is 'tight' or 'easy,' demand that this great destabilizing and disturbing factor of monetary policy be separated from banking per se and placed in the hands of men who must and who shall be held responsible and accountable for their acts.

"Undoubtedly in this great nation we can find at least five or eight men, depending upon the final provisions of the act, who know what it is all about and can be trusted to administer our monetary policy intelligently and with the greatest amount of integrity and respect for the people and to act for the public welfare."

PENNSY SPEEDS CHICAGO TRAINS' RUNNING TIME

Faster schedules for a number of its trains between Chicago and Cincinnati and Chicago and Detroit were established by the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday coincident with the change to daylight saving time, H. E. Newcomet, vice president, announced.

The Union, operating between Chicago and Cincinnati, had its northbound schedule quickened to six hours, leaving Cincinnati at 2:45 p. m. eastern standard time and arriving in Chicago at 8:45 p. m. daylight saving time. Southbound the time has been cut ten minutes to 6 hours 20 minutes. The train leaves Chicago at 2:10 p. m. daylight saving time and arrives at Cincinnati at 8:30 p. m. eastern standard time. The time of the Southland and the Chicago Daylight Express also has been reduced.

In the Chicago-Detroit service that afternoon train in each direction has been named the Detroit Arrow. Eastbound the train leaves Chicago at 5:10 p. m. daylight saving time and arrives at Detroit at 10:40 p. m. eastern standard time. Westbound the train leaves Detroit at 4 p. m. eastern standard time and arrives here at 9:30 p. m. daylight saving time. Schedules of other trains in this service have been shortened.

1,211 PERSONS USE TWIN ZEPHYRS IN FIRST WEEK

The Twin Zephyrs of the Burlington road in the first week of their operation carried a total of 1,211 persons, A. Cotsworth Jr., passenger traffic manager announced yesterday. Each of the trains has a capacity of 88 passengers. Passengers on the Zephyrs are given a questionnaire asking how they would have made the trip if they had not used the Zephyr and 801 answers give the following results: 8.9 per cent would have used an automobile; 3.7 per cent would have used a bus; 8.7 per cent would have taken an airplane; 33.6 per cent would have used some other day train and 45.1 per cent would have used an overnight train.

The North Western's "400," the first of the high speed trains to operate between Chicago and the Twin Cities, started its faster time yesterday, covering the journey between Chicago and St. Paul in 6½ hours and between Chicago and Minneapolis in 7 hours.

World's Fastest Engine to Be Dedicated Tomorrow

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, Gov. Herbert Lehman, other officials and railroad leaders are scheduled to christen the Milwaukee railroad's new streamlined, steam locomotive on Tuesday at the Schenectady, N. Y., plant of the American Locomotive company. The locomotive, described by the company as the "fastest engine in the world," will be used by the Milwaukee to haul a speed train between Chicago and the Twin Cities. The manufacturers gave its speed at 120 miles an hour or better.

Anaconda Wire and Cable Quarter Profit Is $250,743

Profit of the Anaconda Wire and Cable company in the first quarter amounted to $250,743, equal to 51 cents a share on the capital stock, compared with $146,439 or 30 cents in the same quarter last year.

Steel Output Holds Steady in Last Week

Steel mill operations last week continued at 46 per cent of production capacity. Gains in the Chicago and Pittsburgh districts in response to a better demand for heavy finished steel were offset by losses in other centers, influenced by lighter specifications for sheets and scrap, says the magazine Steel.

Chicago and Pittsburgh also reported better sentiment in the scrap market. A reduction of 50 cents a ton in Philadelphia, however, caused the journal's scrap composite to drop 8 cents to $9.92 a ton.

Foundries in the middle west indicate their business is still improving, the review says, with further gains in pig iron shipments. Lake Superior iron ore prices have been reaffirmed for the seventh consecutive year and lake shipments have started several weeks earlier than in 1934.

Chicago Rate Is 52 Per Cent.

Among the district changes in steel mill operations during the week was a gain of 2 points to 52 per cent in Chicago and 1 point to 37 per cent in Pittsburgh. Youngstown was off 2 points at 56 per cent, Cleveland, 5 points to 57 per cent; Buffalo, 3 points to 34 per cent; eastern Pennsylvania, ½ point to 29 per cent, and New England, 27 points to 25 per cent. Detroit held at 32 per cent, Wheeling at 76 per cent and Birmingham at 54½ per cent.

While automobile assemblies again increased 1,000 to a total of 111,000 for the week, there was a letdown in commitments as manufacturers scaled down inventories, says the magazine. Full finished steel production dropped 3 points to 74 per cent and cold rolled strip declined 3 points to 54 per cent.

The strike in Toledo, which caused the suspension of steel shipments to a transmission plant there, is not considered serious, the journal says, unless it spreads to other company units. A nearby sheet mill recently operating at capacity for automobile builders has been shut down for more than a week due to labor difficulties.

Decide Prices Next Month.

Steelmakers must decide on prices for the third quarter by May 22, and, while some express strong sentiment for an advance, others believe it might prove too great a burden on consumers, coming so soon after a general freight rate increase, says the review.

These consumers also contend that the only result would be to drive in tonnage ahead of the effective date, with a sharp depression in July and August, and little tonnage at the higher levels until the fourth quarter, it is stated.

Structural shape awards last week increased moderately to 13,900 tons, including 7,500 tons of steel piling for piers at the Boston army base. A large tonnage of shapes and plates will be required if congress passes the naval construction bill as introduced last week, the journal states.

GIFFORD URGES NATION TO HAVE FAITH IN FUTURE

New York, April 28.—(AP)—Speaking on the occasion of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, Walter S. Gifford, president, said tonight it was fitting for the American people to renew their "faith in the future."

"In the present difficult times," he said, "we are all too apt to live in and for the moment—to take counsel of the discouragements of the day and to live in fear of dire happenings in the future, most of which, if we may learn from the experience of the past, never happen."

Referring to the days of the world war, when he served as director of the council of national defense, Gifford said he had an opportunity "to see what Americans can do when the occasion demands."

"The spirit of the enthusiasms and optimism was invincible," he asserted. "Instead of trying to prove that the possible couldn't be done, everyone was trying to see how the impossible—or what seemed impossible—could be and was done. It is this typical American spirit that assures our country getting out of its present difficulties."

CLOSED BANKS' REPAYMENTS ON DEPOSITS FEWER

One of 10 Refunds in First Quarter.

All of the ten closed banks for which State Auditor Barrett issued reports yesterday, as of March 31, have returned something to depositors, but only one additional payment was made during the last quarter. Aside from applications for Reconstruction Finance corporation loans to the Brainerd and Bryn Mawr links of the old Bain system, little other tangible progress was discernible.

Accurate information, gleaned from the auditor's reports and persons familiar with the affairs of the banks, is furnished in the following sketches. Progress of liquidation and future prospects are indicated. Figures used cover the entire receivership unless otherwise stated.

Binga State Bank.

BINGA STATE—Receipts only $370,400 in receivership extending back to 1930. Unconverted assets carried at dubious book value of $1,153,300. Deposit liability still $972,300. Properties highly involved and outlook dark. Paid depositors $138,500, or 12½ per cent, $77,000 to prior creditors, $23,000 to receivers, $10,000 to attorneys [part unpaid], $38,000 clerical, and $60,500 to protects assets; $18,000 receipts last quarter all taken by expenses and protection of assets.

BOULEVARD STATE—Receipts of $809,000 drained to pay $373,000 prior claims. Advanced $59,000 to protect assets, $47,300 clerical, $28,000 to attorneys, $9,400 to receivers. Repaid $74,000, or 10 per cent, on deposits. Little cash held. Losses of $180,350 are heavy. Remaining assets of questionable worth carried on books at only $684,000, indicating dull outlook for depositors still owed $675,400.

BRAINERD STATE—Receipts $126,000—$51,700 to prior creditors, $17,800 clerical, $12,000 to attorneys and receivers, and $4,700 to protect assets. Paid $37,700, or 17½ per cent, to depositors. Remarkable loss record of only $3,545. Prospects good for substantial further payments of this Bain bank. Owes depositors $182,750 and has $404,100 book value assets. RFC loan application expected to net over 10 per cent. Marking time, meanwhile.

Brighton Park State.

BRIGHTON PARK STATE—Receipts $354,600—$213,600 to prior claims, $21,000 clerical, $21,000 to receivers and attorneys, $10,000 interest, $7,800 to protect assets. Returned $32,270, or 10 per cent, to depositors. Last quarter's $18,000 receipts netted cash increase of $11,000 after costs to make $45,000 available to wipe out $26,400 balance due on borrowed money. This should open the way to further dividends, perhaps through RFC loan. Heavy losses of $103,000, and has $498,000 in assets of dubious worth. Some fairly substantial payment possible on $327,000 still due depositors.

BROOKFIELD STATE—Receipts $118,400 [$6,000 last quarter]. Paid $56,500 preferred claims, $19,200 clerical, $17,000 to protect assets, and $7,500 other expense. Returned $16,000, or 10 per cent, to depositors—half last quarter. Almost no cash. Definitly offers little hope to depositors, with heavy losses of $91,300 to date and only $180,000 in book value on remaining assets to meet $153,500 due depositors.

BRYN MAWR STATE—Receipts $304,200. Repaid $73,600, or 15 per cent, to depositors. Cash $26,000. Loan from RFC expected to net 5 to 10 per cent more by summer, but the outlook for this Bain bank is no better than fair, with $79,100 losses to date and only $576,300 as bloated book value of remaining assets. Owes depositors $439,900. Paid $129,000 prior claims, $24,200 to attorneys and receivers, $30,800 clerical, and $19,000 to protect assets.

Builders-Merchants Bank.

BUILDERS AND MERCHANTS BANK AND TRUST COMPANY—Receipts $2,407,785 [$23,500 last quarter]—$958,000 to prior claims and $863,000, or 30 per cent, to depositors. Costs: $119,000 to attorneys, $125,000 clerical, $34,000 to receivers, and $342,800 [$14,000 last quarter] for protection of assets, with returns $281,600 so far. Future prospects gloomy. Remaining assets of $1,958,750 are of the questionable type, while $2,048,200 is still due to depositors. Only $26,700 cash.

CALUMET CITY STATE—Receipts $112,350—only $10,000 prior claims and $31,500, or 10 per cent, to depositors. Costs: $32,000 to protect assets, $24,000 clerical, $10,500 to attorneys and receivers. Losses of $16,650. Only $324,600 book value on remaining assets and $294,350 due depositors. Tightly frozen, and nothing short of a Calumet City real estate boom would give depositors good returns.

CENTRAL MANUFACTURING DISTRICT—Receipts $2,949,300 [$82,500 last quarter]. Paid $1,583,000 [$32,000 last quarter] prior claims and $536,300, or 22 per cent, to depositors. Paid out $433,000 to protect assets [$17,000 last quarter], with return of only $268,000 [$25,500 last quarter]. Costs: $129,800 clerical, $62,300 to attorneys, $11,000 to receivers. Owes RFC $282,500 after paying back only $6,000 last quarter. Has large cash reserve of $187,000, but RFC must be repaid before further dividends. Losses of $375,000 are under 12 per cent. Portfolio includes "a lot of good stuff" in the $3,543,976 listed in remaining assets, against $2,194,500 due depositors. Further substantial payment expected.

Central Oak Park State.

CENTRAL OAK PARK STATE—Collected $6 in first three months of year; no effort being apparent to liquidate or obtain loan on remaining slow assets listed at $116,348. In receivership since July, 1930. Receipts $101,137. Paid depositors $41,091, or 40 per cent, and owes them $65,299. Paid $30,600 prior claims and $28,300 expenses. Slight cash balance.

Lumber Group Will Take Poll on Code Amendment.

Members of the national lumber code authority decided at a special meeting at the Blackstone hotel yesterday to poll the divisions of the industry throughout the country to determine whether the lumber code should be amended to provide that all actions of the executive committee be subject to the approval of the NRA. The lumber code authority has been advised by the NRA that such an amendment is necessary to enforcement of the code.

Group Offers $1,200,000 of Cook County Bonds Today.

A syndicate headed by Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., will offer today $1,200,000 of 5 per cent series CC Cook County Relief bonds.

NEXT ESTIMATES ON WHEAT CROP MAY BE HIGHER

Recent Rains Over West Prove Beneficial.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The government and private forecasts on winter wheat production will be made in the near future. The private statisticians are expected to make public their figures this week, while the report of the department of agriculture estimate will be issued May 10. It is generally believed the figures will give a more hopeful picture than was furnished three weeks ago when the government estimated winter wheat production would approximate 436 million bushels.

The government made its previous estimate when drouth conditions in the southwestern producing section were at the worst. Since that time there has been some relief, although the driest parts of the area have not been reclaimed and cannot be reckoned as a factor in the final outcome of the crop.

Crop Benefited by Rains.

Low estimates on the Kansas crop are still being made. There is little question, however, that recent scattered rains have benefited the crop.

The government's figure will be awaited with keen interest. The private forecasters last month had indicated a crop in the neighborhood of 500 million bushels. When the government came out with its 436 million figure it was a bombshell to the market.

Big Spring Wheat Crop Expected.

In the spring wheat belt there is promise that a big crop will be raised this year. The northwest has had good rains and the soil was in good condition for planting. This favorable outlook was tempered somewhat by the delay in seeding growing out of the inability of farmers to get seed grain in time.

With the April prospects in the northwest better than average the long term guessers believe the spring wheat crop will be the best in years.

Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Investors' Guide: Will you please send me a report on Sears stock?—Mrs. G. D. F.

Answer: Sears-Roebuck company is the largest retailing organization in the world. It was originally a mail order house only, but advent of good roads induced travel on the part of rural residents. To offset that, the company branched into the retail store business. Its chain of retail outlets now account for about half of total business.

The company has made a heavy bid for tire business, due to its favorable contract for tires. This contract is under fire of the federal trade commission at present.

Despite a late Easter sales have increased markedly during this year. For the eight weeks to March 26, 1935, sales were 22 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1934 period.

Net sales for the Jan. 31, 1935, year rose to $313,213,000 from the $269,378,000 reported for the preceding year. Net income was $15,021,000, or $3.13 a share, against $11,249,000, or $2.38 a share, for the Jan. 31, 1934, year. Net sales for the 13 months to Jan. 28, 1933, were $271,089,000 and net loss was $2,544,000, while for the preceding year net sales were $216,295,000 and net income was $12,170,000, or $2.47 a share.

With higher commodity prices and increasing profits has come a betterment in current position. Current assets on Jan. 31, 1935, were $102,137,000 and current liabilities were $31,889,000. Notes payable were $18,777,000, against $31,988,000 the year before.

Directors declared a dividend of 75 cents a share payable May 1, 1935, the first since May 2, 1932. They said, however, that dividends would not be considered again until the latter part of the year, when they would be in a position to see more clearly how conditions were shaping up.

There is no funded debt and only one class of stock.

Street Certificate.

Investors' Guide: Please explain street certificate to me. Who receives the dividends on these certificates and in whose hands is the stock?—W. W.

Answer: Stock certificates which are indorsed in the names of brokers or individuals whose signatures have been guaranteed by a member of the stock exchange on which the stock is dealt are termed street certificates. They pass by delivery without further indorsement.

The dividends on them are paid to the last stockholder of record, so it is important when purchasing stock to have it transferred to your name, unless you are going to sell it before the date of record for the next dividend.

The stock is in the hands of the person who purchased it or the broker.

MEN

We make a sincere, straight-from-the-shoulder statement that it will cost men real money who are too skeptical to investigate this advertisement.

Listed Below Are Some Record Earnings.
OUR BEST MEN.

THESE EARNINGS ARE FOR 4 WEEKS. (our 3d sales period.)

W. Metcalf	$1,595.00
John Madden	1,271.00
J. Lecuyer	1,227.00
F. Dunlop (3 weeks)	410.50

WE ALSO WILL LIST SOME AVERAGE EARNINGS. Not as large as the above, but representing what a new man might expect to start.

ONE WEEK.

J. Terry	$161.70
F. Dean	$ 95.53
G. McPeck	170.60
P. Lecuyer	152.80

The above commissions were paid to men that you can actually meet. Others whom you will meet and question earned from $38 to $90 for the week. We invite the investigation of any one on the above figures.

Because of rapidly expanding business in our line we find it necessary to increase our organization in and outside of Chicago.

OUR DEAL IS BRAND NEW AND OUR PRODUCTS ARE NEW AND AMAZINGLY DIFFERENT.

Only a personal investigation will convince you that our products which include Electrical Units, Heating Equipment, Air Conditioning, etc., makes this the best proposition in America. We extend a challenge to good men to have us prove this. Our company enjoys the highest credit rating and is backed by men of integrity and aggression.

ABSOLUTELY NO INVESTMENT ON YOUR PART.

We pay the rent, light, heat, stenographers, etc., place you where the business is and pay you weekly. We can only spare time to interview men of good appearance, who have a sincere desire to locate a permanent connection.

Make up your mind to investigate this profitable business Monday, April 29, Room 1015, 75 E. Wacker-dr., near Michigan-av., at 11 a. m., or 2 p. m. Be prompt for interview at either hour.

MEN—

CAN YOU DO WHAT OTHER AVERAGE MEN ARE DOING? CAN YOU AND WILL YOU LEARN HOW AND WORK TO MAKE $40 TO $100 AND MORE A WEEK IF YOU SEE OTHER MEN DOING IT REGULARLY AS PERMANENT YEAR-IN, YEAR-OUT BUSINESS?

Our business is growing rapidly. The first three and a half months of 1935 have been the greatest in our history and we need additional ambitious men to take advantage of this growing business on the North and West Sides of Chicago and in adjoining suburbs. Especially the North Shore suburbs, Rockford, Elgin and Aurora. Write to P. O. Box 499, Evanston, Ill., providing you live out of town and are unable to answer in person.

Previous sales experience is not important, as many of our men came to us without experience and through study and hard work have been able to earn more than they ever earned before. For example, Mr. Andrews started the first of last week, and with no past experience in this business, he made $92 in five days. Mr. Leetzow, a young man only 21 years old, married and with a baby, was no relief. He was ambitious, it galled him to have to accept relief. He came into this business not because he thought he would understand or like electrical service or units, but because he had to make money. This was on Feb. 1, and up to and including April 20, his income has been $828. That is $12.50 for every working day since joining us. Do you think any type of charity could have brought him that much, or insured such peace of mind as he and his wife enjoy today? On May 23, 1933, a draftsman came into this work. He also was unemployed and knew little of our business, and didn't think he would like this work at all. With us less than 2 years, his earnings for last month were $750.

Another man, M. T. Jones, entered this business in the summer of 1932 from the theatrical management field, and thought so little of his chances here that he walked out of our office after his preliminary training, but decided to come back. This man has had many $400 months, and his commissions in a single month recently have run well above $500. If we accept a man, it is because our experience decides that he can make good, whether he agrees with us at the time, or has another opinion!

The man who will talk to you if you call was like many other men—thinking of what he once had made, and trying to adjust himself to less going by. He was on charity right here in Chicago for several months and last July he came into this business not because he liked it, but because he was thinking in the terms of making a living. He is successful in this work. That is why he will tell you about it if you come in the right frame of mind and will put in an hour or two if necessary to learn a little about it. These men are successful—and on the same basis, if you similarly apply yourself, you also can be successful, if we invite you to come into this work!

The reasons for this success are simple and plain. First, we have a service that is, for the first time, filling successfully one of the greatest needs of mankind—nothing else that even compares with it in the field, covered by basic patents—at a price that makes quick and ready sale—under a reliable guarantee from a responsible corporation whose executives are men of known integrity, ability and character.

Second, we have a system of training in this kind of work to prepare men to make money at once—you can draw a pay check your first week.

Third, it takes men who are honorable and upright to do this work. If you want to get into a business where real money is paid for successful effort, if you are willing to pay a working price for success, if you can furnish good character references, come in for personal interview Tuesday, April 30, from 10:30 to 12:00 a. m., or from 2:00 to 3:30 p. m., Suite 1803-4 at 20 E. Jackson-st.

COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY

has vacancies in several sales divisions for neat appearing young men. Commission and bonus. Excellent opportunities for experienced salesmen. Men selected will be trained according to previous experience or qualifications. See Mr. Schutze, Room 1035, 125 S. Clark-st., 9 to 11 a. m. only.

1935'S PARAMOUNT OPPORTUNITY

The First National Institute of Allied Arts, with over 1,500 branches in the United States, has opening for a serious minded, ambitious, enthusiastic and determined young man; only requirements are character references and the ability to meet people. Commission and expenses paid while learning. See Mr. A. Miller, Monday, between 2-5 p. m., Sherman Hotel, N. Clark and Randolph-sts.
